I've Got To Say

Insomuch about "winner" that will make you all up and take notice, I don't think I can say that these lines by the Great Wilyman that start out "For in the wine of victory our discontent," but Shakespeare was no knacker and he couldn't say it like that without letting you in on what assistance, or as he added on "the glories, etc." I think the most "glorious" thing about this time of the year is one of those English "Hi-lo's." You know those are the lightest rain coats made. They feel dry and long light and yet are cut full raglan. There isn't an excuse of discomfort in a pound of them.
