NEW BOOKS COME TO LIBRARY

HISTORICAL SOCIETIES EXCHANGE BOOKS.

Over 100 Volumes Have Been Secured From the Congressional Library—Some from Kansas.

Another addition has been made to the large collection of volumes in the State Historical department. The various historical societies, throughout the United States, exchange volumes whenever special books are desired. Within the last week one hundred volumes have been secured from the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C. Among this number is Galland's Iowa Immigrant, which is considered a very rare volume. The State Historical society at Topeka, Kans., has forwarded about nine hundred volumes of reports, publications of societies, and historical papers. Among these volumes can be found a large number of the Session Laws and Codes of the State of Kansas. The department now has almost a complete file of the Session Laws of that state. It may be well to mention that there are only three complete files of the Session Laws of our own state that are now accessible; these are kept, the first in the Historical Library at Iowa City, the second at Cedar Rapids, the third at Des Moines.

For the past five years, Prof. Shambaugh and Mr. Fitzpatrick have been putting forth every effort possible to increase the number of valuable volumes in the Historical department. It is their hope that the Iowa Historical library will soon contain as large and as valuable a collection of books and reports as some of our sister states.

Y. W. C. A. BUSINESS MEETING.

Combines Business With Pleasure—Members Get Acquainted and Make Plans.

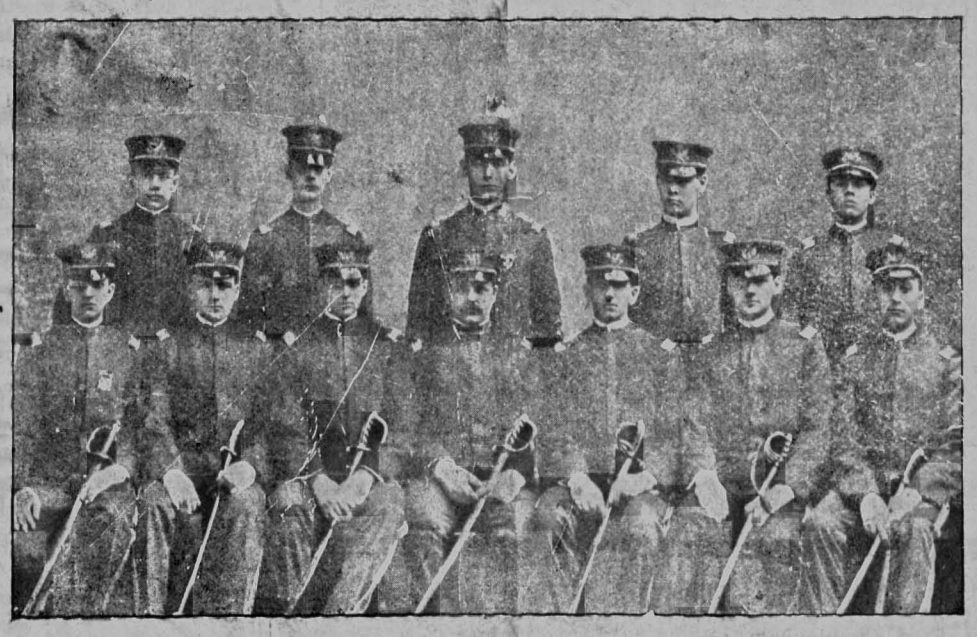
The Y. W. C. A held its first monthly business meeting at Close Hall with about fifty girls in attendance. After the reports of the past month's work and the discussion of plans for future work, the meeting adjourned for an informal spread which gave opportunity for the old and new members to become better acquainted.

The reports of the different committees show an encouraging beginning along all lines, and the prospects for the coming year's work are bright.

Special efforts are being made for a large enrollment in the Bible and Mission Study courses offered, and these efforts have met with unusual success so far.

One new feature of the Bible work this year is the organization of classes in each of the churches. These will meet at the Sunday school hour and will follow the systematic Bible study courses recommended by the association. It is hoped that through these classes, the association and the churches may be brought into closer touch with each other, and that students may be enabled to keep up their church work, while, at the same time, allying themselves with the association interests in college.

The junior Dents held a rousing and enthusiastic class meeting yesterday, when the following officers were elected: president, Harry Teege of Cedar Rapids; department manager of 1907 Hawkeye, T. T. Rider of Iowa City.



LAST YEAR'S COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

APPOINTMENTS READ TO BATTALION

A. FIFTH COMPANY IS FORMED IN THE BATTALION.

Large Number of Men Necessitates New Company—O. J. Emmons Will Be Captain.

In General Order, No. 1, Lieut. Weeks announced the appointment of battalion officers for the coming year at the regular drill last evening. Heretofore, many of the appointments have been made at the close of the school year. Last year, however, no hint as to future officers was given. Accordingly, this fall there was a great deal of interest shown in the list of appointments.

On account of the large increase in the number of men who have turned out for drill, it became necessary to form a new Company. It will be Company E, and will be under the command of O. J. Emmons, with the other officers as given below. There are still a great number of men who have not, as yet, turned out for drill, and it is possible that one more company will be formed, thus making two battalions of three companies each.

Following is the list of appointments:

ENGINEERING SOCIETY MEETS

GENERAL ENGINEERING SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING.

Speeches by Some of the Professors —Officers Elected for the Coming Year.

The General Engineering society held its first meeting of the year in the lecture room of the Physics hall last evening at 7:00 p. m. Vice-president Emmons presided over the meeting. Dean Raymond was first called upon. He responded with a short talk on the benefits to be derived from the society and urged every engineer to join. During the talk he emphasized the fact that the engineering library was in the building for reading purposes, and that all the students should keep posted on current engineering news. Toward the close of his remarks, he spoke briefly of the many openings for the civil engineer, and how the field had broadened in recent years.

Professor Ford, as head of the Electrical Engineering department, was then called upon to speak a little concerning his branch of the work. He emphasized the fact that the society and the students could do each other much good and urged each student to take part in the work. He spoke of the great openings for electrical engineers and how their field of work had changed from that of overseers of machinery, etc., to that of managers and superintendents of plants.

Chairman Emmons then asked Professor Ohle, as head of the Mechanical Engineering department for a few words.

As he declared that the former speakers had "stolen his thunder," he re-emphasized the points brought out by them, and gave a few words on the openings for the mechanical engineer.

At the conclusion of these remarks, a business meeting was called for the annual election of officers. The balloting passed off smoothly with the following results:

President—O. J. Emmons.
Secretary—H. L. Ogg.
Treasurer—A. L. Goetz.

The Electrical Engineers seemed to be the general favorites for they obtained all the offices, although they were not in the majority.

The president was empowered to appoint a committee of three to look up new members for the society.

Steps were also taken to form an effective Engineer rooting club to meet the "Aggies" on Nov. 24. A committee of three was appointed for this purpose. After transacting some minor business, the meeting adjourned.

UNIQUE WORK OF ART.

Facsimile of University Seal Molded In Plaster of Paris.

Many people are stopping in front of the Iowa Book store's show window, to examine the plaster copy of the University seal which was hung there yesterday noon. It is the work of Mrs. Frank E. Horack, and is an exact fac-simile, enlarged to a diameter of about twelve inches. The cast is richly finished in black and gold, and in execution and perfection of detail is nothing less than a work of art.

These enlarged plaster seals are very popular in eastern schools, being used largely for decorative purposes.

GETTING ORGANIZED.

The lull has come. The year always opens with a series of spasmodic efforts to get settled, to get acquainted, to make a schedule, to secure new members for our particular fraternity or society. Then we rest and recuperate, feeling that we have done our duty and got things once more organized.

The number of first meetings of this, that, and the other society that the Iowan is called upon to chronicle just now is something of an eye-opener in regard to the breadth of University life. If your particular interest is philosophy or science, or forensics, or languages, or literary work, or athletics, or in some professional study, you can find a group of specialists organized to pursue that very line. And the man who fails to find congenial company and activities in this University may as well be prepared to move off the planet, as we have a pretty fair line of samples of all the kinds that are worth while.

THE MILITARY APPOINTMENTS.

The announcement of the new appointments to the batallion yesterday closed a period of rather tense expectation. Now that the matter is settled, the men seem to be well satisfied with results. It is admitted that those who received the honors deserved them, that merit and ability were the only considerations.

As appeared from the War Department report recently published, a great deal depends upon efficient work by the officers. The new appointees seem thoroughly competent, and they are received favorably by their commands. Things look promising for the battalion this year, the one thing needful now to make its work profitable is that the men should continue in the same enthusiasm with which they started, having the feeling that if the work is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.

B. R. Huntington, Medic '07, who was called home Friday, on acount of the death of his brother, returned yesterday.

FRED J. CUNNINGHAM

A FELLOW-SENIOR'S ESTIMATE.

By electing Fred Cunningham as their president, Monday, his classmates bestowed an honor where it was deserved. Mr. Cunningham, who is a senior in the College of Liberal Arts and a freshman in the College of Law, is in every way worthy of the honor, and the recognition of his right to leadership is no more than justly due him.

In every phase of college activity, he has been in the lead. For four years he has led every debating team to which he was elected and in addition upheld Iowa's excellent standard in two oratorical contests. In the Hamilton final contest last spring, Mr. Cunningham, though in competition with the best oratory of the middle west, ranked first in thought and composition, and in the N. O. L. finals, none received more honorable mention than did the Iowa representative.

During Mr. Cunningham's four years in Irving, he has each year, led a debating team and has been generally recognized as one of Iowa's foremost debaters.

Outside his work in debating and oratory, he is secretary and treasurer of the Iowa Federation of State and County clubs and a member of Waskwi the honorary Junior society.

With all this, Mr. Cunningham found time to act as associate editor of the '07 Annual, and to take an active part in all class affairs. Such a man is more than a college man—he is a University man, limiting himself to no one sphere, but taking an active and a leading part in all that is worthy and wholesome.

FOSSILS GATHERED NEAR KEOKUK.

Professor Calvin Makes a Valuable Find—Curious Organisms Preserved in Rock.

Prof. Calvin, assisted by Mr. Jesse Henley, gathered some very interesting fossils during the summer, near Keokuk, Iowa. Probably the most marked and interesting specimens of the collection are the archimedes, a spiral shaped fossil covered with a large frond. The frond itself is peculiarly constructed, being perforated, and showing the minute organisms, bryozoa. The collection is especially interesting to the students of Geology here, as all the specimens can be found in Iowa. Prof. Calvin prizes the collection very highly.

The Journal of Geology of Chicago, will soon publish an article on the "Geological Section of Iowa." The section was drawn by Mr. Paul J. Edinger, and the description of the section written by Prof. Calvin.

COLLEGE NEWS IN IOWA.

Ames.

The Iowa State College at Ames has commenced the work of the year with the largest freshman class in the history of the institution. A great majority of the students are graduates of high schools. It is estimated that the number of students in the same institution will approach eight hundred for this year. This is an increase of sixfold in ten years.

Upper Iowa University.

Several important changes in the faculty of Upper Iowa University have been made. One of these is the filling of the vacancy caused by the granting of a year's leave of absence to Prof. W. C. Hilmer, who has been for a number of years instructor in French and German. He goes with his family to the University of Illinois to do residence work looking toward his doctor's degree.

Morningside.

Professor Ploughman, Ph. D., of Harvard, will be head of the biology department of Morningside college, taking the place of Dr. R. B. Wylie, who resigned to take a position in the biological department of the State University of Iowa at Iowa City. This announcement has been received at Morningside from President W. S. Lewis, who is in the east in the interest of the college.

Professor W. Lee Lewis, of the department of chemistry at Morningside college, has been granted a year's leave of absence in order to pursue advanced research work at the University of Chicago. Prof. Lewis has received an honorary appointment as fellow in physiological chemistry at the university and will leave soon to begin his work. The vacancy caused by his absence will be filled during the year by Prof. Scott, A. M., of Cornell University, New York. Prof. Scott comes highly recommended, being a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, having spent several years as graduate student and instructor at Cornell University.

State Normal.

The biennial report of the State Normal school has been filed at Des Moines. The unusual condition exists of having a balance in every fund in the treasury and of not being compelled to ask the next general assembly for any additional support for teachers or contingencies. The total requests for appropriations amount to $12,500 temporary funds; $5,000 for paving and completion of grounds. The increase requested in these temporary appropriations in excess of last year is $2,500, for library, $3,000 for library management, and $2,000 for ground improvement, a total of $6,500 annually. The good management of the Board of Trustees is responsible for this admirable condition of prudence and economy.

The new science laboratory of the State Normal school is now ready for the roof. The superintendent's new house is under construction and will be pushed to completion this fall. The fall term opens with a superior attendance and with the best prospects for good work that has been known in thirty years. The development of the Normal is surpassing the expectations of the people of the state. Its work in quality and character is now of the very higest grade.

The Graduate club will hold a reception for the new students in the Graduate college on Friday evening. The ladies drawing room in the Liberal Arts building will be decorated for the occasion.

Igorrotes for the Fall Carnival.

In securing the Igorrote Village, the Cedar Rapids Carnival visitors will have a good opportunity to study at close range a group of primitive wild people, 3,000 years backward in the scale of civilization, and to learn much of their home life, form of government, industries, pastimes and peculiarities. Of the more than one hundred tribes in the Philippine Islands none is so remarkable as the Igorrote. He is a constant hunter of human heads, that being his form of warfare. The entire life of these curious people will be shown in their village which covers more than an acre. Their straw-thatched houses, their war dances, tribal songs, sham battles and spear throwing offers a strange and most interesting scene. Every one, old and young, should see these strange people of which so little is known.

This Igorrote band is the only one in America and will be called home as soon as their engagement with the Carnival closes. They are endorsed by the pulpit and press as the most unique educational feature.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CLUB.

As announced in the Bulletin, the Philosophical club will hold its first meeting this evening. Regular meetings will follow on the first Wednesday of each month. The club is composed of faculty members and graduate students from the departments of philosophy and education. The papers considered at each session are read by club members, or invited speakers. Tonight's paper will be given by Professor Starbuck.

A part of the evening's business will be the election of officers. Professor Seashore has been president through the previous year. Room 213 L. A. is the place of meeting. The sessions are open to the public, and undergraduate students are welcome to attend.

A theatrical event of much importance will be the engagement of Mr. Walker Whiteside at the Coldren, Friday evening. Mr. Whiteside will present his new play, "The Magic Melody," a charming story of love and music, finance and flower gardens, and of the artistic ambitions which surmount all obstacles and win both fame and fortune. Seat sale opens this evening.

W. B. Patton, who will be remembered for his excellent portrayal of "The Minister's Son," will be at the Coldren tomorrow evening in his new play, "The Slow Poke." Seats are now on sale.

LIBRARY REFERENCE WORK.

Librarian Wyer Finds That His Time Has Been Profitably Spent.

Mr. Weyer has just completed a course of lectures before the freshman classes in English, upon the manner of handling reference books in library work. The librarian in the general library has noticed an unusual aptitude on the part of the new students, in following up their reference work. In a large library, such as we have, it has always been rather difficult for new students to do satisfactory reference work at the opening of the school year. It was Mr. Wyer's plan to give preliminary instruction to those unacquainted with the library and also to those unfamiliar with general line of reference books and the way to handle them. Mr. Wyer intends to give a longer series of lectures to the freshman classes next year, as he has been much pleased with the satisfactory results of his talks this fall.
