DEAN GREGORY HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION

IOWA LIONS CLUB AND ITS MANY FIELD MEN

After Ten Years of Service He Will Resign His Connection With Iowa.

In Friday's Des Moines Register and Monday, headed in his resignation to the Board of Education, the name of an imposing character has appeared in the legal columns. The resignation will take effect at the end of the academic year. He will turn over to the state of Iowa.

The letter which contained the resignation read as follows: Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 7, 1911—To the State Board of Education of Iowa, Gentlemen: In the year of 1901-02 I resigned the position of Professor of the College of Law at the University of Wisconsin to accept the unsalaried position of Professor of Law at the State University of Iowa. Should I serve all the ten years of the present appointment, my successor then will be exactly ten years.

I have felt the deepest interest and honor in being identified with my state, and I desire to tender respectfully to your Honorable Board of resignation, to take effect at your earliest convenience, the resignation of the position of Professor of Law at the University of Iowa.

The boxscore has been emblazoned in brick, four lines of verse to a course of three years.

Iowa City, Jan 7, 1911—The resignation of Professor of Law at the University of Iowa has been accepted. From forty-nine to forty-one per cent of the Iowa law graduates have already joined the ranks of the new bar.

Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., is a city of high stoned buildings, against which the Memorial Arch looms. However, inside, it is a busy town with vibrant culture and history. The nation's capital is a place of contrasts, where the past and present coexist. The National Mall, a vast landscaped garden, is a centerpiece, hosting the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument, and the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. The Smithsonian Institution, with its numerous museums, attracts millions of visitors each year, offering a glimpse into the history and culture of the United States. The United Nations has its headquarters in New York City, and the United States Capitol, the seat of the federal government, stands as a symbol of democracy. The city is also known for its political influence and is the home of the White House, the official residence and workplace of the President of the United States. Washington, D. C., is a city that truly embodies the spirit of the United States, with its rich history, diverse culture, and significant political role.
