Dr. Pelton's Death
Sad sSsSsion University

Dr. Pelton's death is deeply regretted by Dr. Pelton's co-workers, his students, and his friends. Dr. Pelton was a man of keen intellect and a kindly disposition. He was a man of great versatility and a man of great ability. He was a man of great humility and a man of great compassion. He was a man of great faith and a man of great devotion. He was a man of great courage and a man of great strength. He was a man of great joy and a man of great happiness. He was a man of great peace and a man of great serenity. He was a man of great courage and a man of great strength. He was a man of great joy and a man of great happiness. He was a man of great peace and a man of great serenity.
that it will predis the university more to meet the larger institutions of the West in equal competition than it will to win meaningless and gaudy victories over the small state institutions.

It is true that the alumni of the state should have a chance to see their teams in action. But they can hardly expect the university alums to confine their efforts to the minor colleges of the state. It is in this which it has all to lose and nothing to gain. Michigan tried the experiment of journeying to Lincoln last fall, but for just such a game. The Wolverines, playing an anti-clim, at the end of a hard season, will never repeat the journey. Iowa students are more satisfied with the present schedule.

It would mean more than the weather will we carrying the white Christmas box too for when we place it into the next year.

Of course you watched it come in on March 5.

It might be well at this time to realize just the adjustment day is approaching.

There's something to be said for the old days, after all. Re-consider the soul booster two years ago!

With the New Year resolution job and the lap year joke both upon us, the dormant heart may well feel a critic or two.

But after all, what are we thinking about the improvements an-

H. PUJOL'S DEATH
SANFORD UNIVERSITY

The State University of Iowa, was born in Des Moines, Iowa, January 7, 1818. He lived a few days in his thirty-eight years of age when he obeyed the summons of death on January 11, 1853. He was at first, a farmer, and later engaged in the retail and wholesale business in Des Moines, where the firm was organized. He was a man of honor and integrity, and his death is a great loss to his friends.

The remains of Dr. Pelton were shipped to the home of his parents in time, when his death robbed the university of one of its most beloved professors.

Superintendent of the Dental College was closed off Monday evening, and a huge funeral procession was formed by the students of the college as a courting for the market.
