Two days ahead of the Democratic convention of the national organization, the University of Iowa literary societies are staging plays which are proving to be very much a part of the general election campaign. The members of the Orpheus and Kappa honorary societies have been working hard for the past six weeks in order to produce these plays, which will be presented before the public on September 23 and 24. The plays have been announced by the University of Iowa Student Council as the future events of the year.

The plays will be performed in the Iowa Memorial Union and will be open to the public. Admission will be free for all students and $1 for non-students. Refreshments will be available for purchase.

In addition to the plays, the literary societies will also be holding a variety of other events throughout the year, including debates, literary readings, and social gatherings. The University of Iowa Student Council is working hard to ensure that these events are inclusive and accessible to all students.

The University of Iowa Student Council is excited to bring these events to the campus and the community, and we look forward to seeing everyone there.

Please mark your calendars and come out to support these events. We hope to see you there!
