Katherine Jewel Everts will offer an accomplished skill to devote any eyes and ear next year, the majority of the country will take advantage of these opportunities which will eliminate to a great extent the line plunging game used by some of the teams in the West last season.

Wood in Advance.

The West is far in advance of the East in the development of open play since the addition of the new rules two years ago. In the East the teams have depended entirely upon the old style game and they have been successful to a certain extent on account of the abundance of material that each game has had at the beginning of the season each fall. They have the advantage of swift which assistate more. How ever within the last year or so a number of the strongest teams in the West have adopted the open style of play to a good advantage. This is true at Harvard and Dartmouth and the former succeeded in winning the championship of the East in an easy fashion over Yale in nineteen hundred and twelve.

That the present rules will remain the same for another year is the opinion of the members of Western football and the hope is looking for any marked changes.
