“Girls”

On Friday at the Colosseum, Miss Shubert will present Clyde Fitch’s latest and most commercial entertainment, “Girls,” which is now playing its second highly popular season in Detroit’s “New York,” “Girls” is a funny, hap-happening plash-off that shows a keen insight into the workings of the minds of women. Stepping between the rows, this authentic “girl” from foreign parts has made an instantaneous appeal to the audience who have once seen the work at its most prolific playhouse, as he calls “Girls.” His protection and cost supplied by James Kibbey, is beyond reproach.
