STATE TITLE SPIRITS

INVADES IOWA

The New Year found a State Planer many spirits, including a few bottles of the genuine article,

The warmest warning was issued on the back of an advertisement advertising the salesman's stock as "pure original whisky" and "made from the finest ingredients.

The State Spirit Control Board, in its report, said it was trying to stop the sale of "undercut spirit.

"Undercut" was the term used to describe the sale of bottles of"} spirit" at a lower price than the original price, with the intention of taking advantage of the low price.

The board also warned that the sale of "undercut spirit" could lead to the sale of counterfeit and dangerous products, which could be harmful to consumers.

The report also noted that the
dangerous products, which could
be harmful to consumers.

The state would continue to work with local authorities to prevent the sale of "undercut spirit" and other fraudulent practices.
