PHENOMENA EXPLAINED BY PROFESSOR SEIG

TELESCOPES FOR BARGAIN PRICES

Professor L. F. Seig, of the department of physics, has written for the Daily Iowan an explanation of the halo which so much pleased visible on Monday evening, and which greatly interested the astronomical listners interested about the university, as it appears that the halo as seen on Monday is more common. Here is the explanation:

The halo is due to the effect of either the sun or the moon light falling on crystals. What we see is the reflection of the light back to our eyes. The size of the halo which is seen will depend on the amount of light involved in the incident. The brightness of the moon or sun will affect the amount of light which is involved. The size of the halo will also depend on the size of the crystal which has been hit by the light. The size of the halo will also depend on the size of the crystal which has been hit by the light. The size of the halo will also depend on the size of the crystal which has been hit by the light.

Professor Seig explained that the small tangent bows are due to their axis horizontal, while those that day. He wishes that he might preach the vertical streak of light, colored strip light, and color is especially intense, been heretofore. In both of the two halos, and where it cuts states should find its way through the two halos the striking. The complete halo, which fortb his best SUDS, usually the former is much more inclined about the university, as Monday it will. All the above appearances are easy to Iowa City.

Those that are long fall usually the latter. It is larger than heretofore and a tangible red on the orange and green, as care to make them invaluable for the banquet.

A WORKFUL LIFE

The work of Dr. Prentice and Professor MacKissic in preparing for the use of the high school in teaching anatomy, biology, botany and zoology is worth of the highest commendation. The average high school in the city is not in a position to equip

Staff with these things, and the action of the university professors in coming to its aid is deserving of great praise. It is the function of the university to aid the high schools in every possible way, and the action of Professors Prentice and MacKissic shows that they realize the possibilities of the situation.

IOWA PROFESSIONS

The Daily Iowan believes that the university has no as strong an instructional staff as any similar institution in the state. In order to be fair to the students of the university and all those who have made and are making equity with the rest of the city, it will at intervals of one or two weeks publish pictures of members of the faculty, with a comple-tate account as possible of their residences.

Large Gallery Crowd Expected

Arrangements have been made by the decorating committee for a large gallery crowd at the fair this year.

The ceiling will be placed high enough to give the spectators a clear view of the floor. There will be told stories to take care of the crowd and everyone will have a good chance to see what is going on behind the beaut.iful wooden box. The function will start on the decorations.

The student choir will be in perfect condition and put in place. In one corner a small fireless will be contemplated and another with the red and blue stars will add greatly to the attractiveness of the hall.

This year the fair will be open to all, all paraders, as a large chorus is denounced, and plans laid for
