EDITOR'S COMING

The university has been subjected to undeserved criticism from the newspapers of the state. This is in may cases unreasonable and only goes to show the ignorance of the conditions here throughout the state. But the time is coming when the university may sit itself right with many of the newspapers in this part of the state. This time is the semi-annual convention of the Southern Iowa Editorial association that will be held here at the time of the big homecoming. Students and faculty will be busy at this time getting ready for the big games and other events that are to take place at that time, but the representative of the press who will be our guests should not be forgotten.

Every man who comes to Iowa City should get a correct opinion of the activities of Iowa's great seat of learning. Our institution is nothing to be ashamed of and many things of which to be proud. Let the visiting journalists see these things and realize what a wonderful plant for building character really exists on this campus. These men come here primarily for the purpose of attending these conventions, but incidentally they are going to carry away an opinion. This opinion will constantly be referred to in future articles published in the papers these men represent. What opinion will these men carry away with them? The answer is up to you. You must help to make good.

The election will take place some time in the near future, the date to be announced later.

Two return matches will be staged with Nebraska. But for some time this winter, the Ames match taking place on the local floor and the one with Nebraska to be held at Lincoln. The last Xtensive gymnastic season must be to staged at Lincoln. It is highly probable that the wrestling match will be held the same night.

MATINÉE AND NIGHT

BROWN'S AMERICAN THEATRE

Sensational to a Degree

IN FOUR BIG REELS

THE STORY

Calculating, ingenious and craggy, a gentleman "Haffnes," through his acquaintance and friendship with a millionaire banker's daughter, cunningly learns her family affairs and cleverly uses his information to advantage. "Haffnes" and his confederates have a remarkable organization, as well as original equipment. The band uses a double house, one side furnished elaborately as a gentleman's household, while the other is equipped with the paraphernalia of an organized criminal establishment. The party will divide the two houses secret panels and passages known only to the gang leaders.

The story is a thrilling and sensational one, with the spectacular explosion of the engine in the bow in which the gang tries to escape.

This sensational mystery story was produced by one of the biggest and most progressive feature manufacturing establishments in America and was under the direct personal supervision of Herbert Blake, well-known for his achievements in feature films making. The story which he has evolved is a modernization of a popular and widely-read classic. In its evolution the story, which is developed in short, brisk and snappy scenes, shows the breadth to which certain classifiable elements have grown and the new methods they employ. Their activity is replete with climactic situations and each of their temporary successes inspire genuine thrill.
OCTOBER 15

The university orchestra will be the feature at the first vespers service of the year and will be held at the auditorium, November 2. Professor Schottke has charge of the service and promises a program composed entirely of music produced by the orchestra and various solos. The orchestra is complete in its membership and has a full quota of instruments, which includes a larger variety than ever before. Practices have been faithfully attended since the previous week and the work shows up remarkably well.

Next Sunday will be its first appearance this year, and the first appearance of any of the musical organizations with the exception of the Men's Glee club at the noon meeting on Thursday night. Details of the program will be announced later.

IOWA WILL MEET
GRINNELL TEAM
University Team to Play Soccer With Congenialists
Nov. 15

On Saturday morning, November 15, the first inter-collegiate game of soccer football ever played on the Iowa field will be played on Iowa field. The date is set an Alumni Day; the morning of the day of the contest. Director Schrader strongly urges all men who can play to turn out for practice. Iowa has no one to beat to be beaten by Grinnell in the presence of her alumni, on the most auspicious day of the academic year.

Secretary Harwood of the Alumni Association also urges the men to appear for practice. In order to give excellent entertainment for the hundreds of alumni who will be here on that date, Mr. Harwood desires to keep the interest of Old Gold to impress the graduates of the university. This interest can be here not only in the appearance of the campus but also in activities. The game is very simple and easily learned. It is one of the simplest yet most exciting forms of athletics yet devised. A good aim and sure feet are invaluable assets to the players. Training will be held tonight at 7:45 and Saturday at 8:30. All interested should hand in their names to Mr. Schrader.

HAWKES' STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the editors and managers of the Hawkeye from the different colleges in the Hawksee office tonight at 7:45. Very important. Office is in the southwest room of the basement of the old physics building. Managing editors.
