The Third Degree

Henry B. Harris will offer at the Golden Wednesday evening Club Henry B. Harris' latest successful play, "The Third Degree," which enjoys the distinction of having a lofty purpose and being a fit companion to his
"The Lion and the Mouse." Unlike the latter, "The Third Degree" does not deal directly with capital and labor.
Rather, it is more interesting because of its treatment of the sordid less police "third degree." But the love story, so fascinating and absorbing as that of "Shirley Boone and Jeffrey Quick, is in "The Lion and the Mouse." It is this story along with the vapid and spirit of Kipling.
The growing cast is an unusually talented one, headed by Pernasda Ellis, the youngest actress, Paul Evert, remembered for his work as John Tyler in "The Lion and the Mouse," and Alfred Moss, Stephen A. Harris, Margaret Drew, Freda Bann, Ralph
Jansen, Thomas L. Coleman, Auro Ramos, and Horace Pennington.

CUT FLOWERS
For the friend that is ill, for the friend you wish to remember in the home or school, the friend you wish to congratulate, for the year, and as the production is said to
"be realized.
It was a 'thirty year' that was partly gone - to be and the first thought of experience.
