The admittance yesterday sent in a requisition to Dr. George M. Chapell, the state weather man at Des Moines collecting for four hours of comfort weather this evening for the production of "The Road to Yesterday" which is to be presented at the Ralgater theatre for the benefit of the fifth annual convention of the Associated Advertising clubs of Iowa.
This convention is to be held in Iowa City at the time of the homeseating test fall, October 21 to 31.
Dr. Chapell, who is a member of the Fifth Avenue faculty, wired back "Cold weather coming."

The seat sales yesterday was better than expected when the seats of the thrombosis was considered. The stunts pulled off by the advertise, however, have attracted much attention this production by the Fifth Avenue faculty, and that a very large number of seat ent will be sold today.
When the play was first seen at April is to beLooped and the advertising which the production has received from its friends out at California has been behind the first performance to result in a heavier seat today.
The last dress rehearsal for the play was held last evening at the Management state that the university students were convinced that the second performance would foremost the first production, in effect.

Members of the Iowa baseball team will be entertained by the members and their hosts have been served for the team which recently wounded the Argus and the Grinnell

The POWER
From Schroeder

In a hotly contested battle Van der Zee, from the university championship, in tennis yesterday afternoon. Van der Zee was from Kellogg in a fierce battle last week and Schroeder was from Elizabethtown. Thus the two were left for the final struggle. The battle was fought hard as will be readily seen from the close score of 6, 4, 6, 4, 6.

Keen interest has been shown in this tennis coronet and many contestants entered the race for supremacy, but a consistent elimination process all entrees were forced to step aside until only two were left and these two met yesterday afternoon with disastrous results to one of them. The championship has been in the hands of Cyberlens until the present season when it passed into the keeping of the faithful Van der Zee. A noticeable fact in the disposal of the highest honors is the fact that the manager of the tennis tournament is the present tenant of the championship post.

PROF KAY COMMENTS ON IOWA GYPSUM PRODUCTION

The Iowa Geological Survey in cooperation with the United States Geotical Survey has recently compiled the figures regarding the production of Portland Cement and gypsum in Iowa for the year 1913, which show that the value of the output of each of these products was greater in 1913 than in any previous year by the Iowa State

Professor George F. Kay, state geo-tologist and head of the department of geology, says evidence indicates that the production will increase year by year and that there is an abundance of raw materials in Iowa for making these two products.

KITE AND PICTURES
DRAW BIG CROWDS

Ad Club Resorts To Many Unique Stunts To Attract Public

It may be that there were kites flew three hundred years ago, but if there were, those who flew them had nothing on the one which the Iowa City Ad club sent out last evening to proclaim, far and wide, that the Pan-american Players are to repeat "The Road to Yesterday" this evening.

Last year's afternoon, after several unsuccessful attempts the kites soared with the title banner announcing the play. Many people watched it until dark, but when the sunlight was turned on, it there were few people who did not place to stare.

This was only one of the many unique advertising stunts which the Iowa City Ad club has pulled off within the last few days. The pictures which attracted and pleased so many people Tuesday evening were again shown; last evening, and attracted equally large crowds.

It really looks like the Panhansaews will have a record breaking Iowa this evening, for the merits of the attraction leaves nothing in that to be desired, and the Ad club has resorted to as many unique advertising stunts, that certainly everyone in the city is aware that there is something doing at the ' Englert this evening.

The average engineer is pretty smart enough. But for a capacity to make a hit with the ladies, the palm will have to be given to the engineers down in room 68 in the Applied building. Room 68 is on the ground floor of the engineering building, just behind the side door on the lower west end. Its windows open directly onto the sidewalk, and are usually raised to fully height this time of the year. That's just nothing whatever to do with the story. We started out to tell the tale of the gentry in that room 68 and their seeming capacity for interesting himself fair sex.

At irregular intervals for the past week or ten days, a crowd made up of four or five summer has been seen filtering in down the sidewalk on one side or the other and peeping into the windows. Sometimes one would climb up to the windowwills right after much excitement, and there sat and hopefully watching admiringly, or offering up a shy comment or otherwise express interest in the procedure in general.

Now, coming in 68 so far had the idea that they were particularly attractive, and to be suddenly showered with the attractions of one of the opposite sex was at least disconcerting. And they continued to gain in favor. The little medals appeared again and again at the window — every evening — and often on the windowsill at the window choosing the best of a Twenty-three drawings instruments with each unit. Of late this has been brought those engineers in 68 each a beautiful flower as a token of her visits and book- on — a little bit of a thing with the imaginative capacity that only a child can have.

Last evening those engineers in 68 N clouted together and resolved to have their distinctive attitude. They are often raised to the president, the captains of the
