now seem almost free, though let us note the flow of free association in his own mind for ten seconds and we will see a display of ideas and images in a rough and tumble struggle for recognition so rich and so rapid that he cannot speak fast enough to name them. There is in all our conscious support being raised entirely voluntary subscription.

The specific purpose of this campaign is two-fold: first, to enroll members; and second, to raise the finances necessary for the support of the work.

The association believes that it can best serve the student body by having the moral support of every student man and this it can do by getting each man to help the association and making him feel that as has a responsibility and interest in the association. Hence the campaign for membership.

Secondly, the association needs the financial support of the student body. The budget of the association will cover approximately fifteen dollars next year and the largest part of this must be raised through voluntary subscriptions.

support of the association. This support being raised entirely voluntarily subscription.

What the "F" is and Does

The Young Men's Christian Association of the Catholic men of the university work together in Christian fellowship both for their own benefit and for the moral betterment of the world. That is done in various ways. Religious and religious meetings are held every Wednesday night at a church which every man is invited. Special Bible study and mission study classes are organized for the benefit of the students. A series of high class musicales, which present some of the world's greatest artists is given each year under the direction of the association. A reading room containing the best newspapers and magazines of the country is accessible at all times to university men.

It was also largely through the efforts of the association that the service of respect is offered to which some of the leaders in religious thought will appear.

The association also operates an employment bureau for the benefit of any student who desires to have the advantages of its services. Last year more than two hundred students were helped to earn more than $10.00 toward their support while in school here.

It also aids men in finding rooms and locating places, which constitute in especially required at the beginning of school.

It further assists in various social and charitaible events purrping to furnish wholesome entertainment and to assist in the forming of right friendship. In short, the association attempts to serve every student in every way possible.
