College Editors May Meet in Des Moines

College Journalists of Iowa Will Hold Convention after Christmas Vacation

At a dinner meeting held at Cedar Rapids, several of the editors and members of the Iowa College Press Association, including R. B. Dooley of the Iowa Daily, Mr. William K. Ray, editor of the Des Moines Register, and W. C. Reeder of the Iowa Daily, discussed the possibility of holding a general meeting of all college journalists in Iowa after Christmas.

College students will have chapel

A Mass Meeting of All Catholic Students in the university will be held on Sunday evening at 5:30 for the purpose of setting up a permanent model of the chapel.

The work, under the direction of the Roman Catholic Student Association, will be carried on during the coming winter and spring months. The purpose of the project is to provide a place of spiritual and devotional activity for the students in the university.

The work will be started at the beginning of the academic year, and the chapel will be completed by the end of the year.

The project is being undertaken by a group of Catholic students who are interested in providing a place for religious and spiritual activities within the university community.

The chapel will be located in the university's new academic building and will include facilities for prayer, study, and reflection. It will be open to all students, regardless of religious affiliation.

The project is being supported by a group of alumni and friends who wish to contribute to the spiritual life of the university and to provide a lasting legacy for future generations.

The society is the branch of the national engineering society of the same name. A limited number was elected into the club each year, and this is the first election held thus for three years. The American Institute has been the subject of much interest. The next election will be held on the same day during the coming year.

The society's constitution provides for a term of three years, and the officers are elected for this period. The annual meeting will be held on the 15th of December, and the officers of the society will be elected at that time.

RARE FOSSIL FERN IN IOWA MUSEUM

Found by Ralph D. S. -This new 30-foot leaf in the museum was discovered by Mr. Ralph D. S. while digging for fossil leaves in the Iowa Valley.

The leaf is a rare example of a fern, and is of particular interest because it is one of the few known specimens of this type of plant.

Agricultural Convention

The Agricultural Convention was held at Columbus last week. The convention was addressed by several well-known speakers, including H. W. Looms, H. E. Kibbey, and H. W. Matson.

The convention was attended by a large number of farmers and agriculturalists from all parts of the state.

The convention was held in the new agricultural building, which was completed last year at a cost of $50,000. The building includes facilities for lectures, exhibits, and other agricultural activities.

The convention was held to promote the interests of agriculture in the state, and to provide a forum for discussion of agricultural issues.

An interesting feature of the convention was the presentation of a new exhibit of agricultural implements and machinery. The exhibit included a variety of cattle, farm tractors, and other farm equipment.

The convention was well attended, and the speakers and exhibits were highly regarded by the farmers and agriculturalists who attended.

End of the Daily

Many of the students in the college were present at the meeting, and a lively discussion took place on the proposed chapel project.

The meeting was held in the university's main building, and was attended by a large number of students and faculty members.

The results of the convention will be reported in detail in the next issue of the Daily.

We have nothing of the sort, but we are sure that the students will be glad to have a place of their own for worship and reflection.

We believe that the chapel will be a valuable addition to the university community, and that it will provide a place of spiritual and devotional activity for the students.

We hope that the project will be successful, and that it will be a lasting legacy for future generations.

We wish the students good luck in their work, and we encourage them to continue their efforts to establish a permanent model of the chapel.

RARE FOSSIL FERN IN IOWA MUSEUM

(Continued from page one) For after the leaves had fallen off very small rootlets grew out between the leaf scars. These formed a dense mass. Covering the stem, roots and all in the thickets, I believed I'd prefer for the thickets, wouldn't you.

But Iowa men are not in the second-hand schemes. Indeed. Neither do you have no rent an old second-hand, greasy, good-for nothing match of a typewriter. A first-hand "booky" typewriter. Think it over. There's another kind, and it costs more. Please I'd any time.

NATIONAL YOUTH ASSOCIATION

One of the greatest steps forward takes for the men of the university, in many years. The time is coming when the union will be an institution of which the university may justly be proud.

TO USE AUDITORIUM

The "firecracker" is to be played in the natural science auditorium. The staging of the play in the natural science auditorium demonstrates the fact that the university needs the science stage.

At the present time the natural science stage is hardly adequate for the production of a play but the students feel that there is the place to give a university play, and the success of this work will be more than hard for the wheel which will bring to Iowa a stage of its own. The past few years has witnessed a growing interest in dramatics here, and the past year has brought a demand for a university stage. This fall there has been some agitation towards re-modeling the natural science auditorium, fitting it up so that better plays can be shown.

The staging of "The firecracker" in the natural science auditorium, means much towards bringing a university stage.

There are still a few more charter membership tickets for the Iowa Uni on left. They may be procured from Professor Hoeven. This move ment, which started after the failure of the union of the former Union, has proved a huge success up to date. The initial membership was large and new men are being added daily. But the present membership should be doubled or trebled before the first of the year.

Committees are now at work looking for a location for the organization.

Large rooms are necessary, near enough to the university so they may be used by the members at any time.

A lounging room and a smoking room will prove very popula

Arrangements are already being made for the installation of kilns and pool tables as soon as the rooms are in readiness.
