A FABLE FOR FRESHMEN

STORY OF THE GOOD YOUNG ATHLETE

Tale of his Career at the University and the Great Success he Achieved by Sawing Wood

There was once a young man of stature and fleetness who broke into the university. He was of great prep renown and when he appeared on the gridiron for practice, the Correspondents of the big dailies sent in hurry calls for the telegraph boy.

Notwithstanding his great Rep, this young man worked hard and did everything the Coach told him as well as he could:

He was not in the line-up of first game, but he did not inform his friends that the Coach had it in for him nor did he quit suddenly and say he couldn't get along with the Coach.

He worked harder than ever and wrote the folks at home that the other Man was a bit better for the Position.

At the Close of the season he did not raise a holler because he did not receive a Varsity Emblem, though he had subbed in several Games.

He tried in the winter for the Basketball team and gained speed and quickness though he did not make the Team.

In the spring he was sub on the Track team but he didn't say the coach was no good because he wasn't Manufactured into a Star that Year.

The next fall he made the eleven after some very hard work. The varsity was defeated that year but this young man did not knock on the Coach but put in his time working hard on what the coach told him to do to the Man he went up against.

When some of his friends asked him why he kept on trying for the Basketball and track and baseball teams, he said "I not only want the exercise and the help it is to me individually but I want to help my University all I can by trying to do for her and maybe sometime I'll have a chance to pay back some of the Debt I owe her for the good she is doing me.

When committees came to him for Money to help Athletics, he always found that he could give something gladly by figuring a little, though he did not have a Wad.

When the Manager forgot himself and paid $2 for a bus when a dray at $1.75 would have carried the team to the Hotel, he didn't howl but said: "He's doing the best he can, besides he's done nicely in several deals."

When he was a Senior and captain of three Varsity Teams, he heard a bunch of fellows say they thought the Coach was on the bum and the board of Control an awful mistake. "I'm surprised at you, fellows! How can you think such Things!" he exclaimed in a Shocked tone of Voice.

When he was graduated from the University, he was tempted by many managers to play for Coin, but he said: "Go to. I have worn my University's Colors and I should bring sorrow upon her if I accepted money for public Performances of the Athletic skill she Taught me."

When he had Started up business out in the wilds, he sent back a Good-Sized check every year to help Athletics.

Moral: This Story teaches that all liars are not dead yet.

BAIRD GETS THREE MORE YEARS

Baird, the manager of athletics for the University of Michigan for the past three years, has been elected for three years more by the regents of the university. This will be highly pleasing to the students of Michigan who would probably strike if they lost their Baird. Incidentally, it makes Michigan sure of having fine teams for the next three years to come.

PRINCE OF DENMARK

SHAKESPEARE'S MASTER CHARACTER PRESENTED

Samuel Arthur King Makes His Second Appearance in the Greatest Role in Literature

Samuel Arthur King more than met the expectations of his audience last night in the title role of Hamlet Prince of Denmark. Were Hamlet himself to choose his interpreter, he could have desired no better than the one who took the part last night.

While all can appreciate the fact that King is a student, yet he is pre-eminently an actor. The nicety of inflection, the tone, the gesture all prove that he has studied long and well this character. Yet for all this the most of the time he was perfectly natural. King failed where Shakespeare himself failed, in his portrayal of the weak. King is not nor never can be a great comedian; nor can he act the role of a secondary character. It may be he is only contented with the master roles; for when he assumes them, then his stage mannerisms are gone. Then he truly follows the advice to the players. Let the spirit of the play, for which King so much contends, conquer the actor, and and we have in King a master.

The role which King took last night is the most difficult, and the most misinterpreted of any. For an actor, accustomed to all the trappings of the stage, to assume this role with but a chair for stage property, requires genius. To do this to the satisfaction of his audience requires an artist. King is both. People who have thought that there could be only mediocracy in reciting have had those thoughts controverted by Samuel Arthur King in the roles of Shylock and Hamlet.

The committee announces that a list entirely of the latest pieces has been submitted for its approval. The event promises to be a rare treat. Date Jan 30.

An Organized Alumni

One of the greatest weaknesses of the University is that it has no alumni! No enthusiastic, interested, helping, pushing body of alumni. The university has five thousand true and loyal sons and daughters whom she has graduated but with one or two shining exceptions such as at Mason City and Des Moines, they are not organized and you seldom hear of them. Iowa's alumni honor their alma mater abundantly by honoring themselves and occasionally even make a trip up to the old campus just to show their loyalty. A few of them are actively engaged in helping the university, prominent among whom is W. H. Bremner of Des Moines who has continually since his graduation devoted his time and means not a little to Iowa. There is no doubt but what the whole body of alumni, every single one of them, are helping the university a great deal all the time in ways that are never heard of, by speaking a good word or turning a stone now and then. But what we need is an active, aggressive, fighting militant alumni, ever ready to take up the cudgels for their university and who will work and scheme for her just as if she belonged to them.

To accomplish this there must be organization; alumni societies, and good live ones in active correspondence with the University. Let it be said that wherever two or three are gathered together there shall be an alumni society. Every student who goes out from the University whether a graduate or not should take upon himself the stirring up and organization of these alumni associations, and thus make University centers in every town and county in Iowa.

The Illini heads its story of the debate between the Philomatheans and Illinois as follows: "Illinois defeats Iowa." It is impossible to make the people understand it in any other way than that the University of Illinois defeated the University of Iowa last Friday night. This is the evil of the present debating system.

There is great opportunity offered to Iowa students today in being allowed to hear the man who lectures to the greatest graduate school in the country on public speaking, give the principal landmarks in that subject.

"Nebraska" is the title of a 48-page book descriptive of the agricultural resources of the state, profusely illustrated with farm scenes and supplemented with an accurate sectional map. "Big Horn Basin" is an illustrated folder telling all about the rich but undeveloped portion of Northwestern Wyoming. The Big Horn Basin contains wonderful openings for small ranches along good streams, with a million acres of government land open for settlement under the United States land laws. A play that will satisfy to the utmost the demands of all classes of theatre goers is "The Prisoner of Zenda" which is booked at the opera house tonight.

The production of Holden Bros, Denver express promises a few genuine surprises in theatrical achievements, both mechanically and artistically. One critic who witnessed the first production in New York wrote thus tersely of it: "A great deal of laughter, a tear or two, a thrill and a vision of human nature that touches the heart and sends you away in pleasant thoughts." Denver Express will be at the opera house, Monday, January 26.

STUDENTS IN ALL COLLEGES

Students may pay tuition and re-register for the second semester from now until Saturday, February 21, except that from February 6 to February 11, inclusive, the office will be regularly open for registration purposes for new students only. This is necessary for the reason that semester reports must be collated.

After Saturday, February 21, students not properly registered are not entitled to be in attendance upon classes.

Students who are reported to this office as failed, or conditioned, or passed at 6 only, or as having unfinished work, for the first semester, will be notified to this effect as soon as the semester reports are collated. Students not receiving such a notice will understand their work has been satisfactory. Except for purposes of registration no other reports with regard to standing will be given out. Four days after the close of the semester are allowed to instructors in which to make returns to this office. It is expected that within a week or ten days from the close of the semester all students may know definitely whether their work for the first semester has been reported to this office as complete or not.

STUDENTS IN THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Students in the college of liberal arts who do not wish to pay tuition now and re-register regularly in advance are requested, in order that registration may be facilitated, to file in the office of the registrar during January a program of their studies for the second semester. Cards for this purpose may be obtained at the office. In cases where no change in program is contemplated students are requested to call and leave notice to that effect. February 12, 13, and 14, preference in registration will be given to those who have previously arranged programs of study.

Changes in divisions will be allowed only when necessary.

Students will please bear in mind that registration is not completed until tuition is paid; and only when this is certified, is registration in a certain division secured. When word is received thrt enough have regularly registered to make a full division no one will be allowed thereafter to register for that section without written permission from the head of the department.

Students who fail in work of the first semester in which beginning classes are offered for the second semester will be required to re-register for the same work.

A record of attendance is kept from the opening of the semester and though students may not be registered at once they should be regularly in attendance upon classes for which they intend to register.

Programs of second semester recitations may be obtained either at this office or at the dean's.
