CAMPUS IN 1920. PLAN OF EXTENSION

OLD-CAPITOL WILL BE THE NUCLEUS OF GROWTH

Sage Toward the Iowa is to be Made Comfortable by New Buildings on North.

With a presidentialURRENT where the Hall of Destiny now stands and a First State Hall just west of the Ancient Library building, both built on the same general plan as the two massive stone structures that now front Clinton and second street, an imposing quarter of the holdings surrounding the Old Capitol will greet the University of Iowa students in the fall term.

One of the present conditions of students has only to think of the equipment of the University of Iowa two years ago. They might be able to imagine what will be the extension in the future. Only two years ago both the halls and the library were in constant need of repair, and the most recent and important improvements were much needed, waiting the day of the new law building. Just as is the case of the new Science Hall, a library building is to be expected. Additional which is the north and east building, the University Hospital, a school of law building will be the third part of a three-year extension to be completed the same year.

The board anticipates besides the probable building of the University Library and the completion of the Engineering building, the present student housing and dining halls to be ready in 1921.

RICHARD THE CONFESSIONAL

Mr. Creamer, editor of the Daily Iowan, has written a song for the new school year for the University of Iowa. It is intended, he says, to be a supplement and companion to the present University Lyric, and is expected by the press agent to be the toast of the city of Iowa City, June 28, 1920.

No Illinois Game

Iowa will not play Illinois November 10, on Iowa field. Undergrad Manager A. T. Illig of Illinois yesterday revealed the Iowa release of the previous plans which Illinois will play Symmes at Symmes and Iowa will meet Kansas at Iowa Islands.

November 10. The only day the two teams open on the Illinois schedule so no game will be played with the Illini.

The Illinois board was willing to stand with the Illinois-Iowa football contract if necessary to preserve the State's honor facing the two Illinois teams, and Mr. Illig requested the Illini to play Symmes.

As Iowa had an oral understanding with the Illini to play the Illini ten on November 10, and as the 10th is the earliest date the conference will be open for the entire state, it was agreed that the game be played with Symmes can be played.

Iowa has an oral understanding with the Illini to play the Illini on the 10th, and as the 10th is the earliest date the conference, the Illini are not available, the Illini board is willing to stand with the Illinois-Iowa football contract.

Iowa is expected to make the Illinois-Iowa football contract, and the Illini are expected to agree to the Illinois-Iowa football contract.

DEPARTMENT OF GENTLE WINDS

Professor Harry G. Orai will be at Iowa City this week to finish his work on the University of Iowa. He is expected to arrive on the 10th, and the board is expected to make the contract for the University of Iowa.

Chorus Rehearsal

Professor Harry G. Orai will be at Iowa City this week to finish his work on the University of Iowa. He is expected to arrive on the 10th, and the board is expected to make the contract for the University of Iowa.

RELIGIOUS AWAKENING

The recent religious movements at Iowa have increased the support of the student body. Every effort to train the normal nature has not been without hearty re-operation. The student body are interested. The indifference of a few years ago has disappeared. The work which was done by a few a short time ago is now pressed by the many. This shows that Iowa men are not indifferent to their religious status.

The time of the local T. C. I. C. has been missed. Strong men are needed here. The work is opportunity. The future of the colleges is in much evidence. Meetings are more frequent than formerly. Men with real talent are leading them. A new spirit has been active members. A healthy growth is being made.

It is necessary to make certain deductions. It is necessary to the full acceptance of the interest good in the college courses. It throws the student into contact with those who are inclined to succeed in life. Where men begin to think deeply of their religious and moral, as well as their physical nature, they are standing upon solid ground. This work receives a great many better things. It makes better men.

No. I am not general, by university authorities in the Colbert house (foot 1 p.m.) entirely, so called the postal Dr. Flass. The hypothesis was test in the best off of the Colbert country wide who was conducting her "shoe" during the first performance here this week. "You see," he continued, "most of the educational institutions have departments of psychology and they all recognize hypnotism. Often I meet those psychological and am able to demonstrate some of my methods before them."

"Isn’t the work pretty tireing," Dr. Flass asked.

"No, far though we work hard in the evening, we do not do anything else the rest of the day. In the morning we go to the farms and rent out the season."

"But you are raising this performance," I want to say to my wife and her work." And then the popular hypnotist was willing to talk on any subject the interviews noted on the suggestions and went to see Mrs. Flass interested the psychological interests.

Irrving Meeting.

There will be a meeting of Irving Institute on Wednesday evening. All members not having their bills paid are required to be present.

Three Splendid Entertainments

STATEMENT.

The Forum League solicits the patronage of the University and general public for the three entertainments advertised herewith. They ask this as a mark of appreciation for the successful work which the League is doing. They need four hundred dollars to meet the expenses of conducting three inter-collegiate and three inter-society contests. This amount is only a part of the expense largely borne by the literary societies. Last year the public patronized the League Course so liberally that the funds needed for that year were secured. This year the Course has been thus far a financial failure. Your presence at these three entertainments will save the situation and enable the societies to complete their further work in proper fashion and close the year without debt.

Miles Marie Ramsey and Pearl

Bunet have returned after a week

visit at their home in Davenport.

Mr. Thomas McCulloch has returned after spending a few days

at his home in Evanston.

F. B. Trego has returned.

The University has recently returned, through the kindness of Mr.

Bella Trues and her mother, the present of the last B. Trego of Littlington, Iowa. The collection is of special interest because it represents the labor of love of a man who carried on his studies in the first half of the last century, when

Iowans, the issue of his earlier activity, and Iowa were still a wilders

The collection consists of eighty six large folios containing plants collected chiefly in western Illinios provincies to 1860, and is accompanied by the four manuals which the reasonable student used in his earlier work. These manuals are almost unloved to modern students of botany, through the time of publication they were the best known

The names and order of publication follow:

Boston's Manual of Botany for N. Am., 6th edition, 1852. (This was the first work made by Mr. Trego in June, 1815.)

Torrey's Botany, 1852.

Boston's N. Am. Botany, 6th edition, 1813.

Mr. Trego was formerly a teacher, in the early seventies he settled on a farm near Lisbon, in Boileautown county, where he made his home for a third of a century.

By his death the upper Mississippi valley lost one of its pioneers, and the science of botany one of its early developers in this part of the world.
