IOWA vs. AMES THIS AFTERNOON

CHAMPIONSHIP
IS AT STAKE

If Ames wins, Iowa is TIED.

Ames Has Defeated All Other College Teams in the State.

Today's game with Ames at Iowa field will show whether Iowa will remain a clear leader to the state base ball championship, or whether the two schools are destined to tie for first place. The outcome will decide over all the rest of the season telling what they would have to do in order to retain their third place in the state in athletic work. Of course these men are anxious to end things up right by winning this game, so that they will be a large crowd out to see the varsity perform out of their best efforts. Everyone wants to take a last breath before the final dice into next week's exams, and it is ideally the right time that Iowa will always bring out the Iowa rooster.

In regard to "dope" the two teams look very evenly matched, for they seem to be about on a par in outfields, infielis, pitchers and hitting ability. As a consequence of this, the game against the Sigs, the Cornell pitcher, Iowa looks a little better, if anything, in batting. Iowa also has the advantage in playing on their home grounds, and the disadvantage of having gone across a long, hard, over-land game with Frissell on last Tuesday. The varsity is in the pink of condition, and the pitching is a high point of the game. In every one of the contests of the two teams, a high support has been shown by the public, and the games have been orders to ring. In the present case, it will be no different.

The Pan-Hellenic league race is drawing to a close. The Kappa Sigma and the Sigma Xi won their games yesterday and a three-corner tie for first place was the result. The Phi Delta, with whom the above named teams are now tied, has one more game to play, but they and Phi Delta will be play the second game.

The Phi Delts play the Phi Psi Friday afternoon and the Sigma Nu, the Sigma Chi, and the Kappa Sigma's S. A.'s E's on Saturday. If the present leaders win their last game, it will necessitate the playing of games between each other, until one has beaten the other two.

The race has been much closer than that of last year and there has been more excitement. Good crowds have attended the games and excellent ball has been played. A big crowd will probably see the remaining scheduled games and if there is still a tie by Saturday evening, there will be a tremendous crowd in attendance at the two or three cornered fight for the league championship.

Kappa Sigma Shut Out—Sigma Chi

The Kappa Sigma took the Sigma Chi into camp yesterday afternoon by administering a fearful thrashing. Pitcher Van Meter headed the Sigma Chi a shut-out, the game going all the way. The Sigma Chi used up three pitchers in vain attempt to stop the slaughter and when the last

WILL IT SUCCEED FINANCIALLY?

FORENSIC LEAGUE MAY BEGIN "FIT BY GREEK PLAY."

Such Performances Have Done Extremely Well Elsewhere.—Considerable Expense Involved.

It is desirable that the attention of students be drawn to another fact that the performance of the Greek play will be given to the Forensic League, if there are any proceeds. If the enterprise is a failure financially, the expense will fall on Professor Gordon, who volunteered to advance all expenses when the project was first spoken of. There has been a considerable investment, as the piece has required so much special equipment. It is only fair to say that this performance has a special and peculiar claim upon the patronage of students, in fact there has been nothing more year around thorough going to preserve and spend of public and private interest.

The performance has made demands upon an unusually large number of people. The cast itself is large, and the remaining and scenery have required the services of other students. The depart- ments of Greek, Public Speaking, and Fine Arts are directly interested.

A Special and Inducements for Iowa and Ames Holiday, but

The Iowa field will show whether Iowa on Iowa on the Iowa and Ames holiday, but the decision has not yet been made for the performance of the Greek play. Iowa and Ames will always bring out the Iowa rooster.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy.

I’ve been up in the store rooms for a couple of days helping to unpack hats, and many of them were straw hats, none of which save one which way the wind blows. If that’s a true saying, the breeze will be blowing my bosom away, for I never saw such straw straw lids before. They make a fellow think of harvest time back east when the lads are shocking the grain, but there’s no danger of our hats shaking anyone. They’re going to wear the straight brimmed matching hats again this season; still there’s a lot of rough brimmed Panama and Peter Panoras going to be worn. We sell an awful good Panama for $6 and they’re as good as last year’s. But for some hats it’s a little early for the straws, so the boss told me to make a space about the new devises. I heard a fellow say that our devises were certainly on top, so I wonder what he meant. Of course they’re on top where else could they be? The first man that came out in a derby hat was betting all over the block—some near here. His block knocked off several times, but he was over 50 years ago and the blocks were about as remote as an old-style plug dinner. Derbies are made in every style and color just to suit all kinds of men and all tastes. We sell a fine felt and a very light silk. True, they’re not the best trimming and sweet feather. The hat looks like fire but nothing you only fear.

Be a Commercial Teacher

Commercial Teachers are in demand by High Schools, Colleges, Normal Schools and Business Colleges and the demand increases every year. Well qualified teachers of the commercial branches readily secure positions at salaries ranging from $1000 to $3500 per year. The work is pleasant and the salaries are very interesting.

Cedar Rapids Business College

offers a course in normal commercial training that prepares teachers in a few months for the best positions. More fully equipped than the commercial and public teachers are received at the C. B. C. than can be supplied. We could send you to a good position.

Full information and large illustrated catalogue on request.
