HAWKEYES TO MEET AMES FOR 2ND PLACE

PLAY NORTHWESTERN SATURDAY AT 2 P.M. ON LOCAL FLOOR

Line-up tonight is uncertain—Prob-ably same as Thursday night.ár

We will play for the second time this season without an intermission.

Ames has been a string for two weeks now, and last week, it lost three games to the University of Nebraska. While the beam team has been a disappointment to everyone, there is still a chance for it to prove itself. There is a district. The line-up tonight is uncertain, M. A. Cooney is expected to start. A number of new faces will be in the lineup when the team takes the floor. Schirn and Broedman who played the latter part of the Grinnell games are in for the big game against the local aggregation according to the press reports from that place. After the Ames game, Coach Will get his team in shape for the Northwestern contest which is to be played on next Saturday evening on the home floor. The final trip of the year for the quintet will be on the following week after the Northwestern games and it will be the last trip of the year for the University College and the college of the University of Min-nesota. Information has made two mid-day assignments to a wrestling tournament at the university of Nebraska. The trip is being planned this week, and the transfer date is not yet settled. The trip will end for further information. Professor C. E. Snodgrass, Dean of graduate college.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT CHOCOLATE

Miss Zoila M. Cooper reads paper at Benefit Club—Chocolate and Related Products

Miss Zoila M. Cooper of the college of pharmacy read a very comprehensive paper at the Barlow club last Friday evening on the subject, "Co with Fat," the botanical classification and distribution of the plantsthat grows in this product to the natural products; the origin of the names; their use as food, medicine, etc.; and chemical analysis which are so important to the health of the body. The total fruit and its products were first taken up. This grows nearly everywhere in the tropics and its value is tremendous. It contains all the vitamins necessary for the tropical vegetation and they are used in the manufacture of soft drinks and chocolate. They are used as a leaven in the bread and are a source of income for the people. The fiber is used in the manufacture of grades.

The first six pages will contain pictures of the university building and its grounds. The second six pages will be printed in special easy to read type, soft children and those who are interested in the subject of chocolate. The next two pages will be focused on the manufacture of chocolate.

WHY NOT FRESHMAN BASEBALL?

Within a few days the call will be issued for baseball men to appear for practice for the next year's winning team, one that easily made a good showing in the conference. Each year we want and should expect a better team than we had the year before. Why can't we accomplish this in the past? We have bad freshman football teams, which received real and valuable training in that sport, and which have been the means of developing great material for the varsity teams. The same has been true of baseball. We have had some teams which played regular schedules, and thus developed material for the next year's team. But have we accomplished an improvement in baseball? Within our memory we have not had a freshman baseball team which was at all organized and which played a game of any kind. The freshmen have had no opportunity to experience in any way they could. Numerous have been given to the freshmen football team by offering them some real instruction, there is no valid reason why we should be satisfied to hold state honors. Get the freshmen interested, give a real freshman team with a real schedule of games, and after them a real injection of the way of numbers, and watch Iowa baseball stand in the conference ranks.

Theatre

Juggling, Singing, Dancing and Comedy Pleas Large Audience

Late Night

The bill at Regent's theatre this week comes with a comedy setting, which is up to par in every way. George W. Moore is really a whirlwind, as he styles himself. His act is full of life and clever work from the time he appears until he bids his adieu. This act is followed by Claflinment and Churchill, the singing girls Johnny and Mark Fokbery, in their act called "The Comedian and the Girl" meet with their share of applause. Mace, locating for a partner picks up the worst sort of a city chap who did not please her in the least. The young fellow informed her that he had a brother who could "act," and the straightaway sent for him. He soon appeared upon the scene with a shape of old Jake crooked in taurine manner which appealed to the crowd. Carroll Kenting and Doyer in their original comedy singing act entitled "In Croy's Next Man" are entertainers of a high class. Carroll and Kenting sporty "Dewar Waterfallers," in a way which provides a laugh from the beginning.

Miss Doyer, a pretty across who has retreated to the country for a rest has some pleasing experiences with the country audience. Her singing is occasionally fine which brought several encores. The last act of the show this week was in excellent taste. Long and Long their act "Put in a Gymnasium" Long is the feature of this act. It is not stagy when or how he recited the same but fairly amusing and convincing. Saloon is there seen, on the stage or in private life such as long lean luckless person. Long, in contrast to Ling, constitute a duo who can create some funny and clever situations.

FOLEY FINISHES UNIQUE SURVEY

Director of the Department of Sociology Publishes Interesting Statistics
About Foreign Voters

Under the direction of the department of political economy and sociology, Vernon Foley, well known as the editor of the globe club, has completed a survey of the foreign-born voting population in Iowa City.

Party affiliation, nationality, distribution, by wards, and other facts of local and scientific interest were gathered, as a result of examination of the registration books for the national election of 1912, from the primary poll books for 1912 and from interviews with local political leaders.

Of the 2,551 registered voters in the city, 312 were found to be of foreign birth. Of this number, 182 were natives of Bohemia, 169 of Germany, 69 of Ireland, 29 of England, 23 of Italy, 21 of Wales and 5 of Switzerland. Sweden and Russia each contributed 4; Scandia, Denmark, Austria, and Spain each 3; Poland, Norway, Roumania, and Italy each 1 each; while the birth place of the remaining 3 is unknown.

As at party affiliation, 157 of the foreign-born were found to be Democrats, 78 Republicans, and 2 Socialists.

The Norwegians, Swedes, Danes, Scotch and Roumanians, were all Republicans; the Greeks and the Frenchmen were Democrats, while the other nationalities showed division of party allegiance.

The Bohemians and Germans were almost unanimously Democratic; and about seven-eighths of the Irish were of the same persuasion.

The Canadians were almost equally divided; while two-thirds of the English and Scotch and of the Welsh were found in the Republican column.

Three out of four of the Italians and Italians were accredited to the Democratic party.

Of the three Socialists two came from Bohemia and one from Canada.

Data are not at hand for determining the number and distribution of the Bill Moore adherents.

As an evidence of the comparative favoritism of native and foreign-born voters in the primary election, it may be noted that, while the foreigners constituted over 17 per cent of the registered voters in November, they constituted about 15 per cent of the total number of voters at the primary election.

It is noteworthy that the average age of these foreign-born voters is between 56 and 69 years; the average age of the native voters being 44; for the Germans 59, for the Irish 64, for the English 52, for the Welsh 65.

As to illiteracy, it was found that, of the registered voters, 2 per cent of those born in Germany were unable to write their names; 7 per cent of those born in Bohemia, 10 per cent of those born in Ireland, and 17 per cent of those born in England.
