NUMBER 31

IOWA TEAM STARTS ON MINNESOTA TRIP Twenty Men Taken on Invasion of North MASS MEETINGS CHEER THE HAWKEYES Big Crowd Sees Determined Warriors Off For the Hardest Struggle of the Year.

Old J. Pluvius refused to lend his warming influence toward increasing Iowa enthusiasm yesterday, with the result the mass meeting scheduled for the bleachers failed to prove popular. About fifty of the most ardent followers of the team braved the cold blasts handed out by the aforesaid J. P., and watched the Iowa squad in its last practice here. The band was out, and with the few rooters present succeeded in making up in enthusiasm what the mass meeting lacked in numbers.

The regulars were lined up against the second line men during the first part of the scrimmage, and later against the husky freshmen. To prevent any possible injuries at this stage Coach Hawley held the men in, drilling them more on theoretical execution of plays than on fighting. The men were unusually successful with most of the plays, with the exception that some of them went off slower than might have been desired. Speed is to play an important part in the success or failure of the Hawkeyes next Saturday, especially if the game is played on a hard field as it may be in the northern city. The strength of the Gophers will make it impossible for the Hawkeyes to gain unless the plays go off rapidly.

In the little time that he has had, Hawley has put the men back into fairly good fighting form, and from the showing made yesterday, has succeeded in finding a stronger combination than has been used in any of the games so far. On the left side of the line Buckley, Ney and Hanson will work together, with O'Brien in the pivotal position. On the right wing Trickey has been shifted back to guard and should succeed in stopping the gains that came through that position last Saturday. Alexander is working in something like his old form at tackle. The right end position still remains uncertain, with the probability that it will be held by one of the Penningroths.

In the backfield Baird played for a time at full back last night, showing fairly good form in his plunges. It is not likely however that he will play unless Murphy should sustain an injury that would take him from the game. Banton and McGinnis played well at halves last night and should be good for some strong work on Northrup field Saturday. McGinnis in particular has been strong and speedy in carrying the ball, and should prove a strong part of the Iowa offense.

Meloy, working at quarter, has shown up well all week, winning the confidence of the team and its supporters. He is speedy in handling the ball and a hard man to tackle in the open field. In a spectacular run that took the ball over for a touchdown last night he showed his ability to get away from tacklers without allowing the progress of the ball to be stopped. Although inexperienced in handling the team it is believed that his work Saturday will be above the average. In a pinch he may have a chance to do some drop-kicking and it is anticipated that he will make good in that department should he get such an opportunity.

That Hawley is likely to spring some surprises in the Minnesota game is generally conceded. Even after the open practice against the first year men, indicating that they are working to the last on formations that may be possibly prove effective against the mighty Gophers. While the tremendous difference in the showing made by the two teams in their games last Saturday leaves the Hawkeyes little hope for victory against Minnesota there are a number of optimistic supporters in the Iowa ranks who look for Iowa to at least hold the Gophers to a low score. Members of the squad have little to say with regard to the coming battle but are evidently possessed with a determination to retrieve themselves for the bad beginning made in the Cornell game.

The team left last night from the Rock Island station taking a special sleeper straight through. An enthusiastic bunch, larger than that which attended the afternoon meeting, was on hand to see the Iowa players go. An impromptu mass meeting was held about the special car and most of the men were called upon for speeches was to the effect that Iowa speeches was to the effect that Iowa would give Minnesota a much harder fight than that school expects.

The twenty men who were taken on the trip are the following: O'Brien, Trickey, Alexander, Von Lackum, Hanson, Ney, Buckley, Meloy, Penningroth, Murphy, McGinnis, Repass, Clemons, Bowman, Drasda, Korf, Von Maur, Banton, Bowen and Baird. The team which will probably start the game will be as follows: Buckley, le; Ney, lt; Hanson, lg; O'Brien, c; Trickey, rg; Alexander, rt; Von Lackum, re; Meloy, qb; McGinnis, lb; Murphy, fb; Penningroth, rh.

HALLOWE'EN PROGRAM HELD BY THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

Philos and Zets Have Special Stunts Planned for Tonight

Only the Marshall Law and Irving literary societies will hold regular programs tonight. The Zetagathians will meet in a joint session to enjoy a Hallowe'en party. The Philomatheans have postponed their championship tryouts, which were to have been held tonight, until next week, and will have a special joint Hallowe'en program this evening with the Octave Thanet society, which is as follows:

- Song, Johnson.
- Original ghost story, Foley.
- Reading, Beth Crawford.
- Communication from the Spirit World, Zora Wells.
- Spirit Stunt, Bell and Cooper.
- Music, Beeson.
- The Marshall Law program is: Reading, "Marriage at Common Law," Russell.
- The life of the late Justice Harlan, C. O. Sjulin.

Debate—Resolved, That the Oregon Plan of Electing U. S. Senators Should Be Adopted by Iowa. Affirmative, Waller and Setz; negative, Dutton and Stienberg.

- Irving: Optional, Oviatt.
- Debate—Affirmative, Holmes and Wenger; negative, Norris and Jones.
- Declamation, De Freece.

Department Football Schedule

The inter-department football schedule was definitely settled yesterday by Director Schroeder. The next game will be between the dents and pharmlacs today. The time set for the game is 4:30.

Next Monday at 4:30 the medics will play the L. A. team. This should be a close game and a hard fought one as the two teams have both beaten the pharmlacs by a large score. The medics are supposed to be the best according to many "dope" sheets, yet the collegiates are confident of winning. One week from today the L. A. team will play the dents. The dent-medie game will be played the week following.

C. F. U.-Newman Party

C. F. U. and Newman societies will entertain at a Hallowe'en party Saturday night at K. C. hall, at 8 o'clock. Every Catholic student in the university is cordially invited.

IOWA CITY HIGH SCHOOL MEETS GRINNELL SATURDAY

Local Aggregation Expects Stiff Battle With Visitors

Iowa City will meet Grinnell in football tomorrow afternoon on Iowa field. The game will be called at 2:30. Physical Director Schroeder, of the university, will umpire and W. P. Knowlton, a football star at Iowa four years ago, will act as referee.

Coach Miller, of the local school, predicts an especially hard fought game. He saw Grinnell beat Marshalltown 12 to 0 last Saturday at Grinnell, and says Grinnell's backfield is one of the fastest he has seen this year. Grinnell beat North High Des Moines two weeks ago 5 to 0 and three weeks ago held West High to a 0 to 0 game. But Miller, too, has a gritty bunch of players and says he has no fear that the local team will not hold its own against the visitors. Iowa City will use but few different plays and expects to depend largely upon straight football.

Roosevelt Praises Greek

C. H. Weller, professor of Greek and Archaeology at Iowa, has just received a letter from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt which reads in part as follows:

"If I get a chance I will gladly say all I can for the study of Greek. Unfortunately I never grew so that I myself really enjoyed Greek literature in the original, but my son in Africa read no book more steadily than his Homer, both the Iliad and Odyssey which he had with him in Greek."

Commenting upon the part of the letter quoted, Professor Weller said: "Roosevelt stands squarely for industrial and technical education. He believes in trade schools and in practical things. But he preserves, also a supreme balance in these days of educational unrest. The broader minded classicists now admit the value of science and in the same way the broader scientists admit the value of the classics, especially of Greek. Now comes Roosevelt with the needful word lest we forget how much in our highest national life we owe to the 'magnificent Greek literature,' as he recently described it."

BULLETINS OF THE GAME

In order to give its readers and the other followers of the team the best possible service during the coming series of games away from home, The Iowan will get bulletins direct from the field at Minneapolis, Madison and Lafayette. In order to secure the best possible service, a staff correspondent will go with the team on each of these three trips to cover the game.

For the game at Minneapolis tomorrow, a direct wire has been secured from that place to Iowa City, and a full and up to the minute account of the plays will be sent as the game goes on. Bulletins will be posted at various places around town.

FIRST DISTANCE RUN TOMORROW AFTERNOON

INITIAL CROSS COUNTRY TRY-OUT TO BE HELD

Men Will Run Two Miles and Will Finish Before High School Game, About 2:15

The first cross country run of the season will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:15, just before the beginning of the Grinnell-Iowa City high school game. At present there are twenty-three men entered. The men will be taken a distance of two miles from the city and started and the finish will be directly in front of the bleachers on the athletic field.

This race is the first of a series of three. One week from Saturday the men will be taken to a distance three miles and a week after that a distance of five miles. There are to be given to the men making the best averages in the three races, six large cups. No man will receive any reward for running but one race. It is necessary to compete in all three runs and make a total average. The cups will be given therefore to the men making the best total scores in the three events.

The cup offered by Professor Bush to the fraternity making the best showing will be awarded under the same conditions. Every man must run in all three races. The fraternity with the biggest average in the three events receives the cup. Professor Bush is an old Harvard runner, having won his letter, and is very enthusiastic over developing cross country runners.

The six cups given by the athletic club and the one by Professor Bush will be placed in Whetstone's window after Saturday.

Choral Society Meeting

At a meeting held last evening in the office of Professor Gustav Schoettle, it was decided to hold the first meeting of the Choral society next Monday evening in the natural science auditorium at 7:30. The town people are taking great interest in the work of this organization and a large society is anticipated.

Tennis Finals Tomorrow

The challenge round in the open tennis tournament will be played tomorrow afternoon between Vander Zee, winner of the tournament, and Culbertson, last year's champion. The double finals will be played some time next week.

Shambaugh at Drake

Professor Benjamin F. Shambaugh spent yesterday in Des Moines, where he addressed the Drake university in the morning and attended a meeting at the university in the afternoon. He will return to Iowa City today.

THE BROADER EDUCATION

Ex-President Roosevelt's letter to Professor Weller serves to recall a fact which people are all too likely to forget in these days of technical training and preparation for money-making in college studies. The good old days of broad, classical education, when no particular end other than an aid in appreciation of life and the enjoyment of its higher pleasures was attempted are not gone for ever, nor are they in any real danger. Formerly, the technical training was unknown; in the last few years there has been danger that the pendulum would swing the other way. Agricultural, mechanical and professional schools have sprung up everywhere, and their supporters have ridiculed the idea of spending time in learning things of no practical value.

The proper solution, as usual, lies mid-way between the two ideas. A technical education is all very well; but there are few people who would not be benefited for having it based upon a sound collegiate training. A professional life is likely enough at the best to narrow a man's views as he settles down to the daily grind. There are those who, probably, will get along well enough without a classical education; but that they are better without it, or even as well equipped as they would be with it, is harder to say. The universities are recognizing this fact, and in a few years it will be impossible to enter a professional school in a high-class institution without having first obtained a collegiate degree. The proper adjustment between the two systems of learning is at length being reached; reached, it is true, through a plan which takes more of the student's time, but which leaves him far better

To Aldous For More Roses...

A shy young man had been calling on "the sweetest girl in the world," but, being bashful, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the Rose in his buttonhole and said: "I'll give you a kiss for that Rose."

A crimson flush spread over his countenance, but the exchange was made after some hesitation on his part. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked in surprise.
"To Aldous' for more Roses," he called back from the door.

Clever Clothes for Men Who Know

"Folk Songs," said Professor Schoettle, "have been described by Sir Hubert Pary in 'The Evolution of the Art of Music' as the first essays made by man in distributing his notes so as to express his feelings in terms of design. We shall shortly examine some folk songs in order to see how this design gradually became larger and more various, and how, through this process, the foundations were laid for the masterpieces of modern instrumental music. We shall see that this advance has accompanied an advance in civilization; that as men's lives have become better ordered, as higher standards of living and thinking have appeared, the sense of beauty has grown until, finally, this steady progress has resulted in the creation of certain permanent types." Professor Schoettle then brought out the distinction between folk songs and the modern art songs. The folk songs sprang unconsciously from the hearts of the simple people and have not that wide range and appli-

Of all the musical successes which have been endorsed by New York, Boston and Chicago, none stand out more boldly than does Martin & Emery Co.'s production of the Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert musical story, "The Red Mill," which comes to the Coldren, Monday evening, Oct. 30.

The tone of refinement which pervades this unusual musical play, the modest and picturesque costuming the interesting and clever story of the two American tourists who have gone broke on a traveling trip and who, after many complicated situations, find themselves assisting in an escape from the old red mill, form one of the most sensational stories ever given a musical setting. It is made doubly entertaining by the introduction of some of Victor Herbert's most tuneful music. Mr. Herbert has fitted Mr. Blossom's unique story and telling lyrics with melodies that will be hummed and sung and whistled for many years to come. Among the best musical numbers heard in "The Red Mill" are "Every Day Is Ladies Day with Me," "You Never Can Tell About cation to men's thoughts and feelings that is found in art songs.

"Folk songs," continued the speaker, "occupied a much more important place in the lives of the people who used them than is commonly supposed. When we consider that at the time the earliest of them were written, few people could read or write, that books were printed in Latin, and that there were no newspapers, railroads or telegraphs, we can understand how large a part these old songs played in the scheme of life. The strolling singer was the newspaper of the time. Furthermore, the general illiteracy of the people made of the folk songs a natural vent of their feelings. With a limited vocabulary at their disposal, it is natural that they should use the song as a means of expression for their joys and sorrows. Many of the oldest melodies existed as an adjunct to dancing and religious ceremonies, and were, therefore, to some extent, utilitarian."

The lecture was freely illustrated by songs played on the piano. This is an effective way of giving such lectures, and is always popular. The interest taken in Professor Schoettle's lectures by those desiring a more intimate knowledge of this great art warrants the belief that such courses will become a part of the musical activities in Iowa City as they have already in the music centers of the east. The next lecture, "The Polyphonic Music of Bach," will be given November 9.
