FORENSIC PROGRAM FOR YEAR ISSUED

FIRST NUMBER OF RECITAL BY PROFESSOR DENNIS OF CUM-
MOCK SCHOOL OF ORATORY

Intercollegiate Debates December 12
—Iowa Holds Championship of Circuit by Only One Point—University Oratorical February 17

Announcement of the complete forensic calendar for the university year has just been issued by the department of public speaking. Special attention is called to the first number on the program; the recital by Professor Ralph Dennis of the Cummock school of oratory in the liberal arts auditorium on Friday of this week at four o'clock.

Professor Dennis is one of the foremost interpretative readers in the country and is well worth hearing. The recital is primarily for the students in the department of public speaking of the university but the program is open to the public without admission fee and it is hoped that a large crowd will be in attendance.

The second number on the program is the annual debate of the Central Debating circuit. At this time the negative team will go to Illinois while the affirmative team will debate Nebraska here. This debate will be held December 12th at eight o'clock in the natural science auditorium. The debates this year form a very important crisis in the debating work of the university since the Iowa teams are at present in the lead by only one point. A large attendance is wished at the home contest in order to encourage the team.

December 5—Friday, 4 p. m.—“Miscellaneous Readings.” Interpretative recital by Professor Ralph Dennis, head of the Cummock school of oratory, Northwestern university, N. S. auditorium.

December 12—Friday.—Iowa-Nebraska debate, N. S. auditorium. Iowa-Illinois debate, Urbana, Ills., 8 p. m.

SEASHORE AUTHOR OF NEW TREATISE

Writes First Book of New Series
Published by Appleton Company on Psychology

“Psychology in Daily Life” by Dean C. E. Seashore is the title of the newest book in psychology. It is the first of a series by different authors published by the Appletons, dealing primarily with application of fundamental psychology.

It is a forceful, direct and intimate application of mental laws to life. Those who have had courses in psychology here will greet certain chapters as old friends, as the greater portion of the book has been given in semi-public addresses or in the class room. In this more permanent and widely available form the usefulness of these lectures will be immeasurably increased.

There are seven chapters in the book, covering about two hundred and twenty-five pages. Chapter 1 deals with play—the road by which the greatest realization of life is achieved. Play is universal; it prepares for life; it is life. It is given its setting here, its meaning, its purpose. It is intrinsic in all religion. Serviceable Memory is the title of chapter II. No one who reads and applies this chapter need be concerned about his poor memory. The direct injunctions and rules of impression, association, recall and recognition are presented in the concrete imagery of a four-square pyramid, crowned by the capstone practice.

Mental efficiency appeals to all. No one is as efficient as he should be, or as he can be, James has said. Here in chapter III one can learn how to be more efficient by regarding the training of the special senses, by self-expression, by forming proper habits, by specializing.

A complete inventory of the self is given in Chapter IV Mental Health. Each person is many selves in one, physical, intellectual, social, moral, aesthetic, religious. All but the first are pre-eminently mental selves, but one can be sick or well in any or all of these, not just in the physical self alone. To be healthy, follow the ten commandments of mental health given here.

Everything in nature occurs ac-

HUMANIST CLUB MEETING

Prof. C. F. Ansley spoke before the meeting of the Humanist club last night at the home of J. W. Rich. His topic was “A Meditation on Greek.” He told of the debt that English literature owed to the writings of the Greeks and of the benefits accruing to the student of the Greek language. He showed that of all foreign languages, Greek was the richest for the student of literature, and that if only one foreign tongue could be mastered, Greek would be the most profitable as it yields the greatest returns for the labor spent in acquiring it.

IOWA UNION WILL OBTAIN QUARTERS

PLACE TO BE PROVIDED FOR MEMBERS OF UNION IN NEAR FUTURE IT IS PLANNED

Suite to Provide for Smoking Room
Billard Room and Lounging Room
To be Open to Members Day and Night

Enthusiasm pervaded the meeting of the board of directors of the Iowa Union last evening and many new plans were perfected. Most prominent among these were the plans for quarters for the organization. A committee consisting of Baird, chairman, Dick and Professor Rienow was appointed to look after the securing of a suite of rooms. Many places were suggested at the meeting last evening. Several rooms will be provided so that there will be ample room for a large smoking room, a billiard and pool room, and a lounging room. The Union will be made a place where its members may congregate and it is planned to keep the rooms open day and night.

A committee consisting of Brueckner, chairman, Ferguson, and McGinnis was appointed to arrange for weekly Union dances. The committee appointed to look after the matter of incorporation was Knopfler, chairman, and Murphy.

The biggest question before the Union according to statements made by members of the board of directors, is that of securing quarters. Rooms will be leased in the near future and will be fitted up in the best possible shape. All seemed enthusiastic at the prospects now before the organization.

President Bowman has appointed Professor Rienow as the faculty member of the board of directors provided for by the constitution. There are still about 150 charter membership tickets which may be obtained at his office. These tickets, however, are going fast and it is not expected that the supply will nearly equal the demand.

PHI PSIS BUY LOTS

The Phi Kappa Psi fraternity has purchased of Milton Remley lots 11 and 12 in Bella Vista place and expects to put up a modern fraternity home in the near future.

CADET HOP GIVEN BY MILITARY MEN

Innovation in Terpsichorean Diversion Planned by Military Department

The devotees of the light fantastic will be treated to a diversion next Saturday evening, December 6th, when the first cadet hop of the year occurs at the university armory. If this initial venture proves successful similar dances will be given later in the year.

The dance Saturday evening will be given for members of the cadet regiment and former cadets only and a military uniform will be required of all men on the floor. Music will be furnished by the military band which proved so popular at concerts given last year. The band is stronger this year than last and an exceptionally good program is being arranged for this function. The price has been set at 50c and the object of those in charge is to plan an affair where mercenary gain is not the object.

The decorations used at the cotillion will be used for the dance Saturday evening so those attending are assured of a well decorated armory and a good floor for the occasion. There will also be something unique in the effect of dancers all in the cadet gray uniform, which will add to the charm of the occasion.

HAWKEYE JOKE BOXES

IN BUILDINGS TODAY

Ambrose Powers to Return Next
Semester and Help in Cartoon
Work of Book

Today the Hawkeye joke boxes will make their appearance, and will be placed in all the college buildings. One will be stationed in the general library reading room and another at the south end of the basement in the liberal arts building.

These boxes are to be used for jokes, verses, pictures, cartoons, in fact, any good material for the annual. All the students are urged to contribute any ideas or suggestions that will help to make the 1915 book a success. Good jokes are heard every day and are soon forgotten, while if they were written out, they would make interesting reading and enrich the pages of the humorous section.

Ambrose Powers is expected to return the second semester and help in the cartooning work of the annual. Those who remember his excellent work in former annuals will be glad to know that he will contribute to the pictorial section of the book. Halleck, a well-known local cartoonist, is another member of the art staff.

In the general make up of the book the management is particularly fortunate in securing the services of the Hammersmith company of Milwaukee. Twelve or fifteen graduates of the Chicago Art institute are helping to make designs for borders, panels, etc. Such talent assures the artistic success of the publication beyond a doubt.

“SCARECROW” POPULAR PRODUCTION ON STAGE

PHILOS PRESENT MACKAYE'S
WELL-KNOWN DRAMA IN SCI-ENCE AUDITORIUM

Play Was First Put on by Harvard
Students and Afterwards at New York —Enjoyed Great Success —
Special Stage Setting Planned

“The Scarecrow”, which is to be presented by a strong company from the Philomathean and Octave-Thanet societies Thursday evening, is one of the best known and most successful works of the popular playwright, Percy MacKaye. Mr. MacKaye is a Harvard graduate and has written the splendid plays known as, “Jean D'Arc,” “Canterbury Pilgrims,” “Mater,” and “Anti-Matrimony.”

As a college man he wrote primarily for college people so the play has historical, literary, and artistic interest aside from its vivid character portrayal and unique plot so much sought after by lovers of the drama.

The four acts are replete with the droll actions of Lord Ravensbane, the apotheosis of scarecrows in his search after worldly wisdom; the satire and irony of Dickon, the Yankee incarnation of the Devil; the Justices' smug, hypocrisy, the vengeful fury of the witch; the pretty love making of the “Scarecrow” and pretty Rachel Merton, and the numerous characteristics of the other characters.

“The Scarecrow” was first produced by Harvard students and was so successful that it was secured for Edward Sheldon who produced it in Frohman's Garrick theatre in New York. Fola La Follette, daughter of the senator, appeared in the role of Rachel. It was exceedingly well liked by play-goers and enjoyed a long run. This coming production at Iowa will be the first this side of the Alleghenies.

This drama enjoys the unique distinction of not only being permitted by the university dramatic censorship committee, but of being endorsed by them for its exceptional qualities. It was considered favorably by the senior play committee last year, but it was thought to be somewhat too difficult to stage, because of the singular illusions and stage tricks that are necessary. However, Stage Manager Gerhart has carefully worked these out and promises many surprises in the way of stage illusions. The stage in the auditorium is now being completely fitted up with scenery and a stage equal to the best will be the result. Gerhart is anxious to demonstrate the possibilities that lie in the use of the auditorium stage for university dramatics, so everything possible is being done to make the play a success.

Tickets are now on sale by various members of the two societies and may be exchanged for reserved seats without additional cost. Wieneke's commencing Wednesday

THE BASKETBALL

Prospects for basketball at the present time are only fair. Several veterans are back on the squad, which will help a good deal. But a lot of new material is needed. The squad needs strengthening and only a keen interest on the part of the men in the university will make a successful season. There is enough material in the university for a championship team. Let every student in the university lend his or her support and "Old Gold" will be on the map.

MUTT AND JEFF TO STAY ON THE STAGE

Popular Newspaper Personages to Appear at Englert Wednesday In Comedy

There is absolutely no truth in the report that "Mutt and Jeff" are to retire from the stage and confine their humorous adventures exclusively to the columns of the various newspapers throughout the country. We have it from no less an authority than Manager Gus Hill himself. It was Mr. Hill who originally conceived the idea of having "Mutt and Jeff" try their fortunes before the footlights, and it was also Mr. Hill who first saw the possibilities of these popular newspaper cartoons as a profitable stage attraction. But Kiser's favorite creations are again to be the heroes of an original production at Englert's on Wednesday, December 3.

The offering will be "Mutt and Jeff in Panama." The vehicle this time will permit the famous "long and short of it" to go through a lot of hair raising and withal humorous adventures under real melodramatic conditions. Starting from Old Point Comfort, Va., they will wend their way to Panama. From there they will emerge aboard the good ship "Frisco" and wind up at the Panama Exposition at San Francisco.

Their escapades are many and numerous and if their efforts fail to establish a new record for continu-

BASKET BALL WORK GETTING UNDER WAY

COACH KENT ISSUES PRACTICE SCHEDULE—JACK WATSON TO MEET MEN TONIGHT

Several of Last Year's Men Back on Floor—Many Football Players Expected to Come Out—Adams Working With Freshmen

With an outlook that is neither brilliant nor discouraging, the basketball season will from now on hold the attention of the student body. Coach Morey Kent is rapidly getting the men lined up for practice. A practice schedule has been made and Trainer Jack Watson will outline his part of the work this evening.

There was not much doing on the floor last week, because of the approaching Thanksgiving vacation but now that the men are back the coaches are giving their attention to getting as many of the old men out as possible and breaking in the new men. The practice schedule as follows has been made by Coach Kent:

Monday from 3:00 to 4:15.

Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:00.

Wednesday from 3:00 to 4:15.

Thursday from 5:20 to 6:00.

Friday from 7:30 to 9:00.

Saturday from 3:00 to 4:15.

This schedule is subject to change as all men have not yet reported for practice. However, at the present time it is the best arrangement that can be made.

Several of last year's men are back on the floor, which will be a great asset to the team. Captain Gardner is well satisfied with the outlook. With several of the old men back on the squad there will not be a lot of preliminary work in order to get into playing shape before the schedule commences. However, there is a great deal of work to be accomplished before the team is in shape to meet even the smaller colleges of the state.

Great confidence is being felt in Jack Watson, who so ably looked after the football men the past season. It is anticipated that his work on the basketball team will be as telling as it was on the football team. This means a great deal to this branch of athletics, for the men can become stale and loggy in basketball as in no other sport. This evening the squad will meet Jack Watson and get their first instructions along the training line.

Among the men who have reported for the squad are Gardner, (capt.) forward; Trexel, forward; Fields, forward; Jacobsen, guard; Grissel, center; Garretson, guard; Chesbro, center; Schneider, guard; Parsons, guard; Carmichael, forward; Schulte, Brackner, Donnelly, Hamilton and Wills.

Coach Kent is expecting several of the football men out before many days. There are several men in school who have made good in this sport and who are expected out right away. From the present outlook there will not be a dearth of men this year.

Coach Adams is getting the freshmen under way in good shape. However, there have not been a great many men out thus far but there are a goodly number of them in school who will make good if they get out.

Wanted—A single room, modern accommodations, German speaking family preferred. A gentleman student.

Stewart and Son desire all of their friends to visit their new shoe store in the Jefferson Hotel Bldg.

COUNTY CLUB RALLY BEFORE VACATION

DELEGATIONS FROM VARIOUS COUNTIES TO PLAN MEETINGS DURING HOLIDAYS

Rally In Natural Science Hall December 16—Slides of University Life and Phonograph Records to be Furnished for Reunions

Present plans are that the annual county reunion for the students of Johnson county and all students at the university will be held on the evening of December 16 at the natural science hall.

This is an annual affair preliminary to the various county club reunions which are held over the state during the Christmas holiday season. At this meeting the students are seated according to counties after the manner of state political conventions, and each group organizes to advertise and push the interests of the university in their home county.

During the vacation time gatherings of a social nature are held; and slides which are sent out by the publicity department of the university are shown to many interested enthusiasts who have yet to enter the university.

The scheme is conducive to good fellowship and is splendid advertising for the school. It is believed that scores of young people are influenced to attend the university through the medium of the county reunions and stories of the good times that are told to those who gather to listen to the short lectures given in connection with them. This year canned talk on phonograph records will feature the reunions.

REHEARSAL OF "PINAFORE" IS INTERESTING FEATURE

Cast Is Hard at Work Practicing for Presentation of Opera December 11

A rehearsal of "Pinafore" is a strange affair. Few people are acquainted with the excitement of staging a musical production unless they themselves have taken part in such an event. And as less than three per cent of the student body ever participated in an opera of this nature a rehearsal has a unique interest.

The first meetings are always marked by a feeling of restraint. The members come singly or in little groups. Once inside the large studio, seventy people are seated laboriously proceed to follow the musical score with one eye and the eccentric girations of the leaders baton with the others. Soon harmony is noticed as a fleeting essence. But joy is short lived, either a bass strikes a false note, the soprano come in too soon or the altos come in too slow. Or it may be that the tenors do not sing at all. Then is the leader wrathful and parts must be dissected, the trouble probed for and the mistake rectified. The first few meetings are about the same, but soon they have tried all the chorus parts and the principals are allowed to lead in their individual roles.

When the stage work is to begin the room is discovered devoid of chairs. The fifty girls congregate in one corner as though they were afraid of the fifteen boys on the other side of the room. A new person is present, the young lady who is to direct the action. She has seventy people to direct at once, a task to stagger an ordinary person. The stage manager has a model of the scenery to show to the inquiring crowd. H. M. S. Pinafore is shown in realistic miniature and entrances are pointed out for the instruction of the "crew" and "visitors" to the ship. Throughout the rest of the evening the manager is kept busy securing chairs that had been kidnapped by the fair maidens of the chorus. He uses them to mark off the limits of the stage and suggest scenery, but they drag them off to a comfortable place and sit down to embroidery or tating while waiting for cues.

But later from the chaotic mass of people, the omnipresent directress and the overawing direction, achieve some sort of order. The music rises to crescendo; the action winds through intricate mazes and gesture and song; the director splinters a piece of lath by repeated whacking on the music rack; and "Pinafore" sails to grand finale.

Then the main part of the crowd leaves, while various groups are instructed more in detail; the principals in the art of expressive gestures and the "sailors" in the mysteries of the hornpipe. At last all leave and out go the light of the music school.

Repeated and continuous rehearsals of this kind result in the finished product of a first class opera. "Pinafore" cast in doing excellent work and by the time of production, December 11, the artistic rendition of this famous Gilbert and Sullivan success will give the De Wolf Hopper revival of the same a worthy rival.

The requirements for legal licenses in Iowa are more exacting and higher than those in most states of the union, but in spite of this fact 87 per cent of the Iowa graduates remain in Iowa to practice their profession.

Because of alleged misrepresentations in the Michigan Daily the student council of that place is holding secret sessions for the trial of the students accused of inciting a riot at a recent jubilee.

The Douglass Cranes, fancy dancers and originators of the tango in this country, will give an exhibition at the California Junior Prom.
