Four Regulars Lost with Purple Contest
MURPHY, ALEXANDER, OBREIN AND NEY FEKISH
Players Who Tllish Among Greatest of Iowa Athletes-Hanson's Best Guards

Saturday's contest with Northwestern will mark the passing of some of the greatest players who ever donned the purple and gold. Hawley's great end, probably the greatest individual whose name will be linked with the football history of Iowa and who has already done as much for the university as with the team, and the friendship and work of James N. Buckly, the great tackle who has been a household word, and probably Murphy, the great right guard who has been one of the most consistent players in the history of the team, will also pass out of Iowa athletics.

These three men, Murphy, Murphy and Alexander, represent the cream of the last three years. Probably no more faithful nor consistent players have ever represented the university, and in nearly all cases, each made the team in his first year, and has hardly missed a game since then. Each made the team in the season of 1909, when John O'Brien's men put in a year of ups and downs; they were on the crest and winning honors in nearly every instance, and they have fought on this season's greater, though less fortunate, fortunes. They will be remembered as long as Iowa pays athletic teams.

Murphy, with a great right school record behind him, has been of unusual value to the team throughout. Finishing this work, his work has been of a more irregular and uneven type, but he has been a constant. In the last two contests, with Purdue and Army, his attack has been the deciding factor, and he has shown a wonderful. He will be playing his last game Saturday in poor condition but he is expected to show good hand in the Northwestern game in spite of this fact.

O'Brien has made a name throughout the west this fall, his wonderful drop kicks have brought him into prominence, and his accurate passing and general defense have given him the desired position of the best back on the west. He has done dubious Ontario, bringing the game as defensive as it has been for weeks. Murphy has never been outplayed by any Classic he has met. He will be generally missed as an all-westerner this year.

Alexander is the third three-year to the team, and it is doubtful whether a more popular player has ever been any the influent in the record of a student. Like Murphy and O'Brien, he has had a big game in his three years of service, and he has always been a large contributor to the success of his team.

IOWA WALTERS TO MAKE CAKE WILL BE RECOGNIZED
NOTRE DAME May Join One of the Big Wrestling
Championships in the West

Wrestling in Iowa is becoming a free issue and is accompanying a great step in the development of wrestling in this state. According to Murphy, "We will not be too long before Iowa is either a member of the Minnesota Valley Athletic Conference in wrestling, for this is the year that we may place our last football game for Iowa in the Northwestern K. G. A., and in the case of the Minnesota Valley Athletic Conference, our record in this sport must be so good that we may be able to gain admission into that conference."

The only basis for admission to that conference is to have a team that has won the championship in the state, and it is expected that the committee will provide the means of making a larger crowd in the auditorium with 70 per cent or more of the football team available to those of us who are with the university as well as with the team in this state."

Dean W. J. Tenney has a great deal to say about the meeting. All the bases on the football team will be worked out in favor of such a movement and a meeting of all those interested will be called at the first meeting of the season to discuss the matter, and that the conference will be the best possible basis for the University of the Iowa.

It is obvious that the last football team has won the championship in the state, and it is expected that the committee will provide the means of making a larger crowd in the auditorium with 70 per cent or more of the football team available to those of us who are with the university as well as with the team in this state."

NEW LITERARY FIELD

With the tremendous growth of the moving picture business a new field of literary nature has been opened up which should not fail to attract efforts, especially of that of the university student. Nearly every college now in the moving picture show presents miniature plays or skits, which, almost needless to state, requires a manuscript. This play is in writing identical in the same as any other, the parts are committed to memory and the whole thing is done in the same manner, except that it is a photographic manuscript.

It is in the writing of these plays for films that is to be found a pleasant and diverting way of developing your creative talent of a creative nature. Moreover, the work should have considerable appeal from its more artistic and financial standpoint. It can be made exceedingly lucrative. There are literally millions of films made annually. These require a distinct situation, a separate play. It is said by a certain film manufacturer in the city of Phil- adelphia that one out of every hundred manuscripts submitted for consideration is accepted. When the fact is considered that but an almost infinitesimal fraction of the great number of so-called legitimate plays is deemed worthy of purchase and use, this opportunity for the budding writer is worthy of more than passing consideration. As it is apparent there is no one quite so well qualified for this field as a person who has gained some skill in the various forms of composition in this respect the university student is well fitted. The attempt might repay the effort. It is at least worth a trial.

Dorus and Motion to Play

The latter-day football game scheduled between the Johns and Johns for last Monday, night was postponed on account of the wet field. "The managers of the two teams will hold a meeting to-day and decide at what time this game will be play-played. There is much enthusiasm in these two college and the feeling is so great that a game is demanded. The J. A. team has disbanded and will play no more games this season.

On October 15th a Manufacturer of Men’s High Class Hand Tailored Clothing shipped a lot of Suits to our different stores that should have been delivered by September 15th. As the season for that class of Clothing was too far advanced we refused to accept them. After a lot of correspondence the manufacturers, rather than have these suits returned to him and left on his hands, CUT THE PRICE about 25 per cent. This we accepted, and beginning today we will place these suits on sale. There are about 100 suits in the first lot made up for our regular trade to sell at $12.75. All new styles in the line desired. TODAY YOU MAY HAVE YOUR CHOICE OF THESE SUITS AT $13.75

The 2nd lot of 75 suits were made to sell at retail to our trade at $20 to $25. No man would want a finer suit than these. The models are new, the materials choice, and to make it still more interesting we’ve added broken lines of OUR HIGH GRADE SUITS ($20 to $25) all unfinished, beginning today you may have your choice of these suits at $16.75

Undoubtedly after Thanksgiving. There will be five teams entered this year instead of six as was previously arranged. Eight brigades, men who were to have made up the sixth team, refused that basketball as it is being played today is not attracive enough. This leaves the darts, murders, polo, tennis, and engineering to fail in and the unchampionship. The first game and the inter-departmental schedule will be held the first Friday after Thanksgiving.

The Midweek Meeting

A very good crowd turned out to the Y. M. C. A. mid-week meeting at Class hall last evening, when President William Douglas Hucificate of Hartford Theological Seminary gave an address on the choice of vocation. Mr. Hucificate proved to be a great speaker, and his message was one of considerable interest to all present. He told of the new pathways opening up in lines of social service work; one of the new opportunities which this will take place tomorrow. Paul Collier presided at the meeting.
