HENDERY COLLECTION

IS OF GREAT VALUE

Complete Series of Marine Formations

At the close of the present school year the geological museum of the State University of Iowa has the most complete collection of fossils from all of the marine geological formations of any similar institution in the United States. The collection will contain specimens of the present life forms, some of them million of years old, to be found along the Atlantic and Pacific of Mexico.

The great task of collecting this everything valuable material was

by Jesse V. Henley, who in the neighborhood of $8,000 and traveled 3,000 miles to complete the work.

Only a few scattered attempts have been made in various parts of the United States to collect the ancient life forms along the coasts of America and Henley's work is the direct attempt to secure a complete collection. He complished a part of his work along the Atlantic Coast this summer and fall. He leaves for the West,

December 5th, when he will complete the work. During the time that he has been in the institution he has developed the most of his attention to geology, under the tutelage of Professor Samuel Calvin, head of the department of geology in University.
