POLITICAL EVENTS

The campaign of 1910 has its keynote in the battle for the control of the United States Senate. It is a battle which is being waged on the plains and mountains of the West, in the forests and fields of the East, and in the heart of the prairie lands of the Middle West. It is a battle which is being fought for the control of the government of the United States, and the outcome of this battle will determine the future of the country.

In Sterling Silverware

The Sterling Silverware has been a beautiful adaptation of the best materials of the period of Napoleon. The decoration is lavish yet classic, skillfully applied to the beautiful pieces we have to offer. You will like the pattern in the odd pieces, such as drinking cups, napkin rings, etc. as well as the full sets of silver.

"Buster Brown" and his relative starred a week at the Coliseum Friday night, the only other attraction being the first play, "Silver Throats." It is rather surprising that a musical piece which has an appeal only on the road, has reached the Olin. Carbonic comedy should be as still as well presented as it was here. Master Harold West, a diminutive comedian who assures us he is fully twenty-one-years of age, played the title role and succeeded in getting a good deal of humor out of it. Although suffering, of course, from a comparison with the work of Master Harold who originally played the part, Master West made good with the audience. The chorus sang well and danced agilely.

"Buster Brown," a dramatization of August J. Brown's popular novel of the same name came again Monday night, a little shop-worn from long familiarity but still a favorite. It's one of those common almost of all shows, a deteriorated cast. Almost the entire cast which last year played here is the present cast this season. "Hello Bill," described as a "two-hour-act," appears tomorrow night Not the closed Saturday with another look play, "Handmaid," the dramatization of Mrs. Fielding's farce novel. It is good news that Ragtime Walter's Pals in Fill is to come in next week.
