HANDBALL MEET

Indoor Meet to be a Handicapping Event

Entries Must be in by March 25

The indoor meet to be held Saturday, March 25, will be handicapped.

The committee in charge of the meet is highly anxious to handicap the event in order to avoid bunching at the start. Captain Anderson states that the handicapping will give each man a fair chance to win. Long and strenuous arguments have been held on this point in the past and it is nowhere recorded that it was decided at the end of the discussions.

A BIG EVENT

The event which will have the largest number of entries is the 25-yard dash. The distance is so short and the problem of starting quickly or beating Monday's meet so much a matter of chance that practically everyone of the eighty candidates will enter the event. A number of preliminaries will be held.

THE EVENTS

A new event, the mile run has been added to the list of Events of the meet. The program will include nine field events and track events, two being relays.

Captain Anderson requires that the entries be handed to him by Saturday evening Mar. 14.

GOVERNORS' MESSAGES

Pro. Shaubang Compiles Documents of the Governors of Iowa

The initial volume of the "Messages and Proclamations of the Governor's of Iowa" has just come from the hands of the pubisher. The work is published by the State Historical Society of Iowa under the authority of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly. At the urgent of the Board of Directors of that society Pro. Benjamin F. Shaubang undertook the arduous task of compiling and editing the manuscript.

The governors are named in chronological order, commencing with Hon. Henry Dodge who held sway over Iowa when still a part of the territory of Wisconsin. The messages of each governor, from 1836 to the present date, are grouped under the respective periods.

The documents thus treated are of four classes, financial addresses and messages to the legislature at regular sessions; reports of a session; various messages; special messages; and proclamations. The documents are arranged as far as possible, taken from the original sources, and arranged in the territorial and state legislatures and rarely from secondary sources. The work is therefore perfectly authentic and very complete.

The first volume contains the biographical sketches of the four territorial and the first two state governors, as well as all official documents uttered by them. The sketches are natural, the only original articles and are from the pen of Pro. Shaubang.

A as a source of ready reference, the rejoicing governors are invaluable to the student of territorial and state government. It is of great bene-to the working histories of the early settlers of this state.

Aside from the four volumes of documents, each of some 500 pages, a new volume will be a fifth volume of 200 pages, containing an index, by topics, of all the manuscripts included in the work. The second volume is already in the hands of the printer and the last will be published before the close of the year.

VISITOR WORKED STUDENTS

The Chicago Daily Maroon prints the following about a Visitor at Chicago University:

A gentleman whose business it is to go from college to college teaching the science of magic and or-chise, principally otherwise, has just visited the university and departed. The men have separated themselves from ten-dollar bills and are in the sewer gallery at the close of the season. The gentleman said that six-dollar bill rate was a bar-drain of a regular rate to business men was fifty dollars.

Honoris are easy in the oratorical contest.

Philotemates two, Irvinings two, Zetachanics two is the proposition in which the societies will be represented in the final contest. The last set of marks on thought and composition were received this morning from Judge S. F. Prousty of Des Moines who by some mistake did not receive the orations on time. These were averaged with those of Judge H. E. Doemer and Rev. C. A. Moore of Davenport with the result as above announced.

The marking is close this year, and but very few points separated the highest and lowest orations. A total of ten orations was submitted to the judges on thought and composition and from them the highest will be given in the home contest to be held on March 17. At this contest the men who rank highest will be given the average of his marks on delivery and thought and composition will represent the University in the final contest at Minneapolis. Those who win second and third places will go as delegate and alternate respectively, to the meeting of the league.

The six who pass the judges on thought and composition with the subjects of their orations are:

Philosophical Club

Dr. Mary Lawson Neff, of Cedar Rapids, was selected as superior paper at the regular meeting of the Philosophical club held in the philosophical lecture room last evening. She discussed in a very able and a very practical way the important topic of "Mental Hygiene." She gave special con-teride to Fatigue, Play, Habit and Education, and Degeneracy. The paper was an unusually able and interesting one, and presented a line of thought of scientific and practical value. After the paper, Dr. Neff answered a number of questions and gave further emphasis to the points bearing upon the points presented on the paper in the form of comments and questions from members of the club.

PROF. NUTTING delivered the cord of his latest close-study lecture last night before the department of zoology. The subject of the lecture was "Highways and Byways of Naples."

Theatrical Club

The announcement by the theatrical club of their intention to put on a play for the benefit of the athletic debt will be rec-ceived with hearty approval. The theatrical club is doing very good work and its first—public appearance would in any case be looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation. But when to this is added the fact that the proceeds go into the common fund, the night of the performance will be turned into a great ovation.

The growth of the university is as slow and gradual as that of the forms of nature. It is a development. It is only at intervals that changes can be noted and by means of comparisons with previous conditions. Take for example the department of zoology which continues steadily broadening and expanding and widening its scope and yet does this so gradually and easily that the progress one closely acquainted with the work being done.

The hallways of the liberal arts building are continually kept too warm. This may be unavoidable with the heating system but it is a never-the-less unpleasant fact.

"The undergraduate department is much weaker than I expected to find it. Out of about four thousand students registered this past year only five hundred are undergraduates in Columbia college. There are five hundred graduates in political science; philosophy; and pure science: five hundred students of law; eight hundred in the school of medicine; and seven hundred in applied science. Harvard, which is for girls alone and Teachers'college, which is co-educational, has about a thousand students. So none of the professors think that it would be good to go off Columbia College altogether, and make Columbia University one of the finest and professional school exclusively.

Labor and the Law

Justice Deemer of the Supreme Court delivered a lecture to Phi Delta Phi last night at their halls on College street. The subject was Labor and the Law and it was a very deep excursion into the mysteries of the labor problem of today. Particular attention was paid to the relation of law and the law courts to labor and the vast number of safeguards the law throws around the manual workers were mentioned.

Short epigrams from the lecture are:

"The nineteenth century had to settle the question of slave labor, the twentieth century has to settle the great problem of free labor."

"Legislation has not in general favored the wealthy and in many cases capital has prospered in spite of legislation."

"The public has decided it has an interest in these contests between labor and capital."

"Compulsory arbitration is not arbitration at all."

"This great question whether either have to be settled by capital and labor themselves or else by legislation very close to socialism."
