Many Other Speakers on Program

The second day of the state con- ference of Churches and Convocation was opened by Howard Williams, the W. T. C. A. Superintendent. This was followed by the address of the president of the con- ference, Prof. C. F. Ensink. The program is pronounced a great success on the part of the state advisory board.

In this paper the following lines were quoted: "The church and the state works together, and its differences from the problems of the past. This conference is a great step forward."

Wallingford exploits a carpet task to match the carpets of the world. He makes such headway that his enterprise is encouraged by an investment of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, the local capitalists falling over themselves to put in their minds. He, of course, retains a controlling interest in the enterprise and has the manipulations of the rich. There's but one complication. His pretty stenographer knows his schemes and she tries to persuade him from going to the bad. Although he has developed a fondness for her, he maintains that he is on the square and by a singular coincidence everything comes his way. He is sided in his innumerable by Blenkinslaw, who has been his pal for many a day. The fact that the carpet task industry has gone along so well creates a real estate boom in the town. Waltingford has become a millonaire, but the town is a laughing stock.
