Kansas Preliminary Debate.

Laws Prepare to Show Kansas a Thing or Two.

In the auditorium of the Hall of Liberal Arts Friday evening will be held the Kansas preliminary debate to decide the personnel of the team which will represent Iowa against the Kansas university team. The preliminary will be between the Forum and Hammond law societies, and promises to be a feast for all lovers of eloquence and fine oratory. Dean Charles Noble Gregory of the college of law will preside. The question which will be debated is this:

"Resolved, That the United States should establish a fiscal protectorate over any West Indian, South or Central American republic manifesting a chronic failure to meet its financial obligations.

"Granted: That neither such republic nor any other foreign power would object."

Affirmed for the Forum by Messrs. Catlin, Christy and Miller.

Denied for Hammond by Messrs. Green, Nolte and Miss Clara McCullough.

BASES OF ANIMAL BEHAVIOR.

Second of Prof. Houser's Lectures.

Prof. Houser gave the second of his series of biological lectures in the Liberal Arts auditorium last night at 7 o'clock. This lecture, while complete in itself, logically followed upon that given the previous Wednesday night by the same speaker. Prof. Houser spoke with his customary clearness and directness. He is showing in these lectures, his ability to give a clear cut and comprehensive view of a wide field of human knowledge in an hour's talk.

The basis of animal behavior, Prof. Houser says, is found outside of the animal's body. Energy of the outer world acts on an organism and motion results. In the evolution of animal behavior the two factors employed are, first, organic memory, and second, development of the organism so that internal impulse also influences behavior.

EDDA.

At the meeting of Edda January 13, Mr. Vallum read a paper on Gustavus Adolphus in the 30 years war. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. Gunderson; Secretary, Miss A. M. Anderson; Treasurer, Miss Kastman. At the meeting, on January 27, Professor Flom will give a lecture on Henrik Ibsen: Some Notes on the Biographical Background of his works.

EDITORS TO VISIT UNIVERSITY

Tomorrow at 8:45 the editors will go on a tour of inspection. They will visit the University dam, the gymnasium, the power plant, and engineering building before assembly. After the assembly they visit the old capitol, the observatory and the museum. Then they visit the bacteriological laboratories, the anatomy the chemistry and pharmacy buildings and end the forenoon by a visit to Close Hall.

Assembly.

Tomorrow at the assembly, at 9:45 o'clock, Mr. Downing of Fort Dodge, will speak. Harvey Ingham of the Register and Leader, an alumnus of S. U. I., and at one time regent, and other prominent editors will address the students.

ORGANIZATION WANTS HEALTH OFFICERS.

Plan Which Was Advocated to Enforce Collection if Vital Statistics is Adopted.

Drs. Valenta, Albert and Shewana have returned from Des Moines, where they attended the meeting of the state health officers association which met in that city. The organization will support the plan of County Health officers which has been advocated by Da. Valenta. Other bills which they will ask to be passed will be a Pure Food bill and one that will allow the state board of health to enforce its decrees.

After this year the meetings will be held in conjunction with the state board of health to enforce its decrees.

After this year the meetings will be held in conjunction with the state board of health and schools of instruction will be given. The next meeting will be at Waterloo.

DECIDED ACTION AT HARVARD.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—Harvard university definitely has abolished the game of football because, as played, it is a menace to the morals as well as the bodies of the players.

Not until the game has been reformed in a way acceptable to the board of trustees will its re-establishment be considered by the university authorities.

The discontinuance of the game is a result of a vote taken last week at a secret meeting of the board of overseers, when it was decided that intercollegiate football at Harvard would not be permitted until the rules and regulations had been so changed and amended as to remove what the overseers term as the evils of the present game. The overseers accepted unanimously the opinions of a special committee that the game as at present played is essentially bad in every respect, and that the methods of formation encouraged trickery and foul play.

Present Game Thoroughly Bad.

The committee declared that if changes were to be made no man now a member of the so-called intercollegiate rules committee should have a hand in it, the committee believing that these persons are so far committed to the present system that they could not agree to such changes as are absolutely necessary to produce a decent, clean, pleasureable contest, "instead of the present apology for a rough and tumble fight."

TWO GREAT MEN.

Chicago has just lost two great men; one the head of a great university, the other a great financier; the one a great educator, the other a merchant prince. Each had his place to fill and did it successfully. Now scholars, educators, statesmen and foremost American citizens are paying tribute to the two men. President Harper by his mastery in education was able to inspire men and lead them to future success. He built up and successfully conducted one of the great universities in the world. He was helpful, inspiring, strengthening to those who come in contact with him.

Marshall Field by his energy and power as a commercial organizer was able to work thousands of hands not his own. He built a great business in Chicago and now the people of the city pay tribute to his ability.

Both men were great, each has gone to his reward and Chicago alone will not mourn for them. They belong to the United States.

MAY PASS LAW AGAINST GAME.

Iowa Representative is of the Opinion that Football is not Proper Kind of Sport.

Des Moines, Jan. 18.—The anti-football bill which Representative Mark A. Dashiell of Indianola proposes to introduce in the house, will be aimed at high schools. Dr. Dashiell believes if college men want to play football they are old enough to look after themselves without the guardianship of the law.

"But with the high schools it is different," said Dr. Dashiell, in discussing his pet measure. "They are under the laws of the state and the state is responsible for the well being of the pupils. If college men want to break each other's bones in a game of football, that is possibly their own business. High school boys must be protected, and my bill will make the playing of football by them a crime. I had first expected to prohibit college football, but I have now decided to leave that to individual choice. Since it became known I contemplated introducing such a bill, I have received any number of letters from both the friends and enemies of football, the former seeking to dissuade me from my purpose. But I'm not at all disposed to relent, and I expect to introduce the bill this week."

Dr. Dashiell is a relative of Prof. Paul Dashiell of the United States military academy at Annapolis, who is one of the strongest advocates of football as it is now played.

Upper Des Moines Editorial Association.

Now in Session in the City—Will Visit University.

The session of the editorial association is in full swing. The first meeting was held this afternoon.

The wives and daughters of the visiting editors were entertained at a five o'clock tea by President and Mrs. George E. MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Koontz, Mrs. Ball, Miss Everts, dean of women; and the wives of the local editors. The reception took place at the home of the University president this afternoon.

The banquet this evening will be held at the Burkley Imperial. The following program of toasts will be given:

Elmer E. Johnston, toastmaster.
G. W. Ball, 'Iowa City and Its Visitors.'

J. B. Hungerford, 'The Editor as an Educator.'

J. Hamilton Lewis, 'Address.'

John T. Dalton, 'The Upper Des Moines Editorial Association.'

George E. MacLean, 'The University.'

Tomorrow morning the editors will spend in visiting the University and the city. Their business session will occur in the afternoon.

The visit of the association explains why assembly is held on Friday of this week. The editors will be present at this assembly. Everybody should be present for the exercises will be of interest to all.

A number of University people are interested in the sessions of the association. Prof. Wilcox will deliver an address, H. A. Burrell of Washington, who gives one of the papers, is a former regent. Harvey Ingham, L. A. '80, is also a former regent. A. H. Barnes of Eagle Grove is the father of H. W. Barnes, editor of the junior annual.

PRESIDENT JAMES' TRIBUTE TO HIS MOTHER.

"One of the early decisions which I had to make in my own life, and which I regard as of great importance for myself," said President James of Illinois university, "was occasioned by the foresight and vigor of a mother whose influence over her children was dominating in more ways than one, and that was the determination to secure the best possible education which the schools of this country or of Europe afforded. I remember distinctly when, at the age of twelve, the question was to be decided whether I was to go to one school or another, I was allowed to choose between two schools. And I chose, I must confess now as I look back upon it, probably under the skillful direction of my mother, the one which was known for its severity and strictness, for the closeness with which it exacted the very utmost amount of work in quantity and the very best quality."

IT GIVES US GREAT PLEASURE.

It is with no little pleasure that we extend to the editors a welcome to the University. Their visit should be of much value as well as a matter of pleasure.

Each visitor represents, in a certain way, a constituency of several hundred people, who are readers of his paper. The power of editorial opinions is sometimes under-estimated because it is so quietly exerted. Yet, when it comes to a final analysis, we find we have gained many of our ideas from the editorial opinions we have read perhaps so hurriedly that we seem to have forgotten them at once.

It is well that these men become acquainted with Iowa University. The school is doing a work that will bear close inspection. The institution is better appreciated after one has gone over it and gained an adequate idea of its magnitude.

We trust all students will hunt out their friends who may be in attendance and see to it that they are made welcome in a personal way.

THE RAVING.

The following poem was written by G. A. Briss, L. '03, of Fayette, Iowa. It explains some of his troubles soon after opening a law office. Not only the lawyer, who is starting has this trouble. Every man who starts in a new place and has to wait for business, knows how to sympathize.

The Raving.

It was on a bright June morning when all nature was adorning This old world with rare perfections of which she has a store,

That I left "Old Iowa City," little dreaming what a pity,
Left behind the fun and friends and balls and games galore,
To return again no more.

'Twas to greatness I was starting with no regrets at parting
With the jolly college life, that for years had been a bore.
While life lasts I'll ne'er forget the day I came up to Fayette,
And rented a rear office upon the second floor,
Hung my sign above the door.

Then with patience I sat waiting with my courage fast abating,
For the entrance of a client at my office door,
While the days and weeks were passing and the debts and bills amassing,
Mounting higher up and faster than they ever had before. It was hell
And nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, it was in the bright September,
I was sitting in my office dreaming of the days of yore,
Suddenly there came a stamping as of someone loudly tramping,
Trampling up my hall-way floor, coming nearer evermore.
With politeness I inquired, what this visitor desired,
He replied a chattel mortgage, his small stock to cover o'er.
"Fifty cents," I meekly stuttered, then an awful oath he uttered.
"It is robbery," he muttered, as he loudly banged the door, to come back
Ah; nevermore.

In my office still I'm sitting while the days and weeks are flitting,
Weak and weary, hopeless, humbled, sick and sore.
Large accounts I still am running, those I owe are daily running,
And the mortgage off my holdings will be lifted nevermore.

The Phi Beta Kappa society of Yale is contemplating sending out circulars to members of the freshmen class stating the requirements for membership in the society. In doing this it is seeking to promote higher scholarship in the college through informing the incoming class of opportunities which have, of late years, been neglected to a great extent. The members of the society are elected each year from those in the junior class who have maintained a certain standard of scholarship through the first and second years of their course.
