BAILEY WRITES OF GAME OF TENNIS

Keenly Regrets That Game is Abandoned

Former U of I. Raurig. Expert Sends Views to Iowan on Favorite Out-Door Sport

Because tennis was abandoned by the Iowa Board in Central Athletics as an ineffective sport this year, Mr. John T. Bailey, one of the best players who played on an A. College tennis team, has written a communication to the Daily Iowan from his home in Altoona, Okla., as follows:

ALBION, IOWA, May 8, 1908

Editor the Daily Iowan, Iowa City, Iowa:

Dear Sir—

I was rather surprised and displeased to note from the Daily Iowan that the University would not be represented at the state or intercollegiate meets in tennis.

It seems strange that at a time when interest in this branch of athletic and outdoor sport is increasing wonderfully every year, and when it has increased to such an extent as to support a magazine, which will compare favorably with any in quality of paper and printing, devoted to other sports, tennis alone, that tennis should be so neglected at S. U. E.

As recreation and exercise for the brain-worker, tennis has the enthusiastic approval of many of the best and most eminent men in America, including President Roosevelt, himself.

The game is worthy of support because it furnishes opportunity for many students to indulge in a strength-developing athletic sport. But it has some advantages that are not possessed in an equal degree by other sports. More exercise can be had from tennis in a short time than from baseball, football, golf or other sports without interfering with one's business or profession, and the game is played by almost all ages. Young and old both young and middle-aged in retaining youthful elasticity and activity, and a very great increase in vital and physical work. I doubt if any exercise known is as valuable in preventing depravity, as well as in developing in good health as lawn tennis.

At Cornell University, New York, there are over four hundred of the students playing tennis.

CONCERT THIS EVENING

Men's Glee Club Will Give Recital in Auditorium of Hall of Natural Science

The Men's Glee Club of the University will give this concert in the Auditorium of the Hall of Natural Science, the first number on the program starting at 8 o'clock.

Dr. H. W. Wiese, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, addressed the students at Assembly yesterday morning on "Natural Resources." The most important and by far the greatest natural resource of the country is water, said Dr. Wiese. "The important problem of the age is the development of this resource. Higher education is the means whereby the development may be attained. The present country is not a candidate for high honors in a man of much education. University training is not a sufficient index of the land as fully as it should be although universities and colleges have made rapid growth in the last thirty or forty years."

Dr. Wiese in conclusion urged the women not to enter the professions but told them they had a greater duty in the home.

Social Committee of the Faculty Praises Measures—Open Arena to Informal Parties

At the meeting of the University Senate Tuesday afternoon, following the opening of the first session of the Academic Year 1908, the Social Committee of the University may give social parties. In any such event, the clubhouse to fraternity house, either on Friday or Saturday night, will be opened to the undergraduates, either by special permission of the social committee of the university.

The new rule will probably greatly diminish the number of parties given next year as the new halls will be utilized for advance in those nights.

The purport of this rule as explained by a member of the social committee is to discourage too much dancing among a certain few, especially in the case of University girls, and encourage dancing and parties of the more democratic sort.

The University will be open to any University club for $50 for any Friday or Saturday night. This will add one more ball to the list to be used for parties.

A two-piece orchestra is said to be played on the program for the Artery so that this will probably be used.

It was suggested that a low price ticket be issued to have more many informal dances like the band hop which will be limited, however, to University students only.

It is hoped by the faculty that the new rule will raise the standard of scholarship as it will give more study hours to students.

NEW REGULATION Saturday in a 45-night year is one which will benefit the University in the end, although it undoubtedly causes a rise of criticism at the present time among the students directly affected. In the University of Nebraska, the rule has remained in force and according to upper classes as well as faculty, has been a great aid in cultivating added interest in study and in placing social activities in their proper relation to other branches of University life.

For some time the social life in the University of Iowa has been free from the usual amount of social activity and growth the University society has known to such an extent that controlling rules were necessary in regard to hours, dances, and so on. It is true that some of the regulations have not accomplished this purpose and have been rightfully criticized but the general progress has been satisfactory to the majority of those interested in the good of the University.

The Daily Iowan has been criticized for running to much society news, denoting a calendar to party dates, etc. but the student interests demanded it and the alumni who made the criti­ cision failed to realize the social activities with which the University. The new rule is aimed to counteract the tendency shown especially this year and will undoubtedly accomplish much good in this direction next ses­

MARCH COMMENCES SATURDAY MORNING
Regiment Will Take Second Annual Trip
Preparations are practically complete for the march which starts next Saturday. Graduates and alumni have been taken than ever before for the comfort of the cadets who take the trip. Instead of a different camp every night, as heretofore, a permanent post will be maintained.

The locations of the camp will be at Mid-River Park on the Interstate.

Every cadet will be required to take his uniform and next Sunday there will be a dress parade. There will also be religious exercises which will be conducted by a local minister.

The weather during the march promises to be excellent and there will be little danger from snow storms such as were encountered last year.
