FRESHMEN ANNOUNCE SALE ON "PARTY DAY"

Tables to Be Placed in the Liberal Arts Building Where Tickets Will Be Sold

Nearing the conclusion of the ticket sale for the Freshman party, the planning is complete and a general sale has been prepared a feature for Wednesday and will fill this day as "Party Day".

Thursday morning in liberal arts building tables for the many sale of tickets to the party will be placed at either end of the main hall. Men will be in charge of these tables during the entire day and the remaining tickets will be left open for sale after that time.

The new rule allowing every class to afford the dance has not gone by without much favor in all classes. Upperclass men as well as upperclass women are working hard on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday to forward to that time. The new rule does not do more than taking advantage of the work of the three committees who are working on plans for countless social entertainments for this event. The committees are working more or less in secrecy as to what manner of entertainment they will arrive at. Some have proposed that the non-dancers must secure as much enjoyment out of the evening as anyone who goes on the floor.

PROFESSOR KRaCHR WRITES ARTICLE FOR GERMAN PAPER

The following is an article written by Professor Francis Kracher, of the German department, for the Späte's, aside from Leipzig, Germany, written by Professor Francis Kracher, of the German department of R. S. T. I., as "The Theory of Composition as Applied to the Modern German Drama."

It contains 160 pages, and is not a translation of a French work but is to be continued and concluded. The publishers are Rosenau's, G. Buchhouta Universitäten, Leipzig, and the University of Chicago Press, Chicago III.

EXTRACTION WORK FEATURED

PROP. LONG WRITES REVIEW

The last number of the American Journal of Psychology contains a review by Professor Isaac D. Long, of Beloit's, "The World's Legal Philosophy."

FREQUENT AUDIENCE TO GREET MADAME ALDA

Large Audience to Be Present at the Monday evening lecture on "Infant Mortality," "Publhoods, commercial clubs and like organizations, will gather in large numbers. The advance notice at Wisconsin's very gratifying: "We feel that the students here have been anticipated; notices and that the management has been successful in accomplishing its purpose on the course this year.

Madame Alda will give practically the same program that she gave in Chicago last week where the receipts were minuscule in their praise of her work and of the two instantaneous appearing with just, Frank LaForge and Gurta Kracher. It is doubtful if a stronger group of talented persons in the musical world could be brought together in the average college society.

At the metropolitan opera house in New York where Madame Francis is a star and her husband Gustav von Konow is the director, no one is a harder or more complexioned worker than she. Any who think Madame Francis a faintly rosy of feminine, would be fully disillusioned were they to happen in the opera house any morning, or at the rehearsal the day before work and see the grueling practice that all go through. Among all the cast and the other stars in the house, she is the only one respected for her thorough work as a lover and student of music. Before starting out on this woman's concert tour the spent two months of daily practice with her accompanist, Mr. Frank La Forge.

Penty of dry, shiny coal on hand now. It’s a battle with the elements from now on, for coal comes in open cars and is exposed to snow and sleet and storm.

Franklin women of Northwestern university have adopted a white knitted cap with a green tassel as the official headgear.

Fred McCarver, a blind student at the University of Indiana is writing an article for publication in the "American Journal of Psychology" comparing the psychology of the blind and those with sight. Mr. McCarver received his master’s degree last year and is taking up his fifth year’s work in the university there. Kansas is attempting to determine the reason for poor attendance at chapel exercises.

Professor Henry Albert spoke on the recent theories with regard to the structure of the atom. The combination of gases proves the presence of electrons in the atom. The normal, unchanged condition of the gas as accounted for by the presence in the atom of a positive charge which neutralizes the negative charge of the electrons. The positive charge is thought by J. J. Thomson to be distributed homogeneously throughout the atom but Rutherford believes it to be concentrated at the center of the atom. The electrons are thought to be in constant vibration in elliptical orbits about the center of the atom. Dr. Milford Scott reported on the regeneration of nerve fibers. Portions of brain and nerve finally killed off to migrate at the approach of winter, actually lived in the convex side of a spherical dome of wood forms of life. He showed from an investigation of a forty acre piece of woodland that numerous insects and birds, commonly thought to be killed off or to migrate at the approach of winter, actually lived through the winter. Two species of butterflies common to the Latitude lived through the winter.

Mr. Cornelius Gowens gave an account of a mathematical derivation of the curve bounding the area of reflection of sunlight to an observer from the curve side of a spherical dome of corrugated iife. This curve is found to be in a circle.

Professor Henry Albert spoke on the use of certain chemicals in the treatment of disease. Benzol is found in the few cases tried, to be efficacious in the treatment of anaemia by reducing the necessary number of white blood corpuscles. Quinin has been tried with success on dogs inoculated with hydrophobia. A doubtful case of hydrophobia in man yielded to quinine treatment.

Professor E. Woodrow presented a statement showing that mortality rates increase progressively through the classes of married men, single men, and widowed or divorced men. The mortality rate is also higher for single women than for married.
