ALFRED NOYES COMES HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

"GREATEST IN ENGLISH LETTERS WHO HAS VISITED IOWA" SAYS PROF. ANSLEY

Also Recommended by Clubs and Societies of City and University.-Sonic.
ated for Second Time as Cedar Rapids--Excellen Reader.

"Alfred Noyes is the greatest man in the field of English literature that has ever visited the university. In vigorousness and quality of his work as a poet he is not inferior to Kipling."

This was the answer of Professor C. F. Anelsey when asked as to the reputed merits of the famous English poet, who is to appear in the auditorium next Thursday evening. Another member of the English faculty has declared Mr. Noyes to be one of the three or four greatest living poets.

These opinions bear out the desirability of the efforts of Alfred Noyes work. In addition, his poetry has met with popular approval which is evidenced in the work of R. W. Tinkes, a well known critic of poetry, has written, "I think the songs I've heard are the best poems some years ago.

In regard to his ability as an entertainer, it is well known that he is a master in the interpretation of his own works. Few eminences of Mr. Noyes' appearance are equalled in stressing his excellent readings as one of the chief charms of his program. Those who have the privilege of hearing him last year in Cedar Rapids, and those in the university who have attended his programs, are of the opinion that his ability as a reader is second only to his mastery as a writer.

Professor Winsley of Yale has added to this acclaim of Mr. Noyes' achievement when he states that Alfred Noyes has "seen the approval of the critics and what is more, the heart and soul of all those who read his poems." When it was learned at Cedar Rapids that he would appear, at

"Just what is the difference between the major and minor sports?" Does a man do more to win a football or crew better than he does if he makes the basketball five? Is he more of an athlete if he runs on the track team than he would have been if he wrestled and won his bout from some other college magazine? "There is a proposition before the students now regarding the democratizing of athletics. Basketball and wrestling are now classed as minor sports. Why? Is it because Mr. Spaulding's minions have so little control over the program? Is it because the major athletics are better men than the minor "W" winners? Why is it that wrestling and basketball are told to take a back seat? "The Daily believes wrestling and baseball are as entitled to be given the major spots in baseball and track. But Mr. Spaulding's guide says not. The only conclusion we can come to is to let Mr. Spaulding do the worrying. Basketball and wrestling are not money makers! When did basketball back or ever make any money? When it comes to the election, go out and vote. Do you want the varsity's sports demoralized? Or are you in favor of the present system of athletocracy in athletics? - Washington Daily"

RACOON CLUB

At the meeting of the Racoon club Friday evening, Professor R. S. Wylie spoke on "Southeastern Alaska." Professor Wylie was a member of the expedition sent to the coasts of southeastern Alaska by the United States government to determine the location of beds of non-wood which might be available for use as fertilizers. Professor Wylie showed specimens of different kinds of seawaeds collected on the expedition. These seaweeds contain from ten to thirty per cent of potash, one of the necessary constituents of fertilizers. Many famous mineral veins were shown of the varied aspects of the territory investigated. The coast line of this area is very much indented by steep and narrow fjords. Many high and rugged islands are separated from each other and the mainland by narrow tortuous passages. The slopes of the land in general are precipitous from the coast line at angles as high as seventy-five degrees. The imagine sell of these steep slopes yet supports a mantle of trees rising one row, another, and wolves. Eagles are very numerous. The streams and the sea are full of fish.

SEVEN DAYS WILL APPEAR AT LOCAL THEATRE SOON

One whole week of solid majors, as its title, "Seven Days" suggests, was the way the university dramatic authority put it when speaking in regard to the play which the Dramatic authority put in at the local theatre next Tuesday. He said that there was crowded into that play much more fun and humor than the average man or woman in much more than seven usual days. These were seven unusual days according to the members of the cast who are practicing the play daily or rather evening.

The coaching is being done by Mr. Laney and the cast of any play composed of him terifies it before success from the start. The professor has had large experience in coaching of amateur plays and has found, he said, that any amateur play will not be a success without competent work of a constructive nature. Mr. Laney's usual good temper is said to be lost much more times before a play is put on, but always with his gratifying result that failure common to amateur plays are conspicuous by their absence. The cast, also, after a few rehearsals, take a deeper interest in the work and before the product is given to the public it has passed a rigid attention of every one who knows.

COACH WATSON SATISFIED WITH SHOWING MADE FIRST FEW DAYS

The first week of active work, by the track athletes of the university, under Coach Jack Watson, reveals a promising outlook. This is all that could be expected early in the season. About seventy men are working daily, and most of them will continue in their work from now until the end of the season.

Besides these seventy new men, the trackmen are several men interested in basketball. The track men who are in basketball work at this time of the year, are doing even more than track men. They will be in the pick of condition when the basketball season ends, and without doubt will be able to swing into the track work plus basketball.

Coach Watson is well satisfied with the showing made thus far. Of course it is impossible to make any predictions yet, but there are several men who are displaying some excellent condition, as well as ability on the track. Capt. Parsons is one of the most promising basketball players, but despite his basketball obligations, finds time to be the track men know he is on the map and will be with them, just as more as he can get away from the floor.

Coach Watson is anxious that more men get out for training. Mr. Watson says he has things he wants to teach the men, and he wants to get them as much training as possible.

ALFRED NOYES

Iowa City, February 5. Many eyes were on foot to bring him there again and thus for a second time he will lecture at Coe college. From here he will go to St. Paul. Mr. Noyes is looking forward to being among the best college cities and universities, appearing in many of these places for a second engagement.

Locally, Alfred Noyes has been engaged by many women's clubs of the city, by the fine arts association, by literary and dramatic societies of the university and by professors, ministers and others who are acquainted with the work of the English poet. Noyes is booked to speak in many of the leading eastern cities and universities, appearing in many of these places for a second engagement.

PADEREWSKI

It is a deplorable fact that the most musicians know little or nothing of their music. From this has risen a very common belief that the art of music so wraps the minds of its practitioners and so narrows them that they can find interest in nothing else. This is true to a much lesser extent, and little harm is done, but it is true to a much lesser extent, and little harm is done.

It is quick to acknowledge the good qualities of a fellow artist, quick to point them out to others and his demands on himself. He has been called upon to speak on his subject. He was born in Czar.
