THE PROVING GROUND'S

WEATHER PROVES TO BE THE REAL EVENT

Troops Retreat Doggedly in Blinding Snowstorm, M. E. Seeks but for the Weather.

The Varsity regiment arrived home today and was not as well disposed as the leaves taking. The first day was late and every one was in the best of spirits, even the forenooner with the mass marquee twelve thousand inciting of the may and super/ready's served Journal in p. p.

Everyone was up, bright and early Friday morning and anticipating with the fleet. Ante-war and everywhere of snow were flying.

The battle of Friday morning near Mahaffy's Bridge, which was a very realistic and spectacular one, was fought in a blinding snow storm.

When it was found that the bad weather was to continue, the soldiers equipped with the rear was a sad, weary and bedraggled procession that filed into Iowa. City Friday evening.

Col. Weeks was exceedingly good to the boys and did everything in his power.
