VARSITY IS READY FOR WISCONSIN

Practice Last Evening Was Light and Short

Freshmen Team Attempted to Block Kirk’s Drop Kicks, but Varsity Defense Was Piteous

Practice last night on Iowa Field was light and short, care being taken to prevent any injuries, and every possible precaution was taken to keep the men from doing anything in any department of the game. The squad began its work-out with defense and drop-kicks. The freshmen were sent in against the Varsity line, but few times into the line did an Iowa man succeed in blocking one of “Chick’s” long booters. Kirk has a new pair of shoes patterned after Eckert’s that makes kicking easier, and a greater number of drop-kicks resulted.

All the men in both line and back field, were used in this defense work. It was followed by a fast signal practice in which all the Iowa plays were rehearsed, and the men were sent off the field at 5:00 o’clock. Last night’s signal practice and the quiz was held in Unity Hall. This evening the Varsity squad will go up the river for its regular week’s outing to indulge in signals and games. The men are in good condition, and the success of Comor, who is suffering from a sore lung and a bruised side.

The Freshmen team took a half hour’s scrimmage with the high school after Carlin had dismissed it. The high school was repeatedly held and forced back, but Freshmen back and tackles, plowed through for long gains. Coach Carlin has announced the officials for the Wisconsin game: McCormack of Dartmouth, with referees. Haddon of Michigan, will umpire, and Burkland of Illinois, will officiate as head linesman. The wide reputation of these men in gridiron affairs will go far to prevent any poor officiating that the controversial calls will be tolerated on either side.

ATHLETIC BOARD MAKES EXPLANATION

Reasons are Given for not Taking Band to Des Moines

To correct the mistaken impression among the students as to the reasons why the band was not taken to Des Moines last Saturday, the Drake board of Control of Athletics makes the following explanation:

October 30, 1907

Editor Daily Iowan—

Judging from rumors which have come to our ears and from names which appeared in the Iowaian, there is a prevalent understanding as to the failure of the band to be represented by her band at the Drake-Iowa game last Saturday, and we desire to make the reasons thereof known.

The board of Control of Athletics recognizes the value of the band’s presence at our games, especially from far away, and particularly our band, of high character and of our band’s artistic organization. Owing to our inability this year to get exhibition rates, which reduces considerably the number of students who would accompany the team, it appeared impossible from the financial point of view for the board to assume the whole expense of carrying the band, much as we would like to do so. It was suggested by the band that if we would carry it to the Drake game, it would go at its own expense to Ames for that game. We offered to do this, if a guarantee were given as to the band’s conduct, of course, of the second part, and we offered, as an alternative, that if the band would pay its way to and from Des Moines, we would carry it to Ames, the fare to the latter part being somewhat more than to the former. The band after reflection decided not to acccept either of these propositions and the two sides then came to agree on any other scheme.

The result was to be regretted, and the board hopes that arrange-

Badger Bad

It is necessary to speak at the meeting Friday evening.

Good Practice Tuesday

Mason, Wis., Oct. 30—In the first scrimmage of the week from Camp Randall Tuesday night, the Varsity team showed up unexpected features and was able to play through the freshmen for big gains. One of the more encouraging changes to the coaches was the revival of the old time form of offense. Closure is sufficiently recovered to be back at half crossed the line for a touch down in the first few minutes of tackle. While it was at full again tonight succeeded in making a pretty run through left tackle.

The new line-up as practically decided upon the coaches will put Captain Messner at tackle, Lowend at end, Cunningham at quarter, and Ditman at left tackle in place of Murphy. Ditman was about to be moved without the two men in the line which the defense long and is expected in uniform tomorrow. Arrangements were today made for the transportation of twenty-five men to Iowa City. This will include the team, nine substitutes, Coaches Hunchins and McCarthy, W. A. Smith, and the manager and assistant manager.

A movement is on foot to get the Iowa papers to accommodate the company, the team, owing to the inability to secure seats, it is considered unlikely that very many will take the trip.

Plaas to return at A. M. Groves.

THE ADVENTUROUS Pathic

"The Adventurous" depicts two spies in action to obtain the information which the government requires to prevent the enemy from obtaining vital information. They board a train for the frontier, arriving early, they are seen striking a bargain with a beautiful woman, and after consuming the devilish meal amounting to a minor feast, they proceed to the railroad station, and are seated with her at a drinking table, where she parades freely of liquor, he does not hesitate to present her with a pass which will admit the bearer thru the lines. This is fully consistent with the story of two spies whose lives thus far and sets out for the barracks. Passing thru the name, she is next seen an interested spectator of a military parade, by which she measures the strength of the forces. In her next mission, she meets her military friend, who has presented her with the pass and he suggests that she go on a tour where, when she leaves her for a few moments, she begins to rummage among the documents and in her school work until she finally comes upon the papers which are the subject of her ministrations. Of course she does not wait for her friend to return, but hurries from the barracks directly to the rendezvous appointed between the two spies and herself. Receiving them, she explains the purpose for her services which the spies deem expeditious, with the result that she departs without giving them the documents.

Her spurious acquaintance meanwhile has missed the papers, and realizing that he has been the victim of a dark plot, dashes out after her hastily. He finds her taking her seat on a tour and where, when he leaves her for a few minutes, she begins to rummage among the documents and in her school work until she finally comes upon the papers which are the subject of her ministrations. Of course she does not wait for her friend to return, but hurries from the barracks directly to the rendezvous appointed between the two spies and herself. Receiving them, she explains the purpose for her services which the spies deem expeditious, with the result that they depart without giving them the documents.

She will purchase the above suit in either elephant gray, dull brown, or a fine blue serge for fancy women. A great collection of patterns to choose from.
