Iowa to Submit Question

Other Universities Will Also Forward Questions Wiscon-

sume's Suggestion

On April first Iowa must submit her question for the 1909-1910 intercollegiate debate to the four other universities of the Central Debating Circuit. Wisconsin has already sent her question, which reads as follows:

Resolved: That an emergency currency credit would be pre-table in a central bank of issue as a modification of the present system.

In order to have a fine expression of opinion on the part of those who expect in try-out for the inter-collegiate debate of next year, Professor Gordon has called a meeting of the students to be held in room 315, L. A., at 3 p.m. today for the purpose of selecting the final debating teams. If present plans are carried out try-outs will be held this semester. The meeting tonight will be held in room 315, L. A.

It is unfortunate that the incident of the House of Miss Wilkin's apartment on the fourth floor, is not a matter that we should discuss in the halls of the University. It is a matter that the public has been made aware of, and it is a matter that we should all be made aware of.

The Iowa Daily Iowan should be able to write about the University without fear of persecution. It is not a matter that the University should look upon as a matter of entertainment.
