RFLE TEAM SCORES
HIGH IN FIRST MATCH

SAVANNAH RIFLE TEAM SCORE 304 IN SHOOT WITH MASSACUES-
SETS AGGERS

Score of Aggregate That Fail Known—Departments Confident of a Victory.

In the first match of the season, finished during vacation, Iowa's rifle men attained a score of 314 against Massachusetts Aggers. As the score of the opposing team will not be published until it has been verified, at the authority in Washington, the exclusion of the match is still undecided, but the local opponents are quite confident of a victory. All of the men on the team did exceptional work in this match and the total score is 33 points better than in the corresponding shoot last year. The men have been working hard for several weeks and the creditable score comes as a result of their strenuous efforts. Good rifle shots are particularly numerous in this university this year, and the good be-planning made coupled with the excellence of available material points to a most successful season for the marksmen. Sergeant Hulman, who has been consistently connected with the team during the past few years, predicts a better season than any of those recently past, and holds careful that the team will finish well at the top of the close at this year's competition. While the recognition of the National Rifle League makes the marksmen harder than in past years, Iowa should find little difficulty in holding her position among the leaders in intercollegiate shooting. Under the present plan the strongest teams are grouped together and shoot only against each other, while a similar estrangement is made for the weaker members of the league. Under the old geographical classification the strong teams met not many of the weaker ones and consequently had much easier color than would be possible under the present plan. The scores of the ten men comprising the first and second teams in the past match follow:

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS NOT HABITUAL DANCERS

Investigation Made by Professor King As to Work and Social Life of School Students

High school students in Iowa do not attend dancing parties to excess.

Such is the indication in an investigation conducted in Dubuque, Burlington, Ottumwa and Iowa City by the college of education in the University of Iowa.

About 8 per cent of the pupils of this age attended one to two parties a month, 24 per cent none or less than one, and only 24 per cent more than two parties a month. Less than eight per cent average one party a week.

These are the figures which have been reported to Prof. C. H. Irving King in response to the questionnaire sent to the high schools in the four cities.

The relation of the numbers of evening parties to the number of failures was studied. The result showed that the pupils who spent from four to seven evenings at home averaged 155 failures per hundred pupils. The pupils reported as spending one to two evenings per week at home averaged 19 failures per hundred pupils.

The Iowa high school student in the cities does not go to the movies or indulge in other social amusements during the evening.

The high school student in the country spends more time in reading and correspondence than any Raymond L. G. Stewart, Head of the Educational department of the university.

"No other school man appearing a prominent position has so soon gained the confidence and warm personal regard of all classes of school men in Iowa as has Dr. W. A. Jessup, head of the department of education at the University of Iowa. Everybody loves Sir James. This fact in itself would not necessarily mark anything educationally for the state but the personal regard is strengthened by state wide respect for his ability," Dr. Jessup said.

G. W. CLARK MAKES GREAT SUCCESS DURING VACATION

The Men's Club of the college has an unusually successful trip during the Christmas vacation. Six of the largest cities of the state were visited, and at every city moving pictures of the university were shown.

Between twelve and fifteen thousand people heard concerts by the club. Return engagements were requested at every place for next year.

Without doubt this has been the most successful club in the history of the institution. Great credit is due Professor George LeBas for his faithful work he put in with the men and also to C. F. Kirby for the efficient business management during the tour.

A fuller account of the trip will appear in tomorrow's Iowa.
