IOWA TAKES CONTEST AFTER HARD BATTLE

FINAL SCORE OF GAME IS TWENTY-THREE TO ELEVEN

Visitors Fight Hard and Hold Lead in First Half—Iowa Shows Lack of Practice

In the "hit-and-miss" match with Minnesota, Iowa came out winner by a good margin. Minnesota failed to make a single move in any more than 500 in Iowa's 55-1.

This week the team will show up against Nebraska, and the Cornhuskers are bound to be a tough proposition. If good preliminary work, a close match is expected. The team will probably be in the lead one or two points at the end of the game.

The new system of organizing the team has been established this year. The president, W. E. Linn, T. H. Van Camp and W. F. Christy; second takers, Richard L. Schmidt, A. D. Bohnert, T. H. Burns and H. A. Godden; first base, P. F. Purcell, C. G. Sturdevant, and B. H. Johnson, J. T. Jacob, A. B. Hays and P. D. Moulton. From the number the coaching force has been elected. President, Richard A. Eumore; vice-president, M. W. Williams; secretary, J. T. Johnson; treasurer, William Vevette.

The club did not choose a business manager from among its own members, but the association was not taken care of the work. Mr. Van Neustad has had much experience along this line and is sure to make the financial side a success. Last year this was not the case, the club remaining in debt. The better part of the club's success we may attribute to the financial side a success. Last year this was not the case, the club remaining in debt. The committee that has been chosen for the work of organizing the team is a fine one. The members of the committee are: Leander Decker, J. L. Wright and W. F. Christy.

Dean of the College of Applied Science

William Calt Raymond was born in Princeton, Iowa, March 2, 1854. He was educated in the public schools of Iowa and Russia, in 1874 he entered Kansas University. A few years later he entered Washington University, where he received his degree in 1878. The following year he became an instructor in civil engineering at the University of California, where he remained until 1899. From 1899 to 1907 he was engaged in professional work at San Francisco. In 1907 he became professor of civil engineering and superintendent of drafting at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He came to Iowa in 1907 as a professor of civil engineering. In 1908 he was promoted to the position of dean, in which position he has continued until the present time.

Under his administration, the college of applied science has been developed into a distinct department, containing an important place in the university. A building has been procured for the school, which, when completed, will have a frontage of 120 feet with wings 100 feet deep, affording accommodation for 450 students. The courses in the various branches of engineering have been developed, while Iowa is rapidly coming to the front among the engineering schools of the country. Dean Raymond is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Society for Promotion of Engineering Education, American Railway Education and Maintenance of Way, and the American Engineering Society. He holds the LL. D. degree from Washington University, conferred in 1914. He is Fellow of the American Association of Applied Sciences. As an author he works on engineering. Dean Raymond has gained considerable prominence. He is the author of "Plato Surveying," "Studies of Railroad Engineering," and "Railroad Field Geometry." Dean Raymond has taken a constructive stand in every department of the college, and is now faculty president of the Iowa University.
