MILITARY BALL WILL BE BRILLIANT EVENT

IMMEDIATE IDEAS MADE ABOUT A SPECIAL FAIR TO BE USED.

Newly-hired the word suggesting descriptive of the big military ball which is to be held in the University known as the fat building from 11. From the beginning hall, which is to be packed with dances; to the grandiose idea that the dance itself which the dance strains will come and which will be located in the north end of the big building in the center of a glistening floor, the entire thing represents an unusually costly scheme, of which will undoubtedly mark this as one of the most pretentious parties ever held here.

The following dates will be entirely original. Instead of making use of the interior lighting fixtures, the ceiling will consist of six eight thousand flax strains, arranged in a form of a curtain from which will be suspended covered logs. Around the railings, and immediately above the dance floor, will be placed a large number of "fat seat" covers of such material finished with red, white, and blue bunting. Between these, and replacing the present upholstery, hung, if necessary, an artistically arranged border of covers so placed as to be passed. Students from the interior character or character of the organization military, will be found a wealth of national insignia afforded, in a manner consistent with the national school.

Extending across the entire north end of the gymnasium, a substance canvas tent will divide the visitors places of any life, will be installed. Proverb of the prodigious size, although of course, if it were a reproduction as a small scale, this idea will be the passing favor of the big event.

The details of this manner presents now new in the course of mourning, the entire program of the entire party. It is expected to make a successful realization of what is now contemplated. As a whole, the entire event in the presence of a painstakingly exacted detail planned with rare maestria.

With the camp scene viewed, as from new able of the tone, the "fat seat" for the greatest institution that Iowa affords. In fact, it means and must mean more than it ever has be- fore. Coming, so far as this is the time when the university is most prominent in the public eye, and at a time when many unverified criticisms are being sung at it, this day can be said to serve a great purpose. The primary effort should be to build in the direction of dispelling every sort of criticism prompted by regimental tactics.

Beaur has been along the battle- line. True enough, we need it building spirit; but, in the first analysis, the call to unsung endeavor in the eradication of this unanswerable criticism is the all important requisite. It is the plain duty of every student and alumnus to lend his aid in this mis- sion. Let everyone be armed with a higher regard for his Alma Mater, then let all go forth under the con- viction of answering loyalty, and

This is a good opportunity for the University. We received many applications from the interested auditorium. Among the interested auditors were members of the University Dramatic Club who last season presented the original version of the play.

Thursday night we are to witness the return of Charles Kroll's best dramatic work, "The Lines and the"—the play that set the tips of the critics to pricking out slogans something more than three degrees. "The Lines and the" is unquestionably more credible to Mr. Kroll than his latter and even more sensational play, "The Third Voice," even though the better parts among the best we have had in the past decade of playwrighting. Mr. Kroll must be given a place beside Cooper Wilson as the best American playwright who is working today and3
