IOWA UNION CAMPAIGN NOW BEFORE STUDENTS

TO RAISE THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS IS AIM OF COMMITTEE IN CHARGE

Every Man In University to Be Given Chance to Assist This Worthy Cause—Liberal Arts College Is Biggest Problem.

The campaign which is being carried on by the Iowa Union for funds which will enable them to take over the St. James hotel as quarters is being pushed to the limit and every effort is being made to get the needed three thousand dollars on hand at the earliest possible moment. So far results have been encouraging, but a thorough canvas of the men of the university must be made before the desired result will have been attained.

The liberal arts college is going to prove the problem. In all of the other schools it will be a comparatively easy matter to see each man personally and solicit him for his subscription to the cause, but the large number in the collegiate department will make several workers well organized a necessity. Ralph McGinnis has been made chairman of the work among the liberal arts men, and already has several at work under him. The board of directors and those in charge of the work are resolved that everyone shall have a chance to help in the movement, and as everyone will share in the benefits it is their firm belief that everyone should help pay for the project.

To increase the interest in the campaign it is likely that a thermometer or circle will be placed in the front of the building and the amount secured in subscriptions will be indicated in this way.

Never before has a movement for the Union needed the support of the students as it does now. The ideal situation for the building has been found and it is possible to lease the property—a dollar from every fellow does the business. All the men that contribute more than a dollar are making the project so much better. The support of the students means the support of the alumni, for the alumni are not going to subscribe their money to anything which the students do not back up.

PHILOSOPHICAL CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW

Club to be Entertained By Dr. Williams and Dean Klingenhagen

It was announced in Sunday's issue of the Iowan that the Philosophical club would meet on Thursday, but this was a mistake. The club will meet tomorrow evening. The talk will be made by Dr. Hebert Martin, of Drake university. Dr. Mabel C. Williams and Dean Anna Klingenhagen will entertain.

DEBATE MAY END IN ANOTHER TIE

Zets May Lead by Two Debates Or Tie With Philos For Seven Year Championship

Whether the Philomathean society will again tie with Zetagathian for the supremacy in debate at the university or whether the Zets will maintain their lead by adding another victory to their three, will be decided next Thursday night at the annual championship debate.

During the last six years of championship debating at Iowa, Zetagathian has won the M. J. Wade prize three times. The last two years in succession. Philomathean has claimed the honor twice. Therefore by a victory Thursday night, this society will again tie with the Zets for the seven year supremacy; but another victory for the Zets will give them a lead of two points.

In this final debate, the Philos will argue the opposite side from the one they upheld in the preliminary debate. Ray Clearman, Donald Rogers, and John T. Frederick will present the affirmative arguments on the third United States bank question; while Halford T. Barry, Milton Norton, and Howard T. Holt, representing the Zetagathian society, will defend the negative of the proposition.

In view of the recent agitation over the currency question, and the passage of the Owen-Glass bill, the third bank question becomes one of general public interest, and a large turn-out to the debate is to be expected. Locally the university championship debate is second only to the intercollegiate debates in point of interest.

GUESTS AT FORMAL

Decorations to represent an Ancient Egyptian Temple was the feature of the Acacia formal, held last Saturday night in the Majestic hall. The out of town guests were as follows: Hazel Bock, Clinton; Mildred Mansfield, Clinton; Beulah Joehnk, Lyons; Edna, Imhoff, Marcus, Florence Hanson, Williamsburg; Sam Irwin, Wapello; Doris Byrnes, Mt. Vernon; Mary S. Isuett, Wapello; Charles Briggs, Wapello; W. S. Johnson, Ft. Dodge.

"GUESS"

Scattered all over Iowa City are hundreds of white placards printed in red ink and bearing the word, "Guess."

Further than this the placards state that a prize is to be given for the nearest correct answer to the puzzle. The contest is an absolute bonafide proposition according to rumors which have circulated around the university. Advertisements and circulars give both the amount of the prize and to whom all answers should be sent.

The winner will be announced on the morning of March 2, 1914.

GYM TEAM IS NOW READY FOR BIG MEET

MEN HAVE NOW COMPLETED INSTRUCTION—EASY WEEK SCHEDULED FOR MEN

Luther College to Participate In Meet—Will Form Permanent Organization Sometime Saturday Before Meet.

Luther College, has signified its intention, of sending a team to represent them in the inter-collegiate gymnasium meet which will be held on the local armory floor next Saturday evening. For the past few years this college has participated in the annual gymnastic meet held by the university of Minnesota, but now that the state of Iowa is to have such a meet, the college authorities feel that a state attraction is the best to be supported.

The intercollegiate gymnastic association will become a permanent institution next Saturday afternoon when the representatives of the different colleges will meet and effect a permanent organization. At the present time, as in the past, there has been no such organization. The colleges of the state feel that the time is here when this branch of athletics must become permanent, and it is with this view that the organization is being effected.

The local gymnastic team has now completed their active practice. Every man is in the best of form, and vigor. They are confident that this first gymnastic meet held under the auspices of the state university of Iowa will be a great success. The schedule for the men for the rest of the week consists of light practices. No hard work will be given them by Director Schroeder, as the meet on Saturday evening will be a terrible strain on every man. This necessitates that they will be in the best of condition which only a good rest will give them.

The year athletic tickets will be good for the state gymnastic meet.

Outside admissions will be fifty cents. The tournament will start promptly at 7:30.

DENTAL ALUMNUS HONORED

The first testimonial banquet to be given a member of the dental profession in the middle west, and one of the few of its kind in the United States, was tendered Dr. A. O. Hunt, of Omaha, by 200 people, recently. College professors and private practitioners, as well as many others attended, and scores of speeches and 100 letters told of the lifework of the guest of honor. A costly Oriental rug was presented to Dr. Hunt, in connection with the eulogies. Dr. Hunt was dean of the college of dentistry at S. U. I. many years and dean of the Omaha dental college from 1896 to 1906, when retiring, to take up his private practice.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT HEARS FINE LECTURE

MISS MARTHA HUTCHINSON OF DAVENPORT TALKS ON PROBLEMS IN STATE

Subject Yesterday Was High School History and Devices and Methods in Presenting the Subject—Keeping in Touch With High Schools.

Miss Martha Hutchinson, L. A. '05, of Davenport, spoke before the conference of the historical society yesterday afternoon. Taking for her subject, "The high school source of study in history and devices and methods in presenting the subject." Miss Hutchinson presenting a concrete authoritative view of the subject from standpoint of the high school and the university.

"The notebook, although a valuable device, has its limitations" said Miss Hutchinson yesterday during her discussion. "The present day history teaching should aim to convert the pupil's knowledge of the present day problems, such as immigration and the South European peoples. Furthermore, it would seem that more emphasis should be placed upon contemporary history, although here the problem is to find workable textbooks and reading material suitable to the pupil's interest and capacities."

Miss Hutchinson was formerly a teacher in the West Des Moines high school and is at the present time on the history staff of the Davenport high school. She made an excellent record for herself while here and now ranks as one of the ablest teachers of history in the state.

It is the policy of the department of history to keep in touch with the active work of the high schools of the state in this branch. Several weeks ago Thomas Teakle, of the North Des Moines high school spoke before the history conference here. These representatives from the active high schools of the state serve as an important link in the relationship between the high schools and the state university.

DEBATER LEAVES SCHOOL

Wallace Peterson, a liberal arts student has left the university to go to his home in Davenport. The illness of his father is the cause of his leaving. He will manage his father's business the rest of the year, or until Mr. Peterson is able to resume active management. Mr. Peterson was one of the star debaters of the freshman class and had been elected as leader of the Zetagathian debating team for the freshmen debates.

HEILMAN AT GRINNELL

Dr. Ralph Heilman, chief of the bureau of civil welfare, was in Grinnell yesterday where he spoke before the Grinnell civic league. His subject was "A Community Social Program."

BOSE WRITES LETTER TO SECRETARY OF STATE

BELIEVES THAT HINDU LABOR BILL WILL HURT PANAMA CANAL

Several Interesting Points in Connection With Bill Pointed Out by Dr. Bose—Has Just Returned from Conference With Mr. Bryan

In a letter to Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, Sudhindra Bose, president of the Hindusthan association of America and an instructor in the University of Iowa, says that the Hindu labor exclusion bill will hurt the Panama Canal.

"We are told" asserts Dr. Bose "that one of the objects of the Panama Canal is to enlarge the American trade with the Oriental nations. India is one of those nations whose trade and good will should prove very valuable to America. If this drastic exclusion measure is passed, there is little doubt that it will, to a certain extent, defeat the very purpose for which the canal was built."

It is claimed by President Bose that the bill "will practically stop the Indian students from coming to this country." He says that the Indian government "does not favor the idea of our students coming to America," and he believes that America would be violating a time honored tradition "if it were to bar from the gates of its institutions of learning students of limited means." He then suggests that the bill should provide for a "minimum income of not more than two hundred dollars a year from such prospective students."

The writer of the letter to Secretary Bryan also points out that a hardship will be worked upon the Hindus by the rule that any of the exempted class, if they leave the country, must re-enter through the same port of departure.

TRIANGLE CLUB

The Triangle club will give a social tea this afternoon at the club rooms from 4 to 6 o'clock. The club will be assisted by Miss Anna Klingenhagen, Mrs. Breen, Mrs. Lambert, and Dr. Mabel C. Williams.

Y. M. C. A. RECITALS TO BE GIVEN AGAIN NEXT YEAR

Plans Are Already On Foot to Bring World Renowned Artists Here

Plans for the 1914-1915 Y. M. C. A. recitals have already been discussed. Nothing definite has been done, but it is understood that again next year the student body and the Iowa City public will have the opportunity to hear renowned artists under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Dean W. G. Raymond has been the ruling factor in conducting these recitals, and will again take charge of the work.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

The individual or organization must first establish public confidence before support can even be expected. So it is with the Iowa Union and the student of the university. Thus far the students have established confidence by bringing into existence an Iowa Union. Now the union is endeavoring to place itself upon a sound financial basis. To do this they seek assistance from the outside. Before the assistance from the alumni of the university comes, the student body and the members of the union must show that they are back of the Iowa Union heart and soul with their pocketbooks. When they do this, support, financially, and good will, will be forthcoming.

Already committees have been appointed to canvass the different colleges of the university to secure the necessary three thousand dollars. We believe that the students will support this institution as they have never supported any other student activity. There is no institution, or organization that will aid the individual, as does the Iowa Union. At the present time the organization is in its most difficult period of development, and we believe that it will continue to grow and flourish and ultimately become what every member of the Union anticipates it to be.

There are upwards of fifteen hundred men in the university. Three thousand dollars is necessary to place the Iowa Union on a permanent and secure basis. But a second thought will serve to show how easy it would be to once and forever make the Iowa Union independent and secure. Students of the university, you believe in the Iowa Union, or you would not have, thus far, given it your support. Now is the time to prove that you are right with yourself and with your university and give your financial assistance to this democratic institution of the university.

Every man in the university will be approached, within a day or two,

SLAVE CATCHERS IN IOWA

Among the stations on the "Underground Railroad." By means of which slaves were spirited away from bondage in Missouri to freedom in Canada, was the town of Salem, a thriving Quaker community in Henry county. Many were the fugitive slaves who, in the years before the war, were hidden in the cellars and garrets of the Quaker homes at Salem and then sent to safety on their long journey to the northward. Indeed, it is said that not a single slave who reached Salem was ever recaptured by his owners.

In a book on "The Quakers of Iowa" which has just been published by the State Historical Society of Iowa, Dr. Louis T. Jones tells of an incident of this character which nearly resulted in bloodshed. Several slaves belonging to a Missourian named, Ruel Daggs had escaped to the vicinity of Salem, and an attempt to recapture them was frustrated by the Quakers of that community. A few days later the people of Salem were startled by the approach of a large body of Missourians, armed to the teeth and bent on recovering the lost slaves. They blocked up the street and allays and searched a number of houses to no avail. Before any violence was done, however, it was rumored that the sheriff of Henry county was coming to the rescue of Salem with a large posse of angry men; whereupon the Missourians took to their horses and galloped off post haste to their homes without accomplishing the object of their mission.

"BUNTY PULLS THE STRING"

It seems that at the present day it matters little to newspaper readers whether they live in New York, London, or Kalamazoo. They are alive to all that is going on. And whenever anything exceptionally interesting occurs, the newspapers and magazines quickly carry the news to the four corners of the earth. In no instance has this been more clearly exemplified than in the success of "Bunty Pulls the Strings," the quaint and beautiful comely to appear at Iowa City on Wednesday, March 4, matinee and night, written by an unknown Scotch actor, whose field of work was, until recently, among the small hamlets of his native Scotland. Then some American tourists, happening by the wayside, dropped into a small country hall to witness an entertainment, "just to kill time," and behold, they saw "Bunty Pull the Strings." It interested them greatly, so much so that on their return to London they talked about it. The result was that an alert London manager sent one of his staff to Scotland to investigate. The report was so favorable that a trial performance was given, and the following day, the author, Graham Moffat, actor and author, was a famous man. The play is still running at the Haymarket Theatre (its second year) to enormous audiences. When it was produced in New York last year the story was the same. It was unknown there to a degree. The following day the newspapers carried the glad tidings to all America. The result is that here in Iowa City no sooner had the announcement gone forth that "Bunty" was to appear at the Englert than Manager Englert's office was fairly flooded with small orders for seats for the coming performance, and eighty per cent of them were from adjoining towns, within a radius of fifty miles or more. It is proof positive that people in small towns read and believe in the newspapers and magazines.

FORMER UNIVERSITY GIRL IS HEROINE IN EAST
Miss Ethel Barber Braves Cold During Fire—Member of Delta Gamma

Miss Ethel Barber, formerly of S. U. I., now of Boston, Mass., is the heroine of a pretty story of womanly bravery and earnest self sacrifice, that comes from the Hub.

A big fire was raging, and the fire laddies were engaged in life-saving in the cold and wet; long away from their homes, they were nearly starved and frozen, in their ice-clad raiment, which encased them like Arctic.

Miss Barber rushed to the rescue, braved the frigid February air, and made up hurriedly a great quantity of sandwiches, which she dispensed among the firemen to buoy them up, as they performed their dangerous work, amid the flames.

Miss Barber is now attending the Simmonds school, studying professional accounting, stenography, type-writing, etc., and otherwise fitting herself for a successful business career.

She is a popular alumni of the Delta Gamma sorority at S. U. I.

A CORRECTION

In a former account of the university championship debate, a mistake was made in the names of one of the debates. The name of Gilbert Berry of Allerton was printed for that of Halford Barry of Cedar Rapids. The names of the Zet team, then, should read: Halford Barry, Milton Norton, and Howard T. Holt.

LAST INTER-CLASS GAMES SATURDAY

Liberal Arts and Engineers to Clash For Championship Of University

Saturday afternoon will witness the last inter-class basket ball game of the season, when the liberal arts and the engineers will clash for the title. There will be two more games on Saturday afternoon, the first one will be between the laws and the pharmics, the other as above noted. The games will start promptly at 1:45.

Director Schroeder has had much trouble this year in getting these inter-class games played off, owing to the crowded condition of the armory, but despite the changing of dates and other trouble there have been more than the usual amount of interest. Especially is the interest over the games between the liberal arts and the engineers keen, for thus far in the series these two teams have not clashed, and neither have lost a game. Every man on these teams has been playing an excellent game. Both teams are confident of victory in the final get-together.

The laws and pharmics will battle for the third place. These teams have been playing a good quality ball all season, and the outcome on Saturday is doubtful. The game between the liberal arts and the engineers will be called at 2:30. An admission charge of 15c will be charged for one or both games.

PANDEAN PLAYERS CHOOSE THEIR PLAY

"The Road to Yesterday" Is Name Of Production to Be Staged

"The Road to Yesterday" is the name of the play which will be staged by the Pandean players within a few weeks. The choosing of the play has been given much consideration by the members of the dramatic club, and the one chosen is felt to be the best one which is possible to obtain. The players are particularly well satisfied with the choice.

It was announced yesterday that Miss Norma Reid Harrison will coach the play this year. This news came with a great welcome as Miss Harrison is well acquainted with the production, having starred in it several years ago at Cleveland, O. She is, therefore, well qualified to coach the company.

The Pandean players feel that they have an especially strong cast this year and are announcing that it will be the best play that will be put on by amateurs here this season. Much ado is being made over the settings of the play and this, together with the lighting effects, are anticipated to outclass anything in the dramatic line which has been put on in Iowa City for a long time.

HENRY OLDYS TO LECTURE

Henry Oldys, formerly of U. S. Biological survey, will appear at the university in Natural Science auditorium, probably the last week in March. No definite date can be made as yet, but it is thought that some time during the latter part of March may be secured. Mr. Oldys lectured here two or three years ago on the subject, "Bird Music," and his address was well received. His topic for the coming lecture will be, "Bird Protection and Bird Music."

MORE THAN 5,000 PEOPLE BENEFITTED

Community Institutes Under Auspices of University Very Successful

More than 5,000 people attended the university of Iowa Community Institutes, held at Marion, Vinton, and Audubon, during the month just gone.

So successful were these three big novelties in the institute field, that the bureau of welfare at S. U. I.—an important factor in the extension division—will hold several before long.

Monticello gets an Institute on March 13 and 14.

Winfield claims a duplicate, March 20 and 21.

Guthrie Center will have a kindred session, March 26 and 27.

April dates will be arranged later.

The last institute held at Vinton was successful because of the efforts of Bernard Murphy, editor of the Vinton Eagle, and his son Edward A. Murphy, a graduate of the university of Iowa's college of law in 1901. A special feature of the Vinton program came Thursday evening of last week when Professor B. F. Shambaugh, head of the department of political science in the university, spoke briefly on "The Aims and Purposes of the Extension Division of the University." He explained the method of organizing this division of university work with a view to rendering practical service to the people of the state of Iowa.

C. F. Kurtz, assistant to O. E. Klingaman, chief of the bureau of municipal information, spent part of last week making a thorough investigation of the retail conditions in Cedar Rapids. He met with unusually hearty co-operation from the merchants of that city. He collected much data which will be of great value in compiling a bulletin of information for the retailers of the state. Tentative preparations have been made for greatly extending this branch of service to the business men of Iowa.

A special feature of Community Institutes in the future will be an illustrated lecture on retail advertising, which will be given only before conferences of business men in communities where the institutes are held.

O. E. Klingaman, chief of the bureau of municipal information spoke at Washington Friday evening where he appeared before the first of a series of community socials which are being held in that city in an effort to bring the Iowa and country closer together.

In an effort to check the spread of scarlet fever and other contagious diseases at the university at Illinois, a call has been made for student volunteers to clean the sidewalks around the campus.

FENCING CLASS WILL MEET AGAIN SATURDAY

Good Number of Men Signify Their Intention to Take Up Work

Director Schroeder was well pleased last Friday afternoon, when a good number of men interested in fencing reported at his office and signified their intention to take up the work in the new class. The class will meet again next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in Director Schroeder's office in the armory to receive the first instructions, and to arrange a time for the class to meet for practice.

Any student or faculty member in the university is eligible for this new branch of athletics. At the present time it is not necessary for the men to go to the expense of providing foils and other regalia necessary for the work. No experience is necessary to enter this class as the instructor will start from the beginning. The elementary instruction, such as simple thrusts, positions, disengagements, etc., will be given.

Y. M. C. A. DELEGATES IN BIG CONVENTION

Des Moines Is Meeting Place of Women From Five States

Delegates from five different states, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa, comprising the north central field of the Young Women's Christian association, met in Des Moines last Saturday in their annual convention.

The convention ended last Saturday night, after one of the most successful meetings ever held. An interesting and instructive program marked the convention. Speeches by Miss Reynolds, formerly world's secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. Byers, executive of the north central field, and Miss Boerner, national student secretary, were the features of the convention. All phases of the Y. W. C. A. work was taken up. This consideration of the city, student and country work was taken up by different secretaries present. The rare opportunity offered for the many secretaries to come to know each other in this manner is one of the best advantages of the convention.

The delegates from Iowa who were present at the convention are as follows:

- Macetta Browning
- Eloise Brainerd
- Erva Burdick
- Harriet Koch
- June Leo
- Martha Porter
- Retta Schell
- Fay Stahl
- Mary Dallas
- Mabel Randolph
- Louise Barr
- Anna Klingshagen.

Dean Klingshagen has returned from Des Moines where she represented the largest college of the eighteen represented by deans of women.

Professor F. C. Ansley has been lecturing through the west for the past few days.

Professor C. H. Weller has returned from a trip through the west.

Miss Eloise Brainerd has returned from Des Moines where she attended a Y. W. C. A. conference.

Walter Penningroth, a graduate of the university this spring left recently for Chicago where he has been offered a position.

LUCY MAY COME BACK TO LIFE

Engineer's Parade to Be Headed by Veteran—Many Features
Promised

It has leaked out what the engineers did with their sacred Blarney stone last year. They didn't break it up for concrete as was currently reported at the time. No sir, that Blarney stone has had a curious history. 'Tis a sad story—a story full of pathos, and solemnity, and tearful sorrow. The complete tale will appear in a special engineer's edition of the Iowan, to be issued on the morning of Thursday, March 19th.

Besides the tale of the last sad rites of the ancient Blarney stone, there will be others. The engineers' capabilities for getting themselves into predicaments in preparing for the annual celebration are always fruitful sources of interesting stories. Remember the old time "Lucy," that wheezy traction engine, gave up the ghost on and "Iowa hillside" south of town and didn't appear in the parade? It is possible that old "Lucy" may appear in the parade again this year in a new role providing her rheumatic joints and wobbly wheels and leaky boiler and perverse nature in general will permit her.

There's one sad thing about it, however. No more can old "Lucy" drag those two old dejected cabs around the streets of Iowa City as in the old days. No more can she pose as the "Rocky Mountain Limited" with those two old cabs as her "train." Those two old cabs passed in their checks the time Murphy's livery barn burned in the early part of the winter. So that much about the parade is cinched at any rate.

Besides the parade—which promises to be several blocks longer than previous parades—there will be a rousing banquet of alumni and students the evening before the celebration; likewise the famous engineers show on celebration night. Order your copy of that Iowan in advance.

CORNELL COLLEGE STUDENTS SHOOT

Howard Manning Meets Death When Bothers Bowman Hall
Girls

Howard Manning of Mt. Vernon, aged twenty-five is dead from a bullet wound through his body. He was shot Friday night after a long chase by students at Cornell College. Manning was charged with peeping through windows in Bowman hall, the girl's dormitory recently and the students took the law in their own hands, it seems, to avenge this act of the alleged "Peeping Tom."

Manning was shot in the back by a college student, as the result of trouble the college authorities have encountered with some person who has been annoying the women in the college hall, and which occurred when a number of students caught the marauder on the fire escape of the building and fired when he ran away.

The trouble with the "Peeping Tom" had reached such a state that the women in the dormitory were in terror because of his actions. The city and the college authorities were unable to land the fellow. At last several students were delegated to assist in capturing the person if possible.

The students were on guard Friday night, when they saw someone approach the building and peep through the windows. At first he eluded the college men but returned later in the evening when he climbed upon the fire escape. It was this time when the students came upon the man that he jumped from the fire escape and was fired upon. He escaped in the darkness.

About 10:30 in the evening Professor Mills, whose home is about two blocks from Bowman hall, stepped into his back yard and heard a man groaning and calling for help. The professor found Manning lying on the ground suffering from a bullet wound in his back. The wounded man was taken to the home of his mother where it was found that the bullet had passed completely through his body near the waist line. He hovered between life and death Friday night and died early Saturday morning.

The affair caused a tremendous sensation in Mt. Vernon. Sympathy is wholly on the part of the students for Manning had a bad reputation.

After hearing that Howard Manning had been shot, the students called upon Dr. Hill and upon other prominent citizens and explained the shooting. They were eager to go upon the stand and testify. It seemed that they expected to be placed under arrest and lingered near their rooms that they might answer immediately a call from the authorities.

Coroner King and Assistant Attorney Churchill arrived in Mt. Vernon shortly before 11 o'clock Sunday morning to conduct the inquest. Mr. Ink a member of the board of township trustees, was asked to find three representative men to serve as jurors. Coroner King then secured the services of Captain Chas. W. Kepler as an able lawyer who gladly assisted in conducting the inquest. The inquest was heard in the town hall. After Dr. Hill and Professor Mills and Miss Madison had testified the students were called. Lovett and Shafer were the only college men to testify, as the coroner did not think it necessary for more students testifying. Both students were warned that they are not required to give any testimony that might incriminate them.

The jury decided upon a verdict within twenty minutes after hearing the testimony, to the effect that Howard Manning came to his death from a gun shot wound at the hands of some unknown person.

OAKDALE TO HAVE NEW BUILDINGS THIS SUMMER

State Architect Completed Plans Recently—to Cost
$85,000

Oakdale will have two new buildings. They are to be erected by the State of Iowa, during the coming summer.

H. F. Tiebbe, state architect, has completed plans for these structures, and they have been approved by the state authorities. The board of control will pay $50,000 for one of these buildings, and the other will cost about $35,000.

The costly structure will be three stories high, and will be the home of advanced tubercular patients. The other building will be the home of the medical and administrative staffs.

The 35th assembly made appropriations for these valuable additions to the properties of the state here, and the nearly $100,000 will be wisely expended.
