The Iowa Glee Club gave its annual home concert at the natural science auditorium last night before a large and enthusiastic audience. The reorganization which organization gained on its vacation trip this year was upheld, and the audience at time for the club and the faculty to respond to the doors. The home court evidence of the great preparation and practice which the members of the Glee Club have given, and the splendid supervision of Prof. George Lenox, Mr. Bellamy scored a distinct hit with his solo solo and was rendered in grand style which was much enjoyed by Prof. E. Sturdevant, president of the club, and many those who attended, which was splendidly rendered. Prof. Lenox's solo, "King Charles," added much to the elegance of the program's applause.

The program was a most excellent one and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who were present. The screening of the Glee Club series certainly has a glee club this year which the student body may be proud of. Manager Kurtis states that the presence of the Glee Club was a good factor, and that the Glee Club was not called for the concert, though the exact number of the concert is not yet certain. The complete program as given is as follows:

Part I
1. On the BUCC
   Glee Club

BE WELL STARTED

To be well started is the first element necessary to success. This is true in every phase of competition, as well as of life itself. At this time of the year the student is confronted with the work of the last semester of the year 1914 and 1915.

The time of the freshman when every student in the university should settle down to real hard work. The time will soon be here when the university activities will begin, and there will be less time to apply to outside interests. But when the work required is as great as that of the freshman, the student must make time his own and fit his studies to the time he has available.

With due apologies

The Daily Iowan published an article Wednesday about the Lysan Island exhibit and the work of Mr. Dill. The intention of The Iowan in his line of art was good. However, the article contained some serious misstatements of fact. The most reprehensible of these statements was the assertion that Mr. Dill made the museum "a veritable museum for the study of zoological science." Before Mr. Dill came to the university, such a statement was without apology. The museum is the life-work of Professor Walter C. Wing, and of many others who have worked hard and made large sacrifices for it. It has been and is for thirty years one of the best museums in the United States.

TheIowan feels that Mr. Dill himself probably regrets the mistake of his students. It is sad and has been for thirty years one of the best universities in the United States.

The museum has not been made in the last half dozen years. It is glad to make amends in so far as it can to Professor Walter C. Wing, the curator of the museum, to Professor

The Iowan.

The attorneys for the complainant feel quite confident that the verdicts of the Iowa court are so much in their favor that they will have no difficulty in securing the desired injunction. On the other hand, the attorneys for the defense have put their heads together, and by a generous use of the various annotated reports and digests in the law library, have discovered a vital point that they feel quite certain our opponents have overlooked, and they, too, are certain that a proper development of this one fact will start the injunction.

Number of Teachers for Each Student Higher in Iowa Than Many Other States—Iowa Has 37 Schools On Accredited List

In an extensive investigation of the best high schools in the north central states Dean W. A. Jessef of the College of Education in the University of Iowa, has discovered that the leading Iowa high schools are many points of superiority over the best in the surrounding states.

The investigation, which was made jointly with Professor L. D. Cofman of the University of Illinois, has been printed in the thirteenth Year Book of the National Society of the Study of Education and it will be followed by the form of a report at the annual convention February 23 at Richmond, Virginia.

The most crowded school is in Houston, Texas, having 407 high school students in the north central division, Iowa having 67 of the association's accredited list.

At the Richmond convention Professor Jessef will also submit his report as chairman of the committee on the Economy of Time in the Administration of Elementary Schools. He has obtained the facts by a questionnaire to 1,000 high school superintendents in the association's accredited list.

Professor Jessef is also chairman of the committee on the Relationship of the College Departments of Education to Normal Schools.
