NEW LABORATORIES WILL OPEN SATURDAY

Splendid Quarters for Animal Biology Completed

Are Now Ready for Work in the Beautiful New Hall of Natural Science—Special Features

The opening of the new laboratories for Animal Biology marks an epoch in the scientific work of the University of Iowa. The facilities of the old quarters had long been outgrown, although the demand for such work increased year by year. The laboratories are now installed in commodious quarters in a fireproof building of thoroughly modern construction—the new Hall of Natural Science, with the character of which building the laboratories are in keeping.

The space devoted to Animal Biology comprises rooms located on three floors of the north wing, but the rooms are unified by a small elevator running through them. The director of the laboratories, Professor Gilbert L. Houser, was given the greatest freedom in the planning of his new quarters, the Board of Regents carrying out every detail as he had designed it.

The laboratories proper occupy the whole of the second floor of the north wing. This space is chiefly devoted to two large laboratories—the introductory and the advanced, respectively. Each of these two rooms is quite large, forty-eight by fifty-three feet in size, and is lighted from three sides by nine very large windows of plate glass. The heavily paneled ceiling is supported by a row of beautiful scagliola columns running through the center of the laboratory. The large northern exposure gives a very steady light, so desirable in microscopic work.

The furniture was designed throughout by Dr. Houser himself, and it exhibits many new features. It is all of quartered oak, finished "Early English." Slate is used for table tops of all laboratory tables. The tables assigned to students are especially noteworthy, since the slate tops taper toward a narrow end away from the window, a device which permits each student to obtain unobstructed light for his work. These tables have a new form of electric microscope lamp, at the bases of which are gas-cocks for Bunsen burners. Each student is assigned a drawer with lock, a microscope-locker where his apparatus is stored. Glazed cases are used freely in these laboratories for storing general laboratory equipment; and a hood in the corner of the room keeps the

Communication on Band

Saturday we meet a most worthy opponent, one who will call for our greatest strength and one whom it will be a great honor to defeat. Ames will be there in force and prepared to root as they have never done before. They will also have their band to lead the rooting and if we expect to successfully compete with them we must have our band there also. Consider the Illinois game when just after two touchdowns had been gained by Illinois and things looked very dark for Iowa when the band began the "Boola Song" the crowd caught it up, the players were instilled with the Iowa spirit and from then on Illinois had not the ghost of a show. Now think what it would mean not to have the band at Ames. Again consider that all this has been done by the band out of loyalty for their alma mater. They wish no compensation other than the fact that their efforts had in some degree aided the team to victory. The athletic board is an organ of the student body to manage the affairs which concern the students directly. It owes a duty to the student body as a whole, to the band, to the alumni, and to the University at large to see that the band is present Saturday when the championship of the state is decided.

PRESIDENT MACLEAN AT WASHINGTON

Gives Papers Before University Presidents

Addresses National Association of State University Heads at Capital

President George E. MacLean gave two reports before the National Association of State Universities at Washington, D. C., Monday, as a member of two committees. He gave one report on Entrance Requirements, and another on Standards of American Universities and the A. B. Degree.

The association bases its membership on those universities which received land grants. There were forty-three which received such grants but out of that number about thirty-five usually attend.

The sessions of the Association were held in the Banquet Hall of the Shoreham, and closed today.

Below is a list of the officers:

President—James H. Baker, U. of Colorado.

Vice President—Webster Merrifield, U. of North Dakota.

Vice President (ex-officio)—Hon. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Secretary-Treasurer—George E. Fellow, U. of Maine.

The Executive Committee consists of the above officers, and John W. Abercrombie, U. of Alabama; George E. MacLean, U. of Iowa.

President MacLean will go on to Brooklyn to visit his mother and sister. It is probable that he will return via Washington as a delegate to the National Y. M. C. A. convention before coming back to Iowa City.

WILL DEDICATE NEW HALL NEXT APRIL

Hall of Natural Science To Be Accepted Soon

The last of the marble for the New Science Hall is here and is being installed. After that is finished, the contractor will be ready to offer the building to the authorities for accepting.

Two carloads of furniture arrived from Des Moines last week for completing the equipment of laboratories and library. The museum furniture has not yet arrived but everything will probably be completed by the end of the year. It is now intended to hold a formal dedication of the New Science Hall next April.

LINE WORKS WITH MACHINE

Ends and Backs Were Coached Especially in Dodging—Other Gossip

[BY MAURICE A. KENT]

John Griffith yelled to the five line men to hit the charging machine as it it were an Ames line. They charged and Tommy O'Brien, who was perched thereon, accordingly had the platform shot out from under him so fast that he lit on his neck in the track. Anyone who could see the men working at the charging machine and running through signals would peacefully forget all about any recent newspaper "staleness" stories.

The squad continues working long and hard every night but without any scrimmage. Cresco White has been doing some fine place kicking lately and it is dead certain that the Ames game won't be lost by a goal kick as the Wisconsin game was. Kirk is drop kicking in the best form that he has shown the whole year. Coach Catlin has a new stunt to make the back field men and ends fast and shifty on their feet. About ten men are placed in a long line and about five yards apart. Then the back and ends are sent zigzagging down this line. This gives excellent practice in side stepping and in shifting the ball from side to side.

The signal practice of both the regular squad and the reserves is absolutely fine. Every play is run off without a hitch and some wonderful manipulation of the forward passes will be seen Saturday. Not only Kirk, but Stewart, White, Carberry, Bruggeman, Murphy are especially keen at forward passes.

The condition of the whole squad is everything that could be desired. Knowlton's knee is coming along in fine shape and the rest of the squad is waiting for the game with blood in their eyes.

FRESHMAN SOCIAL TOMORROW EVENING

Dunkel's Orchestra will Furnish Music

Tomorrow evening the Freshmen hold their social. The committee is busy making final arrangements.

Dunkel's nine piece orchestra has been obtained to furnish music for the dancing. The program consists of seventeen dances and three extras.

There will be an intermission between the tenth and eleventh dances. At this time a musical program will be given.

Refreshments will be served in the band room in three divisions.

The committee is especially desirous that every Freshman attend the party and get acquainted with their classmates.

WILLIAMS GETS NEW OPEN STYLE PLAYS

O'Brien Talked to Aggies' Coach Saturday

Varsity Trainer Looks for Hardest Game of Season—Big Mass Meeting

According to Trainer O'Brien the Ames team is going to spring a quality of class and style in open style playing on the Hawkeye eleven which will equal even Iowa in that respect. O'Brien saw Clyde Williams, of Ames, last Saturday, as the Aggie coach was returning from witnessing the Minnesota-Carlisle game.

"Williams wasn't up there just simply to see that game," said O'Brien. "He went to get some eastern forward pass and open style plays from one of the fastest elevens in the country, and you can bet he will have his men worked up to perfection in this department of the game. The Ames game is not going to be one of the hard games of the year; it will be the hardest. But I don't think our fellows are the least bit confident, and as for staleness! Well, every man has been gaining in weight steadily the last week, and they have been working harder and longer than at any time before this season. And football players don't gain weight when they are going stale."

A big mass meeting will be held Thursday night in the Auditorium at 6:45 o'clock. The program for the event has not been completed yet, but it will include talks by Walter Davis, two members of the team and possibly others. No leader for the meeting has been selected yet. The ticket sale continues good and quite a bunch of rooters will accompany the team. The status of the band remains the same, although pressure is being brought to bear on both the athletic board and the band members to reach an agreement whereby the organization may make the trip. A final decision will be reached tonight.

One of the indications which show that Iowa is developing in STUDENT to a large university COUNCILS is the presence of the Council of Nine which takes the place of a student council. The value of these is shown by a clipping taken from an exchange.

"The value of a student council which can exercise authority over questions which arise among the students is being felt in all large universities and it is of interest to note that not a few are now organizing or preparing to organize such a body of students who can act in conjunction with the administration.

"While this departure might be considered radical on first thought it is only a question of students desiring representation in the circles which make the laws by which they are governed. This privilege is the one which underlies all republican governments and is as eagerly sought by the student as by the citizen. It has also been found that these student councils are fair and deliberative in all their proceedings and their existence has done much toward doing away with the rebellious spirit which students are prone to show towards those in authority."

However, the Council of Nine has not been active this year and it is to be hoped it will be re-organized or a new council formed to fill the above requirements.

RUSH WORK ON ENGINEERING HALL

Rapid Progress Made in Erection Of New Building

Contractor Rowson is rushing work on the addition to the engineering hall. The steel columns are now in place and the fire proofing of the basement floor will be done next week. It is not the intention to work on this building during the winter but the work will probably be closed down about Dec. 1. The time set for its completion in August 1.

This structure will double the present capacity of the engineering college and will afford accommodations for two hundred and thirty students, which is just equal to the present enrollment. So it is expected that the engineering school will have to use the old shed again next year to accommodate the increase.

CURATOR ALDRICH PRAISES SHAMBAUGH

Compliments Iowa Man on Finding Chambers Manuscript

Owing to their great historical importance, the recent discovery of the John Chambers manuscripts by Professor Benjamin F. Shambaugh is attracting much attention. Hon. Charles Aldrich, curator of the State Historical Department, said as follows, in an interview in the Register and Leader:

"The Gov. John Chambers' manuscript which Benjamin F. Shambaugh has just found is an extremely valuable thing, historically," said Hon. Charles Aldrich, curator of the state historical department yesterday. "It is gratifying that he has been able to secure it. Of course I think it ought to be here and I am grieved that we could not get hold of it, but it will now be preserved to the state as a whole at Iowa City, and that is worth while. There is no such rivalry between this department and the State Historical society at Iowa City as there was formerly. The most cordial relations exist and it is the fortunate and in fact the only way to have it. Of course Iowa City people felt more or less bitterly with regard to Des Moines for many years after the capitol was located here through Mr. Kasson's efforts, chiefly, in the legislature, but the feeling ought to have died out by this time, and so far as these departments is concerned it has. No jealous feeling whatever with respect to the success of the Iowa City institution is entertained here. The glorious fight that Governor Chambers made against the bootleggers who tried to smuggle liquor to the Indians in Iowa at the early period deserves to be preserved in monuments in every historical department and society of the state."

Memorial Service Will Be Held Today in Pharmacy School

In memory of the late Albert E. Ebert and upon the anniversary of his death, the officers of the American Pharmaceutical Association have presented each of the institutions thus represented with an Ebert memorial volume and a crayon portrait of Mr. Ebert, the presentation of which portrait was arranged by the trustees of the United States Pharmacopoeial convention.

The officers of the association in presenting the portrait to the institutions of the conference, suggested that an hour be given to a memorial service in the various schools on Wednesday, Nov. 20, the anniversary of his death.

In accordance with this suggestion, the Iowa College of Pharmacy will devote part of today to this.

Mr. Ebert was at one time president of the American Pharmaceutical Association and also a member of the United States Pharmacopoeia.

air of the laboratory pure when odors arise from some experiment.

The laboratory for introductory courses is designed to make familiar the major facts about animal life as part of a liberal education. Fifty-two students are accommodated at one time; and the arrangement of the tables is such as to permit the handling of 208 students in all. The apparatus furnished each student includes a new compound microscope of the "Continental" pattern, a dissecting microscope, and various minor articles. An aquarium makes possible the study of aquatic animals alive and in motion.

The laboratory for advanced courses is adapted to more special lines of work. The student tables of this room have bottle racks for storing the glassware employed in the work of microscopic anatomy and embryology. The advanced equipment includes special compound microscopes, a very fine dissecting microscope type, paraffin baths for imbedding tissues, microtomes for cutting sections, incubators for the study of development, and many other items. An aquarium here is devoted especially to the study of life histories. Forty-four advanced workers can be accommodated in this room at one time. Each student in this advanced work is encouraged to become as independent of assistance as possible, and the knowledge of laboratory methods here acquired enables him to start on a biological career or to lay a firm foundation for the proper study of medicine.

A dispensing room off the two main laboratories in charge of a store-keeper enables business methods to be applied to laboratory supplies. Here the dumb waiter elevator brings material from the floors below.

A photographic laboratory and a dark room, together with a large private laboratory complete the space of the second floor.

The rooms of the first floor fill the west half of that story. These comprise a lecture room with the stereopticon facilities; a reading room well lighted and furnished; the office of the Director; and a mimeographing room where the laboratory outlines are prepared which are to guide students in their work.

A room in the basement with cement floor is used for stores, for some kinds of experimental work, and for aquatic animals kept in four large tanks of running water. The elevator already mentioned runs up from this room.

The eleven rooms devoted to Animal Biology will be open for inspection on Saturday evening, November 23, from 6:30 to 9:00 o'clock. All who are interested in seeing the character of these new facilities will be welcome.
