An outline of the play follows:

1. PROLOGUE—Iphigenia relates how the fleet assembled against Troy by her father, Agamemmon, king of Troy, was detained at Aulis by adverse wind and wave. Thereupon, Calchas, the seer, had declared that, in order to gain release Iphigenia must be sacrificed, and she had been allured to Aulis under the pretense of a marriage with Achilles. But the goddess Artemis had substituted a hind instead, and had conveyed Iphigenia to Tunis, to serve as her priestess, and Iphigenia's duty is to sacrifice to the goddess all Greeks who reach the land. She has now come forth "to tell upon the air" a dream, which she interprets as the announcement of the death of her only brother, Orestes, and then she re-enters the temple to prepare a libation which she means to pour in his memory—

Two Greek youths, Orestes and his cousin, Pylades, steal into the precinct. Orestes has slain his mother in vengeance for her murder of his father and is pursued by the Furies, who, as an oracle of Apollo has declared can only be appeased, if Orestes carry off to Athens the statue of Artemis from the temple. Orestes is in despair of accomplishing the deed, but is encouraged by Pylades, and they retire to the distant shore to wait for night.

II. PARODOS—The chorus, composed of Greek hand-maidens of Iphigenia, enters and takes part with her in the dirge and libation in honor of her brother, whom she supposes dead.

III. FIRST EPISODE—A herdsman announces to Iphigenia the capture, after a hard fight, of two Greeks, who, by the king's command, are to be sacrificed by the priestess. She steels her heart for the awful task.

IV. FIRST STASIMON—The chorus expresses its interest and wonder. "Who are the youths?" "Are they traders?" "How have they escaped the dangers of the voyage?" "Would that Helen had come, or someone to deliver us!" The coryphaeus sees the captives approaching.

V. SECOND EPISODE—The youths are brought in and are questioned by Iphigenia. The name of Pylades she knows from the herdsman, but the other youth proudly refuses to tell who he is, but says that he is from Mycenaean and reports that Orestes still lives. "Deceitful dreams, farewell! Ye count for nothing now." Iphigenia declares her willingness to save the youth if he will carry home a letter to her friends there, but he refuses to desert his comrade and demands that Pylades be saved. Iphigenia consents and goes for the letter.

VI. KOMMOS—The chorus expresses sympathy with the youths in their misfortune.

VII. THIRD EPISODE—Orestes and Pylades engage in a "contest of friendship," and Pylades reluctantly is persuaded to relinquish his purpose to die with his friend. Iphigenia returns with the letter and makes Pylades swear to deliver it safely. Pylades begs exemption from the fulfillment of his oath in case he be shipwrecked and the letter be lost, and Iphigenia determines to repeat to him the message, which proves to be to her brother, Orestes. Pylades exultantly delivers the letter on the spot "to thee, Orestes, from thy sister!"

FORENSIC LEAGUE MET LAST NIGHT

SIGNING MEMORIAL THE PRINCIPAL BUSINESS.

Method of Choosing Debaters Was Discussed.—No Action Taken.

The Forensic League met last evening at seven. The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action upon the memorial for the Board of Regents, which has just been prepared and submitted by the committee to whom the work was intrusted. The memorial as read sets out the changes made last fall in the forensic organizations, the need of a specialist to take charge of debating, and the reasonable expectations of the student body that failed to be realized when an appropriation was refused. All those present signed the document and it is expected that when it is presented to the Regents it will bear the name of every member of the League.

The question of the manner of choosing debaters was discussed also. This had been referred to a committee of the Forensic Council, and the result of their work is expressed in the following suggestions submitted to the League last evening.

1. The method of choosing the final teams for 1907-8 shall not be determined until a regular manager for the Forensic League shall have been appointed.

2. Each of the four societies is advised to appoint such men as may be deemed of inter-collegiate debating caliber to take the responsibility of preparation upon the question to be debated.

3. That preliminaries be held before selected committees next fall, and the merits of the men be determined by the committees.

It was shown that no very complicated system of picking debaters could be carried out next fall, considering that the finals come off Dec. 13. The committee plan will very likely be adopted.

We Need Your Room.

Alumni and other visitors are expected in such numbers at our coming Commencement that rooms for many must be found in private houses. Unless the committee on Accommodations can secure definite information about rooms available for Commencement, our guests cannot be properly cared for. Therefore, every student who is not to remain after Saturday, June 8th, is urged to notify his landlady of the fact at once, so that the work of the Committee on Accommodations may be begun.

Gilbert L. Houser,
Chairman.

HAWKEYES WIN A CLOSE GAME

SCARLET AND BLACK HUMBLLED ONCE MORE.

Kent Pitches Fine Ten Inning Game and Men Behind Him Play Errorless Ball.

The Hawkeyes won a close and exciting game yesterday at Grinnell.

The wearers of the Scarlet and Black were humbled for the second time this season by a score of 2 to 1.

Kent pitched a pretty game, allowing but two hits. It looked a though Grinnell were going to win for a while, however, as Kent walked three men in the fourth inning, and sent their only tally over the plate on a squeeze play.

The Hawkeyes evened up things in the ninth, and added the winning score in the tenth. The hopes of Grinnell for winning the game were very high until the fateful ninth, when the score was tied. And then in the tenth the dreams of the Scarlet and Black were completely shattered when the Old Gold batters found their batting eyes to cinch the game for sure.

Barber, the Grinnell twirler, was also a little stingy in allowing hits, only six safe swats being registered off him.

The most commendable thing with the exception of the glorious victory, is the fact that the Iowa team played an errorless game and backed up Kent beautifully.

We have only one more to play—Ames, on Decoration Day. So far the record of the Iowa team has been clean in the state championship race—this has not happened for several years. And everything points toward the winning of the game with Ames Thursday, the unfurling of the state collegiate baseball pennant in Iowa City, and a thousand per cent in the race.

NOTICES.

There will be a meeting of the Choral Society in assembly room at seven tonight.

Miss Nina Adams of Shelby, is visiting at the Delta Gamma house.

A WORD MORE.

In the summer session this year, provision will be made not only for state certificate subjects but also for county certificate subjects. Several instructors have been added who will give their whole attention to professional reviews in branches required for county certificates. It is expected that a large number of grade and rural teachers will take advantage of this opportunity. Under the recent county certificate legislation each one is required to take an examination and consequently many will seek to prepare themselves for the fall examinations.

Most of the work will be done by regular members of the faculty. A few exceptions, however, have been made. Dr. J. L. Gillin, of Ashlin College, Ohio, will have charge of the work in Sociology and Dr. E. C. Case, of the State Normal School, Milwaukee, Wis., will have charge of the work in Geology. Superintendent Calvin N. Kendall of Indianapolis, and Superintendent W. N. Clifford of Council Bluffs, will give special courses on school supervision and methods of teaching special subjects. Superintendent Kendall has made a national reputation as a superintendent and educator. He has been a superintendent of schools in Michigan, New Haven, Conn., and Indianapolis, Ind. He is a fine man for the summer session, having been at Yale and Columbia. The University is very fortunate in securing him. Superintendent Clifford of Council Bluffs has also an enviable reputation as superintendent. His work on objective Geography has attracted attention all over the country. He has lectured in many states and at the Chicago University.

The University of Iowa has built up an enviable reputation for its summer session. Perhaps in no other University in the country has had regularly upon its summer session faculty so large a number of heads of departments. In most of the eastern universities the summer session faculty has been made up of sub-ordinate instructors in the departments. In many universities also on graduate work is offered.

DR. N. S. DAVIS, Dean,
This medical school is centrally located, convenient to large hospitals, affording abundance of clinical material. The laboratories and lecture rooms are commodious, well-lighted and generously supplied with all modern appliances to aid in carrying on in the most effective manner, the study of medicine.
The full course consists of four years, eight months each, beginning October 1st.
The classes are divided into small sections, thus affording to students better opportunities, or the advantages of individual instruction. This feature, as well as a graded curriculum, characterize the work in all the departments.
The ability of the men who graduate from this school, as well as the character and thoroughness of the work given here, is evidenced by the success of our graduates in the examinations given by the different State Boards. Out of the 135 graduates of the class of 1905 who were examined by the various State Boards in the United States during the 1st year, only one failed.

WISE TALKS BY THE OFFICE BOY.

I've been up in the store rooms for a couple of days helping to unpack hats, and many of them were straws. They say "straws show which way the wind blows." If that's a true saying, the breezes will be blowing my boss away, for I never saw such swell straw lids before. They make a fellow think of harvest time back east when the lads are shocking the grain, but there's no danger of our hats shocking any one. They're going to wear the straight brim yachting hats again this season; still there's a lot of rough braids, Panamas and Porto Ricans going to be worn. We sell an awfully good Panama for $5 they are as good as last year's sevens. But for some lads it's a little early for the straws, so the boss told me to make a speil about the new derbies. I heard a fellow say that our derbies were certainly on top. I wonder what he meant. Of course they're on top where else could they be? The first man that came out in a derby hat was batted all over the block—come near having his block knocked off several times, but that was over 50 years ago and the blocks were about a comely as an old-style plug dicer. Derbies are made in every style and color now, to suit all kinds of men and all tastes. We sell a fine felt self conforming, light-weight derby for $4 with the best trimming and sweat leather. The hat that looks like five but costs you only four.

Orestes is about to embrace his sister, but Iphigenia spurns him, thinking that the strangers are trying to deceive her. Orestes convinces her of his identity, and she joyfully welcomes him. Pylades recalls them to the need of haste in effecting an escape. Orestes explains to Iphigenia the nature of his errand to the land.—that he must take the statue—and they finally hit upon the plan of pretending to the king that the strangers and the statue have been polluted by the matricide and must be purified. Iphigenia exhorts her maids to keep the secret and sends the youths into the temple to make ready, herself entering to fetch the statue.

VIII. SECOND STASIMON—The maidens of the chorus contrast their forlorn exile with the delights of their native land.

IX. FOURTH EPISODE—King Thoas enters just as Iphigenia is bringing forth the statue from the shrine. In pursuance of her plan she convinces him that both the strangers and the image must be cleansed, and he consents to their withdrawal to a solitary part of the shore—"Near where Orestes' ship had secretly been moored." The strangers and Iphigenia, with an escort of the king's men, leave the precinct in solemn procession.

X. THIRD STASIMON—The chorus sings a hymn to Apollo, whose oracle now promises to be fulfilled.

XI. EXODOS A messenger from the seashore abruptly announces to the king the discovery of the plot and describes the fierce contest by which the fugitives have been recaptured. In a frenzy of rage, Thoas is rushing off to punish them when the goddess Athena stops him and tells him that it is the will of the gods that he allow Iphigenia and the youths to take the statue and also the chorus away to Greece. Thoas bows to the goddess' decree. The chorus sings a parting ode of joy over the happy outcome.

Graduation Smartness

For Young Men

A blue serge, black thibet or black unfinished worsted suit for commencement day will fully satisfy the desires of the young man who is to receive his diploma on that occasion. Worn, for instance, with a plain white vest or even the vest to match the coat, it is in the very best taste. After commencement, it is appropriate day or evening, at home or abroad—in town or out of it—anywhere, in fact—

Our display of these garments is voluminous. Each suit is beautifully made on modified or extreme college styles—lapels rather long and low—collar fitting high—shoulders broad—skirt long and flared at the sides—vented or ventless, as you like. You will find the standard $18 values in our splendid line at $15.

Others, all based in price on our seven-store buying power, range from $10 up to $25.

Graduation Shirts, plain or pleated bosoms in white, 50c to $1.50.

Graduation Neckwear, effective black and white silks, 25c to 75c.

Graduation Hosiery, black and fancy effects, 15c to 50c. Sole agents for Knox Hats, $5 and "Beacon Special" Hats, $3.

Suit Cases, an extra heavy brass mounted, sole leather case, the value will surprise you, at $5.
