APRIL 18 IS CHOSEN FOR ZET CONVENTION

WILL AGAIN BE REPUBLICAN IN MAKE-UP

Noted and Notorious Characters to Appear on Floor and as Officers of Convention

Plans are about finished for the annual mock convention of the Zetathian society, which will again be republican in character. This year it will be held on April 18, in the natural science auditorium, at 8 o'clock, and will be open to the public without any admission fee.

Delegates from far and wide will be in attendance, including some of the most unique characters ever seen upon the floor of any convention. Members of the society and alumni will represent the different participants of national or international fame, and the proceedings will in every respect be carried on exactly as at the Chicago convention.

The convention will be called to order by F. H. Hitchcock, chairman of the national committee. After the committee on temporary organization reports, George W. Perkins of New York, represented by R. F. Clough, will make the principal address of the convention. Following this will come the permanent organization, with Senator Reed Smoot in the chair and Senator Elihu Root as secretary. Committees on credentials and resolutions will report, and a number of notables, including a delegate from Ames and several undergraduates, will take the floor to expound their principles and support their candidates. The last event will be the nominating ballots, which are expected to be the cause of much contention and bitter feeling.

The wise ones in the game are already predicting that a strong compromise candidate will be nominated when the inability of Taft, Roosevelt, Cummins and La Follette men to get together is proven. A partial list of the notables, who will attend the convention is given:

- Temporary Chairman George W. Perkins—R. F. Clough.
- Vice President James S. Sherman—Frank Seydel.
- Permanent Chairman Reed Smoot—George Thompson.
- Permanent Secretary Elihu Root—L. W. Spencer.
- Senator W. S. Kenyon—J. E. Ashton.
- Senator Murray Crane—L. W. Baker.
- Senator L. W. Poindexter—Wm. Antes.
- Former senator, Albert J. Beveridge—R. L. Masson.
- Hon. Joseph G. Cannon—E. W. Korab.
- Harvey Ingham—P. E. Van Nostrand.
- Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, of New York—M. J. Muckey.
- Miss Sophonisba Breckenridge, of the University of Chicago—Louis McRaith.

BLASTERS BREAK UP ICE: JIMMY FEARS THE WORST

Iowa Field, However, Making Good Progress Toward Drying

Heroic work by the dynamiting squad all through the long watches of Friday night, broke up the ice in the Iowa river just above the athletic field, and kept it moving along down the stream. The ice was beginning to jam against the inter-urban and Iowa avenue bridges when the blasters went into action, but the nitro-glycerin soon cleared the scene, and all day yesterday the ice moved down the river and over the university dam in great cakes.

The spectacle attracted hundreds of people to the Burlington street bridge where, by standing near the railing and looking down at the water whirling underneath, it was possible to gain a sensation of aviation. Many people thus enjoyed a ride up the river during the course of the day.

Down at Iowa field, Jimmy could see nothing but trouble as a result of the rapid rise of the water. To the eye of an optimistic observer, the field seems to have made wonderful progress, and with a continuation of the weather of the past week, it may be possible for the baseball men to find a spot dry enough for batting practice and fungo hitting tomorrow; but Jimmy, prophet of gloom, announced that there was more water in the field along the levee than Friday.

In reality, it seems that the field has dried wonderfully fast, and unless the weather takes a back-set, the squad should be able to work on the diamond by the time spring vacation comes.

Liberal Arts Win

The collegiate team in the inter-department league won a close game from the engineers yesterday 14 to 11. Both Kirk and Parsons, who were in the box for the opposing teams, were rapped hard at times, while Parsons' support wobbled occasionally, and his wildness was expensive. The score by innings:

Liberal Arts	2	2	2	5	0	3	*—14
Engineers	4	0	1	0	0	5	1—11

Batteries, Kirk and Snyder; Parsons and Carmichael.

Eros Elect Officers

At the regular meeting of the Erosdelphian literary society on Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the spring term:

- President, Esther Thomas.
- Vice president, Bess Martin.
- Recording secretary, Anna Rock.
- Corresponding secretary, Doris Lake.
- Joint committee, Hannah Pebbles and Elizabeth Nutting.
- Critic, Irene McConologue.
- Sergeant-at-arms, Helen Dayton.

Speaks Before Farmers

Professor R. M. Stewart, of the education department, spent Friday night and Saturday in Wellman, speaking before the farmers on "The Problem of Consolidated Schools."

WOMEN SURPASS MEN IN GETTING GRADES

FAIL IN FEWER HOURS AND GET MORE A'S

Detailed Comparison Is Given by Registrar Ensign—Other Records to Be Given Soon

Taking the liberal arts college as a basis for his investigation, since professional courses as a rule eliminate women, Professor F. C. Ensign, registrar of the state university, has compiled statistics which he made public this week showing that women in a state educational institution are far in advance as regards scholarship. His investigation involves the consideration of grades of 947 students, 479 of which are men and 468 women.

During the past semester, according to Professor Ensign's table, a total of 956 hours of work carried by men students was conditioned, failed, left or unfinished, while 587 hours of work carried by women was likewise recorded. Going to the other extreme of comparison, Professor Ensign shows that during the past semester a total of only 5,189 hours of work was successfully passed by the men students, while the women graduated from 6,138 hours of work. The highest grade given at Iowa is known as an "A" grade. Of the 5,189 hours of work passed by the men students only 337 hours were given an A grade, while the women from their graduation of 6,138 hours passed 440 hours with an A grade. The margin becomes narrower as lower grades are accorded. In the B class the men were given 1078 hours out of the total while the women were given 1787 hours. In the C grade the men secured 2031 hours and the women 2478 hours. In the D grade the men received 1365 hours credit, while the women received but 1153 and in the E class, which is known as the "ragged edge" here, the men took 378 hours out of their total and the women took but 280 hours.

Professor Ensign has taken up a study of fraternity and athletic scholarship and will shortly make a report as to conditions here in this regard. It has been alleged that fraternity men and athletics have the poorest grades and with the view of seeking a solution to this problem, if, indeed, such a problem exists here, Professor Ensign has begun his new task.

Senior Invitations

Owing to the fact that the firm making the senior liberal arts invitations demands six weeks after the order has been sent in to complete its work, the last of the orders must be received immediately. The committee has made arrangements so that the class will have an opportunity of seeing the "dummy" invitations, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the University bookstore from 11 to 12. There will be absolutely no more invitations made than are ordered.

HAWKEYE WIT AND HUMOR TO COME TO ITS OWN AGAIN

"The Scandal Rag," Loaded with Jokes, Soon Ready for Press

Bottled up humor of the university is about to escape once more, an announcement having just been made of an issue of the humorous magazine. The name has been changed again, the publication now being called "The Scandal Rag." The issue will appear shortly after the spring vacation.

At present "The Scandal Rag" is more or less shrouded in mystery, but the backers of the publication are making elaborate promises in the way of brilliant prose, clever poetry and telling cartoons. One of the best cartoonists of the university will have charge of the picture features of the little book.

The magazine will be of about the same size and appearance of the humorous magazines of other years and the usual price of fifteen cents will be charged for it. If the plans of the editors do not go awry this issue should be by far the best of the attempts at humor seen on the campus as yet.

The Last Year's Score

Iowa's riflemen have finished the rapid fire stage of the National Indoor match. In this competition each man is required to shoot five shots in a time limit of twenty seconds. The total made in this stage is, by coincidence, exactly the same as last year—530. The aggregate for the first four stages, however, is 24 points ahead of last year, this year's total being 2,178 and last year's 2,154. Two stages remain to be shot off before the completion of the match. The individual scores follow:

BIG GLEE CLUB TRIP PLANNED FOR RECESS

TWELVE CONCERTS TO BE GIVEN DURING THAT TIME

First Concert on April 3 at Manchester—Finish April 14 at Cedar Rapids

The University of Iowa Men's Glee club will leave Iowa City on Wednesday for one of the best and biggest state tours an Iowa Glee club has ever made. Forest C. Reed, who has been out over the state, booking concert dates, returned Saturday morning with contracts for twelve contests in his pockets, which will take the club over the northern part of Iowa on a trip of something like 450 miles.

From a review of the list of cities booked, this year's tour will be the biggest and most successful that any club managers have ever attempted from the standpoint of advertisement for the university. The smallest town on the list is one of over 1200 inhabitants and all of them have large high schools which are sending students to the colleges of the state. The principal object of this trip is thus to advertise the university for the purpose of instilling a university spirit in the high school students of the state which will ultimately mean an increase in the attendance at Iowa.

Practically all of the concerts will be given in the opera houses of the respective cities instead of in churches, as has been done so much formerly. Two Sunday sacred concerts will be given, both in churches, one an Easter program at Belmond, and the other at Cedar Rapids on the return.

The University is furnishing the programs for the concerts which, it is said, are going to be something fine. The picture of the club will be in the program, with pictures of practically all of the colleges of the university. Thus the programs will make fine souvenirs as well as enabling the listeners to tell the different faces, and at the same time stimulate a spirit among the people of the state in the university itself.

The alumni of the state are being appealed to by the university authorities to boost for the club in the cities where it is to appear and students here from those towns will no doubt also do the same.

The Glee club is being directed by Professor W. P. Christy this year and he has loaded the men with songs which, with the work of Verne Foley as reader and impersonator will create a large amount of college spirit everywhere they appear. Miss Mary Elizabeth Hitchcock, of Iowa City, has been secured as pianist and she will be accompanied on the trip by her mother.

The complete schedule of the state tour for 1912 follows in full:

- April 3.—Manchester.
- April 4.—Iowa Falls.

THE HOROSCOPE

Even the man who doesn't like radishes and lettuce says he is glad that spring has come.

A LEVELING INFLUENCE

Owen Johnson, the Yale man who criticizes Yale because of its over-emphasis of the social life, brings out another point which is worthy of consideration in many quarters.

It is the leveling influence of athletics upon the college man.

Mr. Johnson finds in athletics the great democratic institution still left to the universities, and praises it accordingly.

There is reason in what he says.

Upon the athletic field, one man is as good as another. Cheers will resound for one man as for another; in general, all have equal chances of making a college team, and no matter what his social standing may be, a man's muscles at least will gain recognition here.

So it is that men get to know each other in the strife of competition as they never would otherwise; and so it is that they learn to respect each other.

The gridiron, the diamond, the track and the gymnasium are common grounds, where the men must meet without the backing of social prestige; and most men are sociable enough and democratic enough, if their environment will but give them a chance to show these qualities.

It is not yet time to discard college athletics nor to rob them of any of their salient features.

CASEY BATS AGAIN

(In which Casey, after years of ignominy, at last gets a chance to show that his previous efforts were a mistake; and in which certain other parties get theirs.)

When Casey punctured the atmosphere In Mudville town that day, The fans all knew that their hero Had tossed the game away;

And so, when the battle was over, And Mudville had lost the game, They knew that their feeling for Casey Could never be quite the same.

And Casey, he, poor fellow, Had lost his nerve it seemed; He entered upon a batting slump Of whose like he'd never dreamed;

Flynn became a slugger And Blakey biffed her too; The walloped the poor old horse-hide Till the cover was black and blue.

But, no matter how hard Casey tried Things wouldn't break his way; Soon every pitcher around the circuit Had spotted him for a jay.

His batting average slumped and slumped Till it reached a hundred and ten Which wasn't more than about a fourth Of what it once had been.

Things went that way all summer And early in the fall, They said it had been at least three weeks Since he'd even fouled the ball.

And just when his friends had all left him And the papers had roasted him brown, The pitcher who had been the cause Of Casey's downfall, came to town.

They played that day for the pennant For both teams were after the rag; They'd distanced all other contenders In the struggle for the flag.

The fans flocked in by the thousand From every part of the land, And Casey, down-trodden Casey Knew that his hour was at hand.

Again it looked quite rocky For the Mudville nine that day; The score stood two to four With but one inning yet to play;

But Cooney let drive a single, And Burrows did the same, And joy returned to the features Of the patrons of the game.

Now Flynn, the mighty slugger Strode forth and did his best; But he, followed close by Blakey, Went down to the last long rest.

Neither one of them touched it— The pitcher took care of that; And a groan went up from the thousands As Casey advanced to the bat.

Determined was Casey's manner As he stepped into the place; But no pride was in his bearing, No smile shone on his face;

And when, responding to the jeers, He only pulled down his cap, No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'Twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him As he rubbed his hands with dirt; Five thousand voices hooted When he wiped them on his shirt; And when the grinning pitcher Dug the ball into his hip, Nothing at all said Casey But only bit his lip.

And now the leathern-covered sphere Came hurtling through the air; And Casey stood a-watchin' it As though a-sleepin' there; Close by the sturdy batsman The ball unheeded sped; Nothing at all said Casey, "Strike one!" the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, There went up a smothered roar; Like the beating of the sea waves On the stern and distant shore; "Take that big mutt out of there!" Shouted someone in the stand; But the manager knew a thing or two And only raised his hand.

With that look of determination Casey's grim visage shone; And when the tumult subsided He bid the game go on; The catcher flashed a signal And once more the spheroid flew But Casey still ignored it, And the umpire said "Strike two!"

"Help!" cried the maddened thousands And the echo answered "Help!" Casey paid no heed at all But only let them yelp. The crowd thought all was over And hooted with might and main; They had no doubt that Casey'd let That ball go by again.

As the pitcher wound up to deliver The ball that would tell his fate, Casey only tapped quite gently With his bat upon the plate; Then when the sphere came flying He met it with a whack; They never saw that ball again— They say it'll never get back.

Oh, somewhere in this unhappy land, The sun has lost its light; Somewhere beneath the zenith Has daylight turned to night; And somewhere are women weeping, Somewhere earth's pleasures pall; But, ah, there's joy in Mudville Since Casey hit the ball.

Shoot 956 Against Wisconsin. In the special match with Wisconsin, the team was unable to reach the high mark set in the championship match last week. It is believed, however, that the total, 956, will be sufficiently large to win this event as Wisconsin was only able to make a score of 917 last week. Against Minnesota they shot 920 and most of their totals have been in the immediate neighborhood of this mark.

BIG EIGHT TROUBLE BREAKS OUT AGAIN

WITHDRAWAL GOPHER FACULTY THREATENS

Insists Upon Scholarship Qualification, According to Reports from Minneapolis

Reports from Minnesota show that that university is seriously contemplating withdrawal from the Big Eight conference, an action which would practically mean the disruption of that body, or at least a marked weakening of the position which it has so long held in western college athletics.

The reason for the contemplated action of the Gophers is dissatisfaction with the act of the presidents' meeting in upholding the old eligibility rules, which have been the subject of so much contention since November. The Gophers are strong for the idea of making scholarship the one test, and with Indiana, Iowa and Illinois were backing a more liberal code designed to allow the man who plays baseball for money in the summer time to represent his university without perjuring himself.

The presidents, however, gave the proposed modifications short attention before consigning them to oblivion, and the northerners are considerably disgruntled as a consequence. At a recent meeting, according to the reports, the Minnesota faculty voted to make scholarship the sole qualification for competition in athletics, except for the auxiliary one-year residence rule; and this, of course, means that the Gophers are defying the Big Eight and do not intend to abide by the decision of the board of presidents.

What the developments may be among the other schools who favored a change in the present rules is uncertain. Illinois has for some time been threatening a withdrawal, but Indiana's attitude has never contemplated such a step. The Iowa athletic board has not made any statement in regard to the matter, but it is regarded as certain that it will accept the decision, although it had voted with Minnesota in favor of a change in the regulations.

You will need a Directory now, and, for that, in years to come.

Irving's Elect Officers

At the meeting of Irving Institute Friday evening, the following officers for the spring term were elected: President, Conger Reynolds; vice president, C. G. Gustafson; recording secretary, C. H. Brunner; corresponding secretary, Paul Anderson. Each man had a majority on first ballot.

The chancellor of Colorado University, Dr. Henry A. Buechel, announced several days ago that hereafter he would marry undergraduates free of charge and in addition would procure their marriage license free to them.
