REV. HENRY FOOTE SPEAKS AT VESPERS

HIS SUBJECT, "THE VISION OF AN EDUCATED MAN"

Purpose of An Educated Man Is to Give a Fuller Life and Larger Vision and Fit Them for Service

Rev. Henry Wilder Foote, S. T. B., D. D., secretary of the department of education of the American Unitarian association, spoke at the vesper service Sunday. He took for his subject, "The Vision of An Educated Man," bringing out many time-worn but interesting facts concerning the purpose of an education, and the visions that come to a man of genuine education.

The speaker told of the phenomenal passion for learning that has swept over the United States. Educational institutions for learning have sprung up on every hand. The real aim in spending so much money in this respect is not that the educated man may make more money but that he might obtain a fuller life and be more serviceable to his fellow man.

According to Rev. Foote, the educated man learns to see under the surface, to see the truth that is not apparent to a man of small vision. Education is useless if it fails to give a man a power of vision, the ability to interpret facts, and to turn sight into insight. A man of vision is moved and stimulated by a great deal that dominates his whole life, and so is not easily carried away by a vision of prestige or wealth. The difference between the great or mediocre in any profession is easily apparent. For instance, a great teacher interprets facts, the mediocre simply gives them. Education ought to make a man more than a man; it ought to create within him a knowledge of the fact that there are other men just as important as he, and that, therefore, he is not compelled to be guided by the caprices of his vain fancies. Especially true is this of the ministry.

Rev. Foote will remain in the city till Thursday evening, leaving on the midnight train for Urbana, Illinois. He will take an active part while here, in the convention of religious workers which convenes here this week.

The special feature of the service was the singing by the vesper choir.

New Water Supply

Drinking water for the university buildings and the hospital will hereafter be secured from the deep artesian well on the West Side. This well, which is owned by Dr. H. J. Prentiss, is said to be absolutely pure and the supply will be greater than any demand that can be made.

ZETS AND IRVINGS PREPARE FOR FINAL CLASH IN MARCH

Zetagathians Have Affirmative Side of Question

Now that semester examinations are over, the championship debaters are again at work on the home stretch for the university championship in debate. Just before the close of the semester the Philomatheans and Marshall Laws were eliminated from the race, leaving the Irvings and Zets to complete the course. These two teams both won on the affirmative side of the proposition for debate which necessitated a choice, by lot or agreement, of sides in the final contest. In the flip of the coin, the Zets won, and they chose the affirmative again, leaving the Irvings to change sides of the question. This of course means much more work on the part of the Irvings. This, however, often proves the salvation of that team which changes sides, as the team which does not change sides of the question often gets stale long before the debate, while the other team has to work hard to work up a new stand.

The final contest, determining the university championship, will be held in the natural science auditorium on March 8, at 8:15 p. m. The Zet affirmative team consists of W. H. Antes, Melvin J. Muckey and George G. Glick. The Irving negative team is constituted of J. H. Anderson, F. R. Blythe and C. D. Meloy. A warm contest is assured.

Basketball Schedule

The basketball schedule has been changed considerably since it was published last fall, and is given in its revised form below. The Hawkeyes as yet have not played any games away from home, and will have their schedule here finished with the exception of the game with Cornell on February 20 before they take any trips. Nine games are yet to be played, of which two are at home. The schedule:

- Feb. 9.—Grinnell at Iowa City.
- Feb. 12.—St. Joseph at Dubuque.
- Feb. 13.—Sacred Heart at Prairie du Chien.
- Feb. 14.—Wisconsin at Madison.
- Feb. 20.—Cornell at Iowa City.
- Feb. 22.—Grinnell at Grinnell.
- Feb. 29.—State Teachers' College at Cedar Falls.
- March 1.—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
- March 2.—Carleton at Northfield.

Fifty More Wanted

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" is now being rehearsed by the Choral society, and it is desired that all intending to take part in the spring festival join at once. The society will meet tonight in the liberal arts assembly hall at 7:30. The change from the natural science auditorium was made necessary on account of conflicting dates.

RELIGIOUS WORKERS CONVENE HERE TODAY

FIFTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE CONVENES IN OLD CAPITOL

Will Draw Noted University Educators from the East—Bowman Speaks Today

Today will mark the first of the sessions of the fifth annual conference of Church Workers in State Universities, a national gathering of much importance, which comes to Iowa City this year under the offices of the state university. Over one hundred delegates will be in attendance, including some of the foremost educators of the east. The two days' conference will take up in detail a consideration of the problems which confront university pastors and other state university religious workers.

The sessions today will be marked by addresses of welcome by President John G. Bowman, and general get-together conferences of the delegates. Some important addresses have been scheduled for this afternoon.

Professor Shailer Mathews, dean of the Chicago university divinity school, is one of the best known to speak. President Francis J. MacConnell of DePauw University, and Rev. James Beveridge Lee, of the Presbyterian board of education, of Philadelphia are also on the program.

Preceding the evening service tonight, there will be a full afternoon program, beginning with an address of welcome by Dr. Williams, of the Ministerial association, and President Bowman of Iowa university. On the afternoon program will be Dr. French, university pastor at Michigan, H. Y. Williams, Y. M. C. A. secretary at Iowa, and Dr. Foote, of the Unitarian department of education of Boston.

Wednesday will be a full day with morning, afternoon and evening services and such strong men as President Hill of the university of Missouri, Dad Elliott, of the international Y. M. C. A., the university pastors from Wisconsin, a Methodist pastor from Illinois, Professors Starbuck and Seashore of the university of Iowa, and many others.

COURSES AFFORD BENEFIT TO GIRLS OF UNIVERSITY

Final Basketball Game to Be Played Thursday Evening

There are several courses in physical training offered this semester that are worthy the notice of university girls. They are: 1. Theory and practice of physical education. This is a course that will be invaluable to the girls who ever expect to have occasion to take charge of gymnasium work. This course will come on Wednesday at 10 o'clock and will consist of lectures and practical application of the principles involved. 2. Indoor baseball. With the end of the basketball season, this class begins. The work comes on Wednesday at 3:30 and on Saturday at 10. Considerable interest is being manifested in this work since class games will be played and the sophomores in particular are eager for the championship. 3. Heavy apparatus. This work, under the direction of Miss Roe, comes at 4:30 on Friday. All sorts of apparatus is used. 4. Folk dances. This is perhaps one of the most interesting courses that is offered. Aside from the grace and poise that is to be acquired, the dances themselves possess an interest since they portray the varying characteristics of different nations. This class comes on Wednesday at 4:30. 5. Organized game course. This is a course of games, designed for the especial instruction of those who ever expect to take up kindergarten or settlement work. The class meets under Miss Roe on Saturday at 11 o'clock.

The final game to decide the girls' championship in basketball will be played Thursday evening, February 8. In former games the freshmen defeated the sophomores and the juniors were victorious over the seniors. The coming game will decide to which class the championship will go. The line-up is as follows:

Freshmen—Forwards, M. Stegh and F. Taylor; guards, H. Ward and A. Raske; center, H. Koch. Juniors—Forwards, G. Van Wagenen and J. Arthur; guards, O. Thomas and L. Osher; center, H. Elwood. Miss Roe, the assistant instructor in physical training, has been coaching the girls and has them in excellent shape. The game promises to be exciting and well fought. It will be called at 8 o'clock, with Miss Lee, the women's physical director at Coe, as referee. It is up to the girls to come out and root for their class.

Sturm Entertains

The Humanist society was entertained last evening in the ladies' parlor of the L. A. building, by Professor Sturm. Prof. W. Luebke read a paper on "The Colonization of England in the Light of Linguistic Research." Professor E. N. S. Thompson gave a talk on "The Relation of Milton to the Elizabethans."

ALL IN READINESS "AT INGLE HALL"

GREAT PLAY WILL BE GIVEN AT COLDREN TONIGHT

Vigars Has Leading Part—Entire Cast Represents Best Talent in University

Tonight at the Coldren, the second amateur theatrical of the year will be given, in the production of "At Ingle Hall" by the Pandean Players. The play centers around a set of events occurring in the eighteenth century and the atmosphere of the period is reproduced in it in inimitable fashion. After several years of marked success throughout the country there remains little doubt of its excellence.

This being their first production, the Pandean Players have expended a great deal of effort in order to make their work a success from the start. Mrs. Harold Miles has had charge of the preparation for the play and has carried on her work with that minute attention to details which her former dramatic experience has fitted her to put into her work. She is well satisfied with the showing of the cast. After the final dress rehearsal last night she stated that the play would unquestionably be up to the uniformly excellence set by former amateur productions.

Scenery for the play is now in readiness. It has been specially prepared and reproduces a number of scenes in England of the eighteenth century. The costumes originally used by Otis Skinner and his cast in the production of the play have been secured and are now ready.

Richard Vigars, who has been seen in a number of plays on the local stage, appears in the leading part, that of Sir Jasper Thorndyke. Opposite him, Miss Muriel Arthur will play the part of Dorothy Cruickshank. The complete cast is as follows:

- Dorothy Cruickshank... Miss Arthur
- William Westwood... Mr. Shillinglaw
- George Minifie... Mr. Bailey
- Sis Jasper Thorndyke... Mr. Vigars
- Abraham... Mr. Parry
- Captain Cruickshank... Mr. Arthur
- Mrs. Cruickshank... Miss Axten
- Priscilla... Miss Kifer
- Professor Jogram... Mr. Malmberg
- Waiter... Mr. Parry
- Stilt Walker... Mr. Seydel

Journalistic Club

The Journalistic club will meet tonight in the first regular business session. Nothing except business matters will be taken up at this meeting, other matters being deferred until such time that careful preparation can be completed. The meeting will begin promptly at 7 o'clock in the Daily Iowan office. Every member is asked to be present.—Managing Editor.

SIGMA XI AND SCIENCE

The Sigma Xi society has for its object the promotion of scientific research. Chapters have been founded in practically all of the large universities of the country; colleges with less than a certain number of scientific men on its faculty cannot obtain a chapter. The size of the organization is continually growing through election to membership by the several chapters of those who give promise of becoming original workers in science. Elections are now in progress in our local chapter.

One means of promoting the object of Sigma Xi is through lectures given by men who have attained eminence in some field of scientific research. For their annual lecture, the local chapter of the Sigma Xi has in previous years brought men from considerable distances—from Yale, Johns Hopkins, Clark, in the east; to Flagstaff Observatory on the Pacific coast—that far the quest has gone for men who had messages of their own.

This year, the annual lecturer is to be from Europe, being a professor in a Danish university. Professor Johannsen is one of the world's foremost students of heredity through the experimental method. His published results have stimulated collateral researches on heredity in many lands, including our own. It is therefore a piece of good fortune, indeed, to secure for Iowa, a man with a message which every thoughtful person will wish to hear. Sigma Xi invites both the university and the city to be its guests on Friday evening, February 16, when Dr. Johannsen will deliver his lecture on "Problems of Heredity." The auditorium has been reserved for the occasion that there may be room for all.

The Maiden club at 125 North Dubuque will re-open February 7. Board $3.50. 2-7

THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY--NO. 15

ARTHUR C. TROWBRIDGE
Professor of Geology

Arthur C. Trowbridge, professor of geology, was born at Glasgow, Missouri, March 4, 1885. He prepared for college in the primary and preparatory departments of Pritchett College in Glasgow. He entered Pritchett College as a freshman in 1901. He did not finish here but entered the University of Chicago as an undergraduate in 1903. In 1907 he received the degree of Bachelor of Science. He then was made assistant in geology and geography in his Alma Mater for the year 1907-8. This was followed by the appointment to the position of laboratory assistant in geology in the same university. For the years 1909-10-11, he was instructor in geology in the University of Chicago.

He spent the summer of 1906 in research work in the Big Horn mountains of Wyoming. The spring of 1907 saw him engaged in research work in the mines of the Ouray mining districts of Colorado. In the summer of the same year he was field assistant in the Illinois Geological Survey. Between the years of 1907 and 1911, Professor Trowbridge conducted seven field classes in the Baraboo, Wisconsin, district for the University of Chicago. He spent the summer of 1908 in research work in the Appalachians of the south. In the fall of 1909 he did research work in the Owens valley of the southern Sierra Nevada of California. In the summer of 1910 he was assistant geologist of the Illinois Geological Survey, doing field work in the Galena lead and zinc district as representative of the Illinois Geological Survey in co-operation with the United States Geological Survey. He received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Chicago in 1911.

Dr. Trowbridge is the author of "The Geology of the Wheaton Quadrangle, Illinois;" "The Geology of Owens Valley, California, with Special Reference to the Terrestrial Deposits;" (Doctor's Thesis), "The Galena-Elizabeth Folio," of the United States Geological Survey; and "The Geology of the Galena-Elizabeth Quadrangles, Illinois." These last two papers are in collaboration with Mr. Shaw.

Professor Trowbridge is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma college fraternity; of Sigma Xi, the honorary scientific fraternity; the American Association for the Advancement of Science; and the Geographical Society of Chicago.

Arts Department Popular

With the beginning of the new semester, the department of fine arts shows a decided increase in popularity. So many new students started into the three-hour course yesterday afternoon that Mr. Miles found it difficult to make enough room for all in the present cramped studio. During the first semester there were about a dozen in the three-hour class, but now the number has been increased to seventeen.

It is expected that the department will be moved next June into its new quarters in the new physics building, where the entire upper floor will be utilized, so that better accommodations may be possible. At present the department is confined to a single room and an office on the third floor of the liberal arts buildings.

Beginning next fall the department of fine arts will be a college by itself, and will include music and public speaking as well as the practical studio courses in drawing, painting, etc. Professor Ansley, head of the English department, will be at the head of the new college.

Cox Recital Tomorrow

Henry Cox, the great violinist, and Genevieve Wheat-Baal, famous contralto, appear Wednesday evening at the natural science auditorium. This recital will be one of the series of musical recitals which the local Y. M. C. A. has been carrying on in Iowa City during the season, and it is expected to be one of the best yet. Both musicians come very highly recommended, and music lovers are expecting a rare treat. The seat sale began yesterday, and has been set at seventy-five cents for my part of the house. There will no doubt be a very good attendance at this recital, as the series has been proving exceedingly popular, and the talent is all of the best class and worth a good audience.

Discipline Committee Chosen

In the college of liberal arts the matter of honesty has recently received consideration at the hands of the faculty. It has been felt that a student "cribbing" in examination may deserve much more severe penalty than merely the forfeit of class credit. For the consideration of such cases a committee on discipline has been constituted, consisting of the dean, the president and a third member elected from the faculty, Professor Stephen H. Bush. It is understood that all cases of dishonest work will be reported to this committee and that the committee shall have power to inflict punishment at its discretion, the maximum penalty being dismissal from the university. It is hoped that the work of the discipline committee may be very light, and that student sentiment will presently eliminate the childish practice of "cribbing."

President Robertson of Wesley College, of Grand Forks, and President McConnell of DePaw University are in the city as guests of Professor Stewart, while attending the conference of Church Workers of State Universities.

New Plan Praised

Due to the new system of registration introduced this year by Registrar F. C. Ensign, the work of the enrollment of the L. A. college for the second semester was accomplished without much of the confusion and tiresome waits that characterized it last year. The work was distributed evenly throughout the week, the upperclassmen being tabulated for the first of the week, and the last two days being given over to the long list of freshmen.

The enrollment of the professional colleges started yesterday and a large number were accommodated at that time. The registration of these colleges will continue until Wednesday night, when the university will again settle down to its accustomed calm.

As usual, a large number of requests to change classes were made. Such requests, unless accompanied by permission from the instructor, are rarely granted.

Irving's Pick Sophomore Team

Irving Institute recently held its sophomore tryouts, the question being: "Resolved, That the Adoption of the Optional Initiative and Optional Referendum in State Legislation Is Desirable in Iowa." Everitt K. Jones was chosen leader, and the other two men picked were John Brooks and A. R. Shepard. W. E. Murphy was chosen as alternate.

Exams are over; see "At Ingle Hall" Tuesday night. 2-6 will be a credit to it. More money is being put into the annual than in any previous issue and more time given for executing the work. Hence we can promise the student body that the book will be one of which they can be justly proud."

With a high class job of printing assured and with the Hammersmith people turning out first class engravings, the prospects of the 1913 annual, in these essential points, seem much advanced. The work on the book for the last week has been somewhat delayed on account of examinations, but the staff is busy again now. From the present outlook the book will go to press about March 1 and will be published about May 1.

Committee Treasurer Reports

Cadet Captain Carl O. Sjulin, treasurer of the military ball committee, made his report to the senate board of audit yesterday. The total receipts for the military ball were $394.50, of which $64.50 was paid for gallery seats and $330 for tickets. The total expenditures were $393.73, leaving a balance of 77 cents unexpended. It was the aim of the committee to put every cent received into the party. How well they succeeded is shown by the small balance.
