SURPRISE SPRUNG ON VARTY BY CATLIN

Military Exercises Given Football Men

Coaches find a valuable person in Hargreaves who is trying out for the right half. Kitz and Fox, out of the game because of injuries.

Military exercises were given to the Iowa football squad by Coach Catlin last night in the form of "setting up" and when the men were assembled in the indoor track, they were thoroughly fouled.

The whole squad was sent to the indoor track earlier for the purpose of getting their muscles up to par. After everyone had been thoroughly fouled, they were made to practice the various positions.

A new half was put into the game and made the men work much harder than before. The game was played without the yankers and was won by the seniors.

Commander Hargreaves, one of the most valuable men on the team, was the only one to practice the various positions.

The game was played without the yankers and was won by the seniors.

The Iowa squad has been greatly improved since the introduction of "setting up" exercises. The men are now working much harder than before and are making good progress.

The Iowa team is expected to do well in the coming season. The men are now working much harder than before and are making good progress.
Colleges

A change in the women's march gives the "women's" sort of balance to the list of the features of "Fall of '92" at the College. After hearing Mr. Gibson to allow them to stop posing a moment and give in the form to the ideas from the wings of the musical members of the female "Folktales," it was to be a dream of Dr. Hill: "On the Grand Old Bands, "The Covered Bridges," and many others.

From a musical standpoint the most wonderful song of the lot, in fact, was that of Miss K. H. Warfield, "After the Ball," in the song before the fall of the stage.

Miss Pearl Hildebrand who went to St. Paul for a short time to work has returned and resumed her studies in the university.

Miss Emma Boumead of Des Moines, a grand old editor in the Delta Gamma sorority, was a guest of the local chapter Wednesday evening.

Miss Dorothy Moxer entertained the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at her home on College Hill Wednesday evening.

Mrs. H. M. Torrey, wife of Judge Torrey of Carthage, Iowa, is the guest of the St. James. She is a member of the Iowa Literary Association.

CHORDAL SISTERS
The University Choral Society will hold an important meeting this evening at 7 o'clock in the auditorium of the Hall of Natural Sciences.

Cheers Society
The music for the choral society's annual has been arranged and an important rehearsal will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the science auditorium. All members are requested to be present by the leaders.

V. W. C. A. Meeting
The V. W. C. A. meeting, Tuesday evening, was a very interesting and enjoyable meeting. Mrs. Marion, who is a member of the executive committee, had invited a number of named members to join this meeting.

A man going home on a late car the other night fell asleep. The conductor shook him and asked him what street he would have. He woke up and replied: "What streets have you?" Customers say to us nearly every day, "What makes of shirts or hats have you?" I am going to answer a few of these inquiries here. We sell Button's complete line, and the Havens at $1.00, and the Dunlap at $3.00. Also Imperial and Longley's. In short we sell Claret and our own makes. In clothes we sell Claret and Arrow brands. In neckwear we sell "Keiser's". "Carrier and Holmes. "Lyford," in short, we buy farm from nearly every good maker in this country, as we must have variety in this department. In underwear, pajamas, Jersey coats, waistcoats, hosiery, etc., we carry only the best makes. If you have any idea of the amount of stock before you, you won't have a chance to see if you wouldn't be thinking of trading elsewhere.

The following morning of the first day of the Trial, Muggsy was lecturing on the various formulas of the diamond. He knew how to cut and polish a diamond and he was very pleasant to look at with a diamond.

Belling the Breakfast Bell. An American family who had experienced the difficulty of cooking and serving the services of a married kitchen girl while on a road to island became acquainted with a growing young girl and brought her back home with them. In a few weeks she was installed in her new home and associated with her new duties. Among other things she was told that it was customary when breakfast was ready to be served to ring the breakfast bell. Her "all right, now" came in a much more final tone than her mother's previous,"all right, now, now." The new girl heard it, and her face became brighter with a smile of triumph. "Next time, she said to her host and hostess, "next time it is ready."—Los Angeles Times.

Diamond Cutting. It is said that before the fourteenth century no man knew how to cut and polish diamonds. They were considered as precious and costly stones, and greatly desired for beauty. There are old records that a particular person in Flanders, Count Van Berghen, discovered the art of cutting and polishing, with diagram. But it is probable that he only made some unsatisfactory advances in the art since association of diamond cutting had existed in Flanders and Flanders from the fourteenth century. Count Van Berghen's most famous achievement was the cutting and polishing of a huge diamond given to Charles the Bold. Charles was so delighted with the result that he rewarded the artist liberally and declared that the diamond would wear him for a bedazzled lamp. This jewel, which was found in Charles' body after the battle of Nancy, is still in existence and considered one of the jewels of the famous diamond—"Tooth's Companion."
