Will Debate So. Dakota

Philomatheans Have Arranged Debate and Question Has Been Chosen.

Word was received today from the South Dakota university debating authorities that that school will take the negative of the question to be debated with Iowa this year. The question submitted to South Dakota about four weeks ago is, "Resolved, That free election is the best available plan for an undergraduate course of study in a college of liberal arts." Thus the local debaters will support the free elective plan.

This debate will be held in Iowa City early next spring. The Iowa boys are working on this same question for a preliminary discussion to be held shortly before the holiday vacation. Two teams have been selected for this preliminary, consisting of Messrs. Buffum, Butterworth and Kruse, on the affirmative, and Dow, Baird and Fousek on the negative. After this home contest, the team for the final debate will be chosen.

This is the first of two debates with South Dakota, to be held under a compact entered into near the close of last year. The team representing Iowa will be chosen from the Philomathean society. It is expected that a strong debate will be held, as the question seems to be one which is well balanced.

A TREAT TO ASSEMBLY STUDENTS.

There was quite a surprise at the assembly this morning. After the devotional exercises a musical program was given as follows:

Soprano solo, Miss Flora Baldwin; baritone solo, Mr. Dickinson; violin solo, Mr. DeBray; tenor solo, Mr. McDonald.

The scripture lesson, "Clap your hands, all ye people," was obeyed both in the letter and spirit of the law. Each number was a treat, and there was only one regret. That was that time prevented encores. May we have them again.

THE GRADUATE CLUB.

The Graduate club held a business meeting last evening, getting organized and ready for this year's work. The executive committee of the club was selected. This committee consists of the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, together with seven other members. The seven members selected are as follows: Miss Chawner, Messrs. Starch, Fitch, Perkins, Edmondson, Wassam and Albert. The officers for this year: President, Mr. Buffum; vice president, Miss Rigby; secretary, Miss Taylor, and treasurer, Mr. Schneider.

Arrangements were perfected at the meeting for getting Mrs. Florence Kelley, of New York City, to give a lecture here, November 8, on "Idle Men and Starving Children." Mrs. Kelley is one of the strongest writers and speakers on topics concerning the child labor movement in the United States. The Graduate club is exceedingly fortunate, and is doing a service to the University and the city in getting her here for this lecture. Further announcements will be made later.

THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

On What It Depends and What Teams Look Best.

Grinnell's defeat of Drake, a heavier team than their own, has given the dopsters a great deal to talk about. Last year Drake beat Grinnell badly, as did also Ames and Iowa. Iowa's score in the Iowa-Grinnell game was 69 to 0, or thereabouts. Subs were used almost entirely by Iowa in that game.

One thing is certain. Grinnell is very much stronger or Drake is considerably weaker. Grinnell's having a good coach lends favor to the former declaration, while many believe Drake is as strong or stronger. At any rate Drake hasn't been playing the ball that was expected of her. Coe held Drake to a 15 to 33 score, while the same school held Grinnell to a 4 to 5 score. Grinnell, however, turned around and defeated Drake by the same score. Iowa defeated Coe 27 to 0, the latter school making first down but once, and Ames played Coe to the same score.

The present situation in championship circles points to Ames and Iowa as favorites, Grinnell coming next. Iowa plays Grinnell a week from Saturday and Ames plays the same team the week following. A good line-up on the two teams can be obtained after the games with Grinnell.

PROF. CALVIN'S LECTURE.

Gives Interesting Description of Yellowstone Park.

Professor Calvin's fame as a lecturer does not suffer in Iowa City because this is his home—"a prophet not without honor except in his own country" notwithstanding. It was not strange therefore, that a large and expectant audience gathered in Physics Hall Friday night to listen to his paper on "Vulcanism in Yellowstone Park." The following are a few of the thoughts that were presented. The tertiary age, which preceded the present age, was a period of great geological activity in the region of Yellowstone park. Vulcan reigned there. He is responsible for most of the striking phenomena which draw sight seers to this region. In other parts of the earth, also, there was great volcanic activity. The geological formations of this region reveal the fact that periods of rest followed by periods of volcanic eruptions have succeeded one another again and again. Underlying more recent formations are extensive fields of breccia. This consists of broken fragments of material ejected by violent explosions.

Layers of lava, weathered lava, material laid down by the sea, are all found succeeding one another and give evidence of periods of volcanic disturbance, of periods of quiet and of periods of subsidence and upheaval. In recent times these violent disturbances have ceased but vast areas are still covered with lava as a result of them. In some places, the lava is still hot. To this fact are due many of the phenomena which make the Yellowstone famous.

Many of these phenomena were explained. A large number of stereoptican views were thrown on the screens at the close of the lecture. These made clearer the points brought out in the paper.

Among those in attendance were the members of Miss Startzman's geography class from the grammar school.

VARSITY AND FRESHMAN SCRIMMAGE.

The Varsity and the first year men scrimmaged last evening on the Iowa field, but it was but fair results, because of the absence of so many of the regulars. Atkinson, Rockwood, Streff, Chalmers, Murphy, Kent and several others were absent. Perrine was tried at right end, and subs were used to fill the other vacant places, also.

A much better showing is expected this evening. Most of the regulars will be in the line-up. Kent, Chalmers and Murphy are still on the hospital list. As the State Normal game will not be a hard one probably these three will not play.

BEN BLAIR.

One of the Most Widely Advertised Books is From the Pen of An Alumnus of S. U. I.

One of the most widely advertised and talked of books is "Ben Blair," by Will Lillibridge, graduate of the dental department of '98.

The story is a strong one dealing with Dakota life. Cerny & Louis have had a window display of this book for several days, and the sales are good.

The author is a personal friend of both Mr. Cerny and Miss Louis. For a time he was in Dr. Breene's office.

After graduating from the dental department Mr. Lillibridge spent a year in the liberal arts department as a pupil of Prof. Ansley. He is practicing dentistry at Sioux Falls.

A recent bulletin issued by the department of commerce and labor contains a report of a conference on the weights and measures of the United States held at the bureau of standards in Washington on January 16 and 17 of this year. The principle feature of the bulletin is a paper on the history of the United States weights and measures by Mr. L. A. Fischer, a member of the bureau. Among other remarks printed in full are those of Prof. L. G. Weld, state superintendent of weights and measures for Iowa.

Dr. Bolton Speaks.

"The Teaching Age" is Delivered Before a Large Body of Teachers at Waterloo.

The Waterloo Daily Times-Tribune of Saturday gives a lengthy article about Dr. F. E. Bolton's lecture to the teachers at that place. It was one of the strongest and most interesting papers at the meeting. Some of the salient points are given below:

"In former times, the colleges and academies were designed for the few, that is, the classes instead of the masses. The original college and academy were designed to train up ministers and their courses of study were designed to prepare for the ministry, and were utilitarian in the sense that they prepared for a special calling. Those who secured training for the practice of law, medicine and various other occupations were obliged to serve long apprenticeships. At the present time all of this has changed. The future lawyer, doctor, dentist, druggist, librarian, engineer, etc., all find it the most economical plan to secure their preparation in the best schools. This makes a demand for teachers instead of the era of apprenticeship and general "shotgun" education, and thus has become an age of teaching specialists.

"The old idea of education as a mere discipline, as a process, is to be replaced by the ideal of results obtained. We no longer believe that it is important to go through the process for the sake of the process. The result must be worth while. Although schools have not been supported as liberally as may be desired, it is certain that as soon as the people can realize that the practical results can only be accomplished through higher training, they will support the schools."

Prof. Bolton mentioned his belief that the government would do well to pay the board and expenses of all intending teachers. We do this at West Point and Annapolis for our soldiers and sailors. The government also has paid $31,000,000 to support agricultural schools. Is not the training of teachers of an equal importance with the education of farmers? Is it not more important to train boys and girls than to raise beets and turnips?

The class in astronomy on Monday morning discovered an unusually large sun spot just appearing around the eastern edge of the sun's disk. While under observation it showed changes in form which, considering its dimensions, imply great activity. It will traverse the sun's disk during the next fortnight and will be watched with interest. Brilliant auroral displays are likely to be seen during this period.

The University of Minnesota has received a donation of $200,000 for the purpose of erecting a students' hospital. Any sick students will be cared for here. It will be great for the medical students in clinic work.

EVILS OF THE GAME.

Football is a matter over which people differ radically. There can be no possible agreement at present. Perhaps it will come some day. Now it must be mutual forbearance.

The extract below is quoted from an exchange and credited to the Alumni Weekly. It is rather hard on the supporters of the game, but there is some truth in it:

"Of late years it has been dangerous to even hint that there could be anything wrong with football. Word has been passed along not to say anything about this and that acknowledged rank condition of affairs for fear the prospects of the team would be injured, 'At least don't say anything about it until after the game.' After the game, if we won, 'Don't say anything to mar the fruits of the victory,' and if the team lost, 'Don't kick a man when he is down.' Whatever came, whatever was done, one must not say anything against the sport or in criticism of the way in which it was conducted.

"The man who dared to speak otherwise than in praise of what was being done has been termed a 'knocker.' If President Roosevelt's action has done nothing else than to break this spell it will have been worth the effort.

"The evil at which President Roosevelt has aimed is real, and ought to be eradicated, and its eradication will improve the game from all points of view. But we very much fear that this brutality which it is aimed to abolish is but one expression of a greater evil which threatens the game of football. Brutality is, we think, but the outgrowth of the spirit of 'anything to win,' which in turn, is largely if not wholly the outgrowth of the professionalism which has come to permeate the noble game. Deny it as we will, the ugly fact remains, glossed over it may be with specious explanations and excuses, that football has become strictly professional."

We give below an extract from an address by Henry Van Dyke at Cornell university.

This is strongly friendly to athletics but to the best kind. It is as follows:

"The subject of athletics is one receiving a great deal of attention these days. But it is my opinion that we have too little of college athletics. Vigorous, manly exercise should be diffused throughout the university. True gentlemanly sport should be generally cultivated. Let us be proud of our teams because they have been cleanly chosen and cleanly trained, and are going to play fair. I don't want to hear any criticism of college athletics from men who have never been in college athletics, and don't know what they mean. But let us have honesty and straightforwardness rule supreme in all sport, and let the undergraduate bodies of our universities engender a spirit which will broaden and strengthen the proper sort of athletics."

We think it is not the proper thing for any of us to take a stand against athletics. This will not prevent us from speaking against the faults that may be apparent. Yet our attitude should be one of helpfulness.

At the same time we want the athletic people to bear in mind that a day will soon come when they will be called upon to support the contestants in forensic and other lines. They ought to be ready to do it with a will.

Let us all look upon the thing that interests our fellow student. Let our attitude be one of mutual helpfulness and co-operation.
