MRS. SHAMBAUGH HAS WRITTEN NEW BOOK

Deals With the Life of Amna Colloston

Work Covers Four Hundred Pages - Volume Results of Many Years Research

The State Historical Society of Iowa has just issued an unusually interesting and valuable volume by Bertha M. H. Shambaugh on Amana: The Community of True Inspiration. The work moved from there to Iowa and treats of this unique Iowa community from these points of view, that subject to magazines and other publications both in America and in foreign countries; and in the present volume her intimate knowledge of the community and its members, gained through a personal acquaintance for years and frequent visits to the little cluster of seven villages, has enabled her to present a markable degree, the spirit and atmosphere that characterizes this "Isle of Europe in America."

Good Progress on Senior Class Play

Promises to Outshine Previous Amna Performances - Special Costumes for Play

The Senior Class play, which will be presented at the Opera House, Monday evening, June 15, gives promise of out-doing any amateur production that has ever been attempted by University talent. "The Trelawny of the Wells" was produced at the Court Theatres, London, on Thursday, January 29, 1896, with an original presentation in the United States was at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, on November 23, 1896. When Henry Woodrow and Mary Manterly played the star roles, Oliver was interviewed by the play committee when he was in Iowa City with "Brown of Harvard." He said, "Trelawny of the Wells is a play of the first class; no better selection could have been made for an amateur production.

The Seniors, cast, are more than amateurs; many of the leading persons in the city are parts have been doing dramatic work throughout their entire University course, and have become almost professionals in dramatic art. Under the able direction of Miss Blanche Room, the cast of twenty-four people are rapidly nearing the perfection in the rendering of their lines. Each rehearsal is better than the last, and in the final rehearsal for the present performance approaches, each one portrays his or her character better and more consistently. Special costumes, is strict accordance with the time of the play, are to be worn (to the early Sixties) have been ordered, and scenery, specially constructed for the occasion, will arrive within the few days. The last act opens Friday noon, June 12, at the box office.

ENGINEERING SHOPS HAVE SLIGHT BLAZE

Started from Chemicals in the Basements

Fire started from chemicals in the basement of the Engineering shed caused much excitement and work on Tuesday night about 9 o'clock. The amount of damage could not have been estimated last evening but valuable machinery in the tower was lost by the fire. Owing to the prompt work of the department there was little danger of spreading flames to the Capitol building or the Liberal Arts building.

The ships are built on the site of the old medical buildings which burned to the ground six years ago.
Before we leave for the summer vacation let us all remember that "ALWAYS" we have something FOR EACH other to do this summer. We must never forget that we are "always" for Iowa. Whether alumnus or undergraduate, we are all members of the Greater University and we all have an equal share in the responsibility for the future of our school.

So we are all going home to boss and pull for Iowa. We are coming back, if we do come, with new students. If our days at Iowa are over, we will let people know just what kind of a school we have, and, through the county clubs, we will always be ready to lend our heartfelt support to any movement that is always for Iowa.

And as we are opening for Iowa, a new spirit and vitality is abroad. Don't let it die.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy

Our Boys' and Children's Department has been a very busy section in our store the past few days.

We are selling Boys' and Children's Suits of all kinds at a reduction of 20 per cent—that's the reason. Have you been in? If not, come tomorrow.

The twenty per cent discount means tomorrow, not next week.
