Beavers Not Engaged to Referee Saturday

There are a variety of other rumors about here, such as that the Beavers have placed bets on Drake, and that he was influenced by King, who is his superior officer at the army post; but it must be stated that none of these have any substantiation.

However, they do not make the student body at Iowa love the two opponents, but the more conservative here are glad that Beavers at least, will seek new fold ofاعدادن on referral next Saturday.

AMUSEMENTS

Max Figman

One of the best entertainments, if not the best, that this week's road trip to the UNI has been to watch Mr. Figman in "The Infallible." For two years Mr. Figman has been somewhat of an experiment as a star, but his success was so marked off for all time and is regarded as one of the leading money-makers in the country. He is a true artist with a true sense of timing, and no one on the stage today is qualified to give a better performance of "The Infallible" than he does. As for the play, in the routine "It Is the Goods," and will live for many years, it has every desirable quality, an interesting story, plenty of action, lots of humor and witty lines, and above all, it is free from anything like vulgar suggestion. Mr. Figman will be supported by a strong company and brings a new and complete production. The date will be sent Wednesday at the Children's Home are now ready for the engagement.

Nebraska's Cross Country Try-Out

Eighteen men took part in Nebraska's cross country try-out last week. L. R. Anderson won the hill by 150 yards in the fast time of 28 minutes and 46 seconds.
