GRINNELL DEFEATED

IOWA WINS AT BASKETBALL IN THE ARMY

Men Play in Excellent Form—Gรหth Stars—Champions—Ship a Tie

In a game filled with sensational play on both sides the basketball team defeated the Grinnell college basketball team by the score of 34-17 in the Armory last night. A preliminary contest between teams represented the freshmen and sophomores resulted in a victory for the latter by the score of 20-10.

The event was the occasion of the first athletic contest held in the Armory for the benefit of the west end spectators were located on the running track.

The attendance was the largest of any game this season. The change of the shape of the court occasioned by the lengthening of the space between the two goals as compared with the basketball court in the old Y. M. C. A. gymnasium made a material difference in the result. Grinnell suffered most by the change finding it hard to cover their own goal rapidly. Otherwise the play of the Hawkeyes was brilliant, the work of Griffith especially bringing cheers from the spectators. Barton also showed up in excellent form both men making four baskets apiece.

Captain Schenck's steadiness in throwing goals from foul all but won the game for the university. In eight chances he negotiated six successful baskets in a row which left Grinnell who only scored twice in four attempts.

Line up: Morrissoc, Griffith; Valentine, Barton; Belden, Shaw; Brick, Schenck.

Goals from foul: Griffith four; Barton, four; Skelley, one; Valentine, one; Belden five; Brundige six; Schenck six.

The game renewal Iowa's hope for the college championships in the state. Grinnell and Iowa are the only college teams in the state which have not suffered defeat at another team's hands. Each team has scored one game over the other and sustained one defeat. Last year a similar situation resulted in the final game being played here. Iowa winning the game and the championship. This deciding game will have to be played in Grinnell. The visiting team left for Cedar Rapids today where they will play Coe tonight.

The new rules for the final Hamilton Club Contest are in the hands of Professor Gordon. Students expecting to enter the procedure are requested to consult these rules at once.

In Colleges and Universities—Considered From a Economic and Standpoint

Genl Sherman, whose wide and varied experience of both military and civil affairs entitled him to speak with authority gave utterance to the following: "I can not help pleading to my countrymen to cherish all that is manly and noble in the military profession, because peace is envying and no man is wise enough to foresee when soldiers may be in demand again."

These sentiments expressed by General Sherman must last his death seems almost prophetic in the light of the later developments incident to the Spanish American War, and the subsequent demand for experienced soldiers for service in the Philippines. That such a demand may be far more possible and even probable, the most optimistic will not attempt to deny. The government has made elaborate preparations. Provision has been made to train the youths of our country the essential elements of a military education, by establishing military departments in the various colleges and universities throughout the United States and supplying them with arms, equipment, and books of instruction and providing experienced officers to conduct the work thereof. The purpose of the government is not to encourage or foster a spirit of militarism, but to provide a necessity. Throughout the various states, the elementary principles of military organization, command and discipline, and to provide a liberal spirit of self-mastery, to make the youth of the country capable of enrolling the national military.

Herein lies the importance of this work, and of the question so frequently asked of that practical or economic use it has had or will have. An examination of the rolls of the national guard of Iowa will disclose the fact that a very large percent of the officers and non-commissioned officers, and graduates of schools of this character, and today in the war department is soliciting university graduates who have taken the military department of the University of Iowa will reveal the fact that a surprisingly large number of the officers in the present organization are graduates of schools of this character, and today the war department is soliciting university graduates who have taken the military department of the University of Iowa. The president offers annually six commissions as second lieutenant in the army to the graduating class of military schools making the best record as indicated by the recommendations of the War Department Inspectors.

So much for the practical side of the question. Considered from the economic aspect, it must be asked of what use is the military?

George Washington said: "The militia of this country must be considered as the palladium of our security, and the first effective resort in case of hostility." Alexander Hamilton said: "A tolerable experience in military movements is a business that requires time and practice. It is not a day nor a week, but even a month, that will add to the attainment of it."

If the arguments for military training and discipline as advocated by Washington and Hamilton of their preliminary instruction in schools of this nature was the best possible means of education, by providing experienced officers to conduct the work thereon. The purpose of the government is not to encourage or foster a spirit of militarism, but to provide a necessity. Throughout the various states, the elementary principles of military organization, command and discipline, and to provide a liberal spirit of self-mastery, to make the youth of the country capable of enrolling the national military.

The question for debate is: That the United States adopt a system of national military education in the public schools for the purposes of INSURANCE and SECURITY, and promote the general prosperity by training a large number of officers and men qualified for the purpose of serving in the national army in case of war or danger.

The question will be affirmed by the following, J. W. Hutchinson, B. F. Wyland and J. E. Goodwin. It will be denied by Zogas, T. H. F. Smith, R. R. Randolph and E. B. Biddulph.

This debate will be one of the most spirited and fiercely fought contests ever held under the auspices of the debating league.

Both sides are confident and are determined to win.

mendations that provision be made by law for a military professorship in the university. Such a professorship will not only popularize the institution, but, I think, will impart to our young men a kind of knowledge, the result of which has cost us many men and much treasure, since the commencement of the rebellion; and the necessity for which in the future, the history of other nations teaches may come upon us at any time.

"The Board of education at their last session directed the trustees of the university to establish a military professorship as soon as the general assembly should make the necessary appropriations. I have placed two hundred stand of arms with accoutrements in the hands of the Faculty and I earnestly commend the matter to your favorable consideration.

Aside from the material advantages according to the state as the result of military training and discipline, much might be said of the physical benefits derived by the individual participants in the same; however, this is too apparent to necessitate anything more than a mere reference.

The present Board of Regents of the university have shown in a substantially manner their appreciation of the importance of the subject, by providing a magnificent drill hall for indoor work, and the President of the university is heartily in favor of and has always given the military department his unqualified support. It only remains to awaken some interest in the students to the importance of securing the rudiments of a military education by taking advantage of the opportunity here afforded, and for that purpose this article was undertaken. If it serves to impart to the thoughtless, an appreciation of the debt that good citizens owe their government and a realization that they may at any time be called upon to do their duty, then its purpose will have been sufficiently achieved.
