IOWA PAINTERS IN NEW ORGANIZATION

UNIVERSITY INSTRUCTORS IN FINE ARTS HEAD MOVEMENT FOR ARTISTS

Plan to Organize Guild Which Will Promote Exhibition of Iowa Painters in Iowa-Based Artists Win High Praise

Reduced by two of the instructions in the fine arts department of the University of Iowa, a movement for the organization of an association of Iowa artists among the various painters of the state has just been launched with the idea of promoting exhibitions of Iowa painters by Iowa painters.

The two Iowa instructors are Linus C. Colburn, an Iowa artist, who is rapidly gaining fame in many of the larger galleries, and Charles A. Elkmann, recently of the Carvings Art school of Des Moines, probably Iowa’s most noted artist. The object of the guild is to cooperate for the presentation of the work of its members in the public

MILITARY WORK SCHEDULED OCT. 8

Cadets are Men In Registering This Year’s-Former Primary Instructor has a Call

Work in the military department is covered very behind the record set last year. This is the influence exerted by outstanding cadets and youthful enthusiasm. I am informed that this has been so great that we have had much less than we have at present.

There are more in the army than the usual HU who will be forced to take military drill and the reports are far behind. This probably means that the men have been working in reporting, and not a drill when they have that a short time to prepare before the first drill.

The drill of the military will commence to embrace Tuesday, April 7, at 4:30 o’clock in the afternoon. By this time it will be found necessary for every sophomore and freshmen who have not been excused to present himself.

Lieutenant Phinney, commander of cadets, issued an order call for the men to report as quickly as possible. He prepared before the first drill. The members of the organization should have an endorsement from the head of the military drill.

About 500 cadets were present, and a great deal of work and progress has been made. Captain Hazley and four squads lined up.

MILITARY NOTICES

All freshmen and sophomores, College, liberal arts and applied science, who are required to take drill, and who have not reported to the Commandant of Cadets,应在 fourth week, report without unnecessary delay. Freshmen inspeted, at once, with the secretaries of the university.

First Union Mixer Rouses Enthusiasm

CROWD OF FIVE HUNDRED MEN OUT LAST NIGHT FOR A GET-THERE

Special Report Made by Hazley, Adams and Stone—Fourth Orchestra Furnished Pure Music; Followed by Big Float

An unusually large crowd was on hand to attend the first Union mixer of the year which was held in the ball room last night.

Fouad’s orchestra gave special music throughout the evening which was all the more appreciated because the large crowds of people brought in the interest of the greater Iowa spirit and brotherhood which the Union represents.

Hawley, Adams and Bienen were the speakers of the evening. Coach Hazley presented the athletes with certificates of admission to the Union for their fine work of the coming year, which will commence to embrace Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 4:30 o’clock in the afternoon.
