Seven Innings Ended 9-4

team gained seven previous yesterday by defeating the Iowa City

Davenport Protects in the third game of the series by romping home with the last of a nine to 4 count. The exhibition displayed by the colleges was a decided improvement above that shown in the two previous games. The hitting and fielding bring for in the base hit of the local roosters, while the showing on its pitching staff, was above remarkable.

In the first inning Oleray was safe as Eyre’s error but was caught on first on a second later by Lansing’s short stop at Second Base. Koepping popped out and Lanlume was retired. In the next inning to Laucks to Lansing. In the Iowa half after Eyre struck out, Iles singled and struck out. Snyder pounded one over Koepping’s head and scored the first run. Snyder kept on hitting and over Koepping’s head scored the inning by striking out.

"WITHIN THE LAW"

As the attention at the National grinds on Monday afternoon and evening, The American Play Company will present Rayard Velissors Brimming New American drama, "Within the Law."

"Within the Law," of which local theatre-goers have heard, and seen in the great deal recently because of the unprecedented success scored by such a play in New York and Chicago, is one of those it was labelled as "the real dramatic triumph of the year." Its local engagement will bring here a adding organization of real strength, and the elaborate scenic adornment of "Within the Law" simply maintains the high standard of artistic excellence of The American Play Company, the producers.

"Within the Law" which scores a series of incredible appeals is aptly described as a dream of dawning goods from the establishment in which she is employed, and sentenc- ed to three years imprisonment. The amount of proof, so deemed, of logical obviously trivial defense saves her. She saves her time. She helps to support herself, however, though the police harass and "bound" her. When they have force- ed her out of several places by re- moving her imprisonment, the girl is in despair, doles out, and proves that she has as capable a career of crime she will be free, and stay "within the law," too.

Thus comes the big third—the "third degree,"—examination of all parties by the police inspector meant to get the murderer. In an intense scene, the guilty man finally confesses, partly because of nervous strain, partly because of the swift action of the girl. From this point the play is a series of artful and skilful twists in a plot which the girl saves her time, too. That is one reason why you get better grades when you write your notes the National Way.
