Hundred Watching May Day Pageant Friday

250 Women Watch May Day Pageant Friday
Representatives from Iowa Are Secured

Everything seems to be running smoothly for the men in charge of this division for the Lake Geneva conference to be held at this lake this summer from June 12 to 21 inclusive. The committees are meeting every day and there are now 13 men signed up to represent Iowa. The men who took the opportunity to attend this conference last year are ready to relate their experiences to those representatives this year.

The conferences take in following states: Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Montana, and also the chance to hear decorated veterans from the State of Wisconsin.

The men who have assumed the chair of the committees of this conference are as follows:

H. Y. Williams, Prof. Faro, L. T. Toward, E. W. Allen, C. E. Tow-

Harley Green Talk

At 6:30 this morning the annual Y. M. C. A. river trip will start from the best landing and row of paddle as the person wishes to the country club where the men will have breakfast after which they will float down the river, the first scene of the day.

There are a large number of men who have planned watching the river for the Cole, and resided, and also the chance to hear the main speaker, A. A. Harley, Mr.

Harley is former student society sec-

Fowle and who have great faith in his work in that department. He is now doing graduate work in the Columbia University of theology and home with the idea of securing women, Illinois students for the Lake Geneva camp to be held this summer.

DEPARTMENT STAFF PLEASED WITH BOOK
MANAGERS MAKE GOOD STATEMENTS

Books Are Here, Resting Peacefully in the Physics Building Until 7 Bells Monday Morning.

College of Applied Science
The class of 1915 will be proud of its annual when it is put on sale tomorrow morning. Every page of the book shows the result of many hours of untiring labor and the entire book is exceptionally well balanced. It is a book that all fellows of Old Gold will be proud to show to their friends in other universities.

We are more pleased with the annual, and especially with the engineering section. We wish to say that the Hawkeye management has given us department a fair and square deal. This engineering section has come off the press just as the departmental editor arranged it. Furthermore, instead of the original twenty pages assigned to us, we were given thirty-two pages.

No one ought to be satisfied unless he has a copy of this year's Hawkeye. The book is really "good," and we are glad to say all we can in its favor. We have compared it with the annuals of other schools and do not hesitate to state that it is the best and biggest annual we have ever seen.

A comparison of the 1915 Hawkeye with those of former years instantly shows that this book has more than kept pace with the growth of the university. Not only are the pages larger, but there are a great many more of them. The cuts are much more plentiful and the arrangement worked out more systematically, and even a hurried glance through the book impresses one with its thorough all-university character. In fact the most remarkable feature of this year's Hawkeye seems to me to be its comprehensive nature. Everything, everybody, every phase of university activities has its own place from our strenuous foot ball team to the EQUAL CROWNS.(s)

In short, the book fulfills Palay's prediction of "A Place for Every Page." You better buy a Hawkeye and see which one of yours is in it.

College of Medicine
The 1915 Hawkeye is a beauty. It is the largest and best College Annual ever published in this university. The Medical section is larger than heretofore and features the Junior Nurses and Junior Medics; however, this section is not limited to Junior. I wish to state that the General Management of the book put forth every effort to insure a faithful reproduction of any page for which they should be publicly thanked.

JOHN T. HANNA
Medic Editor

The Medical Department this year has an excellent section, and one which has never been excelled. It is much larger this year than it has ever been before, and every single student in the college has been represented in some way or other. In general the book is a work of art, and it shows some excellent work on the part of the men who have charge of it this year.

A grand old book. A book with clear cuts, beautiful half tones, excellent binding and exceedingly representative of each and every college. This year the jokes are real, and general and some exceedingly clever. The cuts are varied and picturesque all of which makes it the best book I have ever seen. The editors have had almost full way for their own section, all the space they wished all the cuts they could produce and a chance to read over the proof sheets so not the usual mistakes this year. I have only the greatest praise for the 1915 Hawkeys.

PAUL ROYAL

College of Entomology
It is hard to know just what to say regarding the 1915 Hawkeys for it out classes any other former annual so much. There is absolutely no comparison to be made between this year's annual and those of previous years. It is larger and smarter at that set with finer type; more beautifully bound; every cut clear and distinct, and everything taken into consideration is far superior even to the wildest dreams of the editors.

Regarding the Dental section, we believe that it can hardly be beat as to general artistic printing and makeup. Eighteen pages were allotted the dental editors and so all these have been turned again as much material as it did for dental sections of the same size. We claim it is a great old book and feel that the editorial staff is to be highly congratulated.

I consider it a unique privilege to have the opportunity of expressing my opinion in regard to the 1915 Hawkeys. In general appearance, the book surpasses all expectations. Because of the all university character of this portion of the book, the manage ment increased the number of pages from 25 to 54. This section of the book alone contains over 400 pictures and caricatures of various individuals about the university. The management at all times has been atmosphere too generous and have enticed me in no way in my endeavor to publish a joke section that would be long remembered. I have nothing but the highest praise for the entire book.

Liberal Arts Editor
G. G. GABRIELSON
After an indirect connection with the war, Hawkeye management during the last school year, we feel that a word in commendation of the 1915 Hawkeye is not out of place. The Editors are to be congratulated and praised for their accomplishment. They have set a mile post on the trail of Hawkeye publication. We say this, because we feel, after a comparison of criticisms and special election into the Hawkeye, both in several artistic merit and representative completeness, in addition to any annual home tutorial published in the Mississippi Valley. The "1915 Hawkeyes" should call forth a burst of enthusiastic praise for the staff and managers, as well as extolling an unassailable volume of longer, and in all those which it reads. The annual will stand as another (institutional) of managerial ability, and as a pioneer in a new era of Hawkeye publication. But the "1915 Hawkeyes" not only stand as a pioneer, it suffers the trial—very trial of a pioneer. Previously, the Hawkeye has lived within the limits of its issues, and as a result has suffered to comparison with the year books of other Western schools, but this year, by the dint of unprecedented efforts, the management has dared to meet financial obstacles, whether it is to be considered as a victory or a reverse until the present time, has raised the Hawkeye to a new standard. The financial obstacles exceeded those of any previous Hawkeye, but this also saved those of any previous book: but the student receives the book at the same old price. Our honest opinion is that the book is in spite of any of our criticisms.

As a result the Hawkeye will naturally drift into the hands of the managers, and the whole university will suffer as a consequence. Thus, slowly, the university management may be evolved. In verse of the fact, the university management must be unhallowed, there is but one aspect of the Hawkeye which is a cause for serious anxiety and this is—what will the book be worth?

In the view of the fact, that the Hawkeye is in every other sense of the word, and has never been, the student body for the sake of our school, be cheerfully contribute to the future their share in producing the Hawkeye.

The Editors of the Hawkeye believe that the Hawkeye has been made a valuable asset to the university, and that the students have paid for its production. On this account as a true follower of the famous Editor, Ralph E. Turner, the Hawkeye will continue to be published.

The Hawkeyes—Present and Past

As an Editorial
In our endeavor to make the 1915 Hawkeye truly representative of this great university, we have spared neither time, labor, nor expense, and we fully believe, that in this respect, a new and higher standard has been set for all university annuals. The accomplishment of this task has been largely due to the hearty cooperation of the staff, and especially of the associated editors and measures. Kent, Clise and Allen. The shared efforts and the self-sacrifice of these people have materially assisted in maintaining our policy—Hawkeye for the benefit of the whole university.

In maintaining such a policy it has been necessary to invest several thousand dollars without hope of any direct return on the investment. The reason for this financial situation is easily determined, but not so easily remedied. Compared to the other large universities with whom we compete, the receivables from the sales of book and booklets are comparatively small, on account of the limited size of the town and the student body. But in spite of these inherent difficulties, the pervasiveness of the university demands that the annual is a part with the book in the best, and we are confident of our success to sell the books for less than they actually cost. It is not, however, our place to complain, for we accepted the responsibility of the condition, fully realizing the conditions, with the sole purpose of producing an annual that would long make the Class of 1915 remembered. But we do earnestly plead that the student body with the above conditions before you, consider carefully the future of the Hawkeye.

It is a subject which well deserves the earnest thought of every person who has the welfare of our general institution at heart, for without the annual it is truly represented to the outside world to the university engine, so should the Hawkeye. But a point has been reached where a safe financial policy will not allow a further advance unadulterated and wholesome.

For the present, the situation which above demands from us the shoulders of the Business Manager and the Editor in our only plan that is at all feasible. Of course, it is a system always to be regretted the possibility of electing to those office of the best man, or rather to fulfill the interests of the university. But in the end, we must pay the students, men and women, we followed the above plan, for it has been Socially Improvement.

The Business Manager and Business Manager should be elected as a unit, at a special election to be held in the spring of the Sophomore year. By this time the number of the class is better a position to choose men who will do the work for their term. We feel that the above plan cannot be carried out without a "Hawk" in the advance of the Hawkeye, and this alone will not suffice. If the Hawkeyes can be placed on a financial basis such that it will yield a fair return on the money invested and the labor expended, something as capable men will not object to the responsibility and work of maintaining the standard which the Hawkeye has set. In conclusion, it must be understood that the whole university will suffer as a consequence the Hawkeye management may be evolved. In the view of the fact, that every other source of income is not surpassed, there is but one aspect of the Hawkeye which is a cause for serious anxiety and this is—what will the book be worth?

In the view of the fact, that the Hawkeye is in every other sense of the word, and has never been, the student body for the sake of our school, be cheerfully contribute to the future their share in producing the Hawkeye.
