COMMUNICATIONS

Iowa-Armenian Status

Action in regard to Iowa's aeth-ter relations with Armenia should not be rushed, but when action is taken it should be a clean cut. No unprepared persons who saw the Armenian games during Iowa's home games should be sent out. The question is, whether in the best line of action for the University to pursue? Some papers of the state are saying that Reppert's act has been satisfactorily explained if it has, no such explanation has reached the student body of the University. On the other hand President Storter, when referring to the game, has publicly and sincerely stated that to bring a charge of unfair play is little less than crim-inal. Every word from Armenia has been a denial—not an expla-nation. Now, if Armenia author-izes this attitude, if they give Reppert an athletic "A", to play a final game disqualifed in one season, the same honor and stamp of their approval that they accord in the term "jolly" Jameson and to Mc-Elhany, then, Iowa should exert itself. Old Gold cannot afford to condescend to such action. In such a case—and it now looks as though much would be the case—the student body should thoughtfully consider what plea is most advisable. Will it be best to play a final game here next year? If so, Iowa should state her position frankly. On the other hand, if such a course is pursued, is not some incident likely to occur to detract from the very position the University wishes to assume, or the whole matter to lose force through the long lapses of intervening time? It is well known that Iowa cannot games with the universi-ties of Indiana, Purdue, Moun-ten, Kansas, Nebraska, and Wisconsin, by signifying her willingness to play. If Iowa can make a good showing with any of these schools, in addition to Elhi-nea, Wisconsin, and probably Chicago, will not Old Gold stand as high, if not higher, in the eyes of the general public, as it would if we play Iowa? In the latter case, there is no prob-ability of trouble of any kind. Wisconsin's captain this year said Iowa played the clearest ball he ever saw. A week later Wisconsin's captain followed with a similar sentiment. Moreover, with the standard that three Universities maintain, the Iowa band would have to sit on a pile of dirt-while, the opposing band sits in the bleachers. It is the attitude as well as the act that counts. No matter what course is taken, the Athletic Board will doubtless be guided largely in the wishes of the students and to the belief, the matter must be freely discussed. E. C. R.
